Board of Trade, Whitehall,
July 3, 1862.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a despatch from Her Majesty's Minister at Washington, enclosing a copy of the following circular addressed by Mr. Seward to the United States Consuls, respecting the restrictions imposed upon Trade with certain Ports in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Louisiana.

Circular.—No. 13.

Department of State,
Washington, May 30, 1862.

To the

SIR,—Referring to Circular Letter of this Department, No. 12, dated May 12, transmitting the Proclamation of the President relaxing the blockade of certain ports of the United States, together with the Regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury in regard to trade with the ports thus opened by Proclamation, and prescribing your duties in the premises, I have now to transmit for your further information and guidance additional instructions upon the same subject.

The Secretary of the Treasury has communicated to this Department a copy of his letter of the 20th instant to Collectors of Customs at ports in the loyal States, prohibiting the shipment of certain articles, contraband of war, to the ports of Beaufort, in the State of North Carolina, Port Royal, in the State of South Carolina, and New Orleans, in the State of Louisiana.

All vessels having on board the articles which are thus indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury as contraband will be refused clearances for the ports above-mentioned, or either of them.

These articles are the following :

Cannons, Mortars, Fire-arms, Pistols, Bombs, Grenades, Firelocks, Flints, Matches, Powder, Saltpetre, Balls, Bullets, Pikes, Swords, Sulphur, Helmet or Boarding Caps, Sword Belts, Saddles and Bridles (always excepting the quantity of the said articles which may be necessary for the defence of the ship and of those who compose the crew), Cartridge Bag material, Percussion and other Caps, Clothing adapted for uniforms, Resin, Sail Cloth of all kinds, Hemp and Cordage, Masts, Ship-timber, Tar and Pitch, Ardent Spirits, Military persons in the service of the enemy, Despatches of the enemy and articles of like character with those specially enumerated.

You are also informed that Collectors of Customs of the United States have been also instructed to require bonds, with sufficient sureties, conditioned for the faithful fulfilment of all the conditions imposed by law or Departmental Regulations from shippers of the following articles to the ports opened, or to any other ports from which they may easily be, and are probably intended to be, reshipped in aid of the existing insurrection, namely :

Liquors of all kinds, Coals, Iron, Lead, Copper, Tin, Brass, Telegraphic Instruments, Wire, Porous Cups, Platina, Sulphuric Acid, Zinc, and all other telegraphic materials, Marine Engines, Screw Propellers, Paddle-wheels, Cylinders, Cranks, Shafts, Boilers, Tubes for Boilers, Fire-bars, and every article or any other component part of an engine or boiler, or any article whatever which is, can, or may become applicable for the manufacture of Marine Machinery or for the Armour of Vessels.

In accordance with the spirit of these instructions to Collectors of Customs, by which stringent restrictions are imposed upon vessels of the United States, you are specially instructed to refuse licenses to all vessels which, whatever the ostensible destination, are believed by you, on satisfactory grounds, to be intended for ports or places in possession or under control of insurgents against the United States, or from whence there is imminent danger that the goods, wares, or merchandise, of whatever description, laden on such vessels, will fall into the possession or under the control of such insurgents; and in all cases where, in your judgment, there is ground for apprehension that any goods, wares, or merchandise shipped at your port, will be used, in any way, for the aid of the insurgents or the insurrection, or be transported to any place under insurrectionary control, and used to give aid or comfort to such insurgents.

In short you are specially instructed to refuse every application for a license for any vessel having on board as part of her cargo any of the articles designated in either of the lists furnished by the Secretary of the Treasury.

You will perceive that these lists have been prescribed under the powers conferred by law on the Secretary of the Treasury to regulate our domestic trade, and security by bond is required from all American shippers of goods to the designated ports against any abuse of the privilege, and you will readily understand that foreign shippers cannot be placed on a more favourable footing than American merchants in the loyal ports of the United States.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JULY 15, 1862.

Foreign Office, July 15, 1862.

THE following correspondence has taken place between Earl Russell, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and His Excellency the Count de Flahault, Ambassador of His Majesty the Emperor of the French, respecting an alleged infraction of the 1st Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, of the 7th of March, 1857, relative to Portendick and Albreda :—

The Count de Flahault to Earl Russell.

My Lord, Albert Gate, 8 Juillet, 1862.

Je suis chargé par le Gouvernement de l'Empereur d'informer votre Excellence du fait suivant qui a eu lieu devant Portendick au mois de mai dernier et qui constitue une infraction à l'article 1er de la Convention du 7 mars, 1857, relative à Portendick et à Albreda. Il y est stipulé que le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique renonce au droit que les traités, ont jusqu'à present donné aux sujets de Sa Majesté Britannique de commercer depuis l'embouchure de la Rivière de St. Jean jusqu'à la baie et au fort de Portendick inclusivement.

Il résulte des informations parvenues au Gouvernement Français, qu'un bâtiment anglais a cherché, au mois de mai dernier, à nouer des relations commerciales avec les Maures, et à déterminer le Sheikh des Trazars à recevoir l'année prochaine deux bâtiments anglais qui viendraient établir sur la côte une escale ou deux.

Le Gouvernement Impérial ne doute pas que le Cabinet de la Reine ne prenne les dispositions nécessaires pour éviter le retour de semblables faits.

Veuillez agréer, &c.,
(Signé) FLAHAULT.

S. E. Lord Russell,

(Translation.)

My Lord, Albert Gate, July 8, 1862.

I AM directed by the Government of the Emperor to inform your Excellency of the following fact, which took place before Portendick in the month of May last, and which constitutes an infraction of the 1st Article of the Convention of March 7, 1857, relative to Portendick and Albreda. It is there stipulated that the Government of Her Britannic Majesty gives up the right which treaties have heretofore allowed to subjects of Her Britannic Majesty to trade between the mouth of the river St. John and the bay and fort of Portendick, inclusive.

It appears from information which has reached the French Government, that an English vessel attempted, in the month of May last, to form commercial relations with the Moors, and to persuade the Sheikh of the Trazars to receive next year two English vessels which are to arrive for the purpose of establishing one or two landing places on the coast.

The Imperial Government has no doubt that Her Majesty's Government will take the necessary steps to prevent the repetition of similar occurrences.

Receive, &c.,

(Signed) FLAHAULT.

The Earl Russell.

Earl Russell to the Count de Flahault.

MONSIEUR L'AMBASSADEUR, July 14, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Excellency's letter of the 8th instant, calling my attention to an alleged infraction of the 1st Article of the Convention between this country and France, of the 7th of March, 1857, relative to Portendick and Albreda, by a British vessel, which is stated to have endeavoured, in the month of May last, to enter into certain commercial arrangements with the Moors in that quarter.

I have the honour to assure your Excellency, in reply to your representation, that the Convention to which your Excellency refers will be faithfully observed, so far as may depend upon Her Majesty's Government; and I shall not fail to communicate to the proper Departments of Her Majesty's Government the statements contained in your Excellency's letter.

I have, &c.,

Admiralty, July 14, 1862.

A DESPATCH, of which the following is a copy, has been received from Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope, the Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels on the East India and China Station:

CAPTURE OF THE CITY OF NINGPO.

No. 196. Najaor,
MY LORD, May 17, 1862.

YOU will be pleased to lay before the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty the accompanying copy of a dispatch from Captain Dew, of the Encounter, detailing the capture of the city of Ningpo, by the squadron under his orders, assisted by two French gun-boats.

2. Taking into view the very small force at Captain Dew's disposal for storming the walls, this achievement is of a character which reflects the very highest credit on the conduct of all who were engaged in it, and fully justifies the entire reliance I placed on his judgment and ability when I ordered him on a service which I foresaw would require a very large measure of both.

3. The immediate departure of the mail precludes my bringing, in detail, the circumstances which led to this collision with the rebels, under the review of their lordships—this I propose to do by the next opportunity.

4. Two hundred of Colonel Ward's Chinese troops detached for the protection of the foreign settlement arrived the day after the action, and five hundred more have since been despatched, which will constitute a garrison sufficient to ensure the safety of the city.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) J. HOPE,
Vice-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Right. Hon. Lord Clarence Paget, C.B.,

REPORTING ATTACK AND CAPTURE OF NINGPO.

H.M.S. Encounter, Ningpo,
May 10, 1862.

SIR,

I FOUND it necessary to capture the city of Ningpo and drive the rebels out under the following circumstances.

You are aware, Sir, that the rebel chiefs had been informed that if they again fired, either on our ships or in the direction of the settlement, we should deem it a casus belli.

This morning, at 10 A.M., the Kestrel and French vessels, Etoile and Confucius, were fired on by the Point battery. I cleared for action in this ship, when a volley of musketry was fired on us from the bastion abreast.

The undermentioned vessels, viz., Encounter, Ringdove, Kestrel, and Hardy, with the Etoile and Confucius, French gun-boats, now opened fire, with shell, on the walls and batteries, which was replied to with much spirit from guns and small arms.

At noon, having silenced the guns and knocked down the battlements, exposing the top of the wall, 25 feet thick, at a point where I intended to scale, I ceased firing and went to dinner. At 2 I landed and installed a party of Marines, under Mr. Alexander D. Douglas, Midshipman, in a house commanding the walls, got scaling ladders ready, and when joined by Lieutenant Kenney, the senior French naval officer, I scaled the walls, meeting with a most determined resistance; 'twas here the gallant Kenney, one of the first on the wall, was dangerously wounded.

I now advanced and took possession of the Salt Gate, keeping up a heavy fire on the enemy, who under cover of the houses, returned it. At 4 p.m. I sent the Hardy, Kestrel, and Confucius, with orders to cut away the bridge of boats, pass up, and shell the south and west gates: this duty was most ably performed under a galling fire, kept under by the Confucius and Hardy, whilst Lieutenant Henry Huxham landed on the bridge —spiked the guns in battery, there. whilst Mr. Leach, Assistant-Engineer, 2nd Class, cut the chains—then opened the bridge, when the three vessels passed up into position.

In the meantime the enemy made desperate efforts to regain the Salt Gate by front and flank attacks, and in one of these latter, the bayonet and spear nearly met; it was when leading on his men in one of these charges, that Lieutenant Wm. N. Cornewall fell. Words cannot express our sorrow for the loss of this gallant and amiable officer.

At 5 o'clock, owing to the flank movements, all opposition ceased, when we passed on to the North Gate, and joined Commander Robert G. Craigie, who had scaled the walls and taken the gate with some opposition.

From the masthead the rebels were seen to leave the city, so I returned to the Salt Gate, placed the Taoa-tai and Imperial soldiers, who now landed from their junks, in charge of the city, and re-embarked our own and the French people.

I was most ably assisted throughout the day by Lieutenant Kenney, and Monsieur Caligny, commanding the Etoile and Confucius respectively, and the men under their orders; the severe wound which deprived me of the services of Lieutenant Kenney is much to be regretted, and the manner the Confucius was handed and fought, reflects the highest credit on her commander.

I esteem myself peculiarly fortunate in having had such able gun-boat commanders, as Lieutenants Huxham and Archibald G. Bogle; the manner they worked their vessels in this narrow river, with a spring tide running, and the beautiful practice of their guns when close under the city walls and exposed to round shot and musketry, is beyond all praise; they speak highly of the conduct of their officers and men.

I have much pleasure in bringing to your notice the conduct of the officers and men under my orders; where all behaved so well distinction would be inviduous. Lieutenant Hugh Davis, with Mr. H. H. Rawson, Midshipman, commanded the seamen when Lieutenant Cornewall fell. Acting-Lieutenant E. C. Tinling, ably assisted by Mr. William Cantlow, Boatswain of this ship, got the howitzer on the walls and into action. Mr. James B. Scarlett, Assistant-Engineer, 2nd Class, a volunteer, was one of the first on the walls; Dr. A. Irwin, Surgeon, of this ship, was continually under fire when attending the wounded.

When on the wall, the ship was in charge of Mr. Edmund Swain, Master, and he was of great service with Mr. William Ferns, Gunner, in covering our landing with the pivot gun, manned by cooks and stewards.

Mr. Hewletts, Acting Interpreter, did good service, and in the performance of which, when in company with Mr. John Ashton, Assistant Paymaster, he was repeatedly exposed to the fire from the walls.

I regret that our casualties, a list of which I I beg to inclose, are so many; but under the circumstances, considering the vermin nature of these rebels, I felt that if one blow was not followed by another, most serious consequences might result to the foreign settlement, and the shelling having had but little effect, our very safety rested on the capture of the city.

The delight displayed by the Chinese at the fall of the city, and the driving out their hated oppressors, was something extraordinary; throughout the day the bank of the river, opposite the city, was one sea of heads, and though round shot and bullets flew plentifully about them, they never moved.

I enclose a plan of the attack.

I have, &c.,

Captain and Senior Officer.

LONDON GAZETTE of JULY 18, 1862.

Whitehall, July 17, 1862.

THE following Address of Congratulation to the Queen, on the occasion of the Marriage of Her Royal Highness The Princess Alice with

His Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, for Presentation, has accordingly been presented by him to Her Majesty, who has been pleased to receive the same very graciously.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

The dutiful and loyal Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of the City and County of the City of Norwich, in Council Assembled.

May it please your Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of the city and county of the city of Norwich, beg to approach your Majesty with the expression of our fervent congratulations on the auspicious Marriage of Her Royal Highness The Princess Alice with His Grand Ducal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, an alliance which, having received the express sanction of your Majesty and of His late Royal Highness The Prince Consort, cannot fail to be a continual source of comfort to your Majesty; and by drawing still closer the bonds of union between the illustrious Protestant Houses of the Continent and our Royal Family, affords to your Majesty's subjects an additional security for the maintenance of their Protestant Faith and most cherished institutions.

The unremitting attention, the deep sympathy, the thoughtful consideration and noble devotion which Her Royal Highness displayed in the hour of your Majesty's most overwhelming affliction, have secured for Her Royal Highness not only the cordial approbation but also the sincere attachment of all your Majesty's subjects.

We derive much pleasure from the hope that Her Royal Highness will reside a considerable portion of every year in this country, and thus by her presence conduce to your Majesty's happiness and be a source of gratification to the country at large.

The prayers of your Majesty's faithful subjects are daily offered to the Throne of Grace that Almighty God may sustain your Majesty in those important and arduous duties which now more especially devolve on your Majesty as a Constitutional Monarch, and we earnestly pray that your Majesty may long reign over an attached, grateful, and Christian people.

And we shall ever pray.

War Office, July 18, 1862.

DESPATCHES, of which the following are copies, have been received at the War Office from Brigadier-General Staveley, C.B., commanding Her Majesty's Troops in China:—

No. 22. Head Quarters, Shanghai,
SIR, April 19, 1862.

IN my letter of the 6th instant (extract annexed) I reported to the Military Secretary, for the information of His Royal Highness the General Commanding-in-Chief, that, in compliance with the instructions received from Her Majesty's Minister at Pekin, to drive the rebels from the vicinity of Shanghai, the Naval and Military force at my disposal made a successful attack, on the 14th instant, on the intrenched rebel camp of On-katz, 2 miles from Shanghai.

2. I have now to report the capture of Tserpoo, another of the strongholds of the rebels, by a combined English and French Naval and Military force.

Tserpoo is situated seven miles up a creek running into the Woosung river, 12 miles above and on the opposite bank to Shanghai, and is one of the principal places on that side of the Woosung river, from whence the rebels devastated the country. Vice-Admiral Sir J. Hope and the French Admiral Protêt, having placed under my orders the seamen, troops, and guns detailed in the margin,* the force, with the regiments under my immediate command, numbering in all 1951 men and 12 guns, as per accompanying return, was conveyed in gunboats, and landed at the mouth of the Tserpoo Creek on the morning of the 17th instant. By 2 P.M the force had arrived in front of Tserpoo, a long and very strongly entrenched stockade and partly-walled town.

* ENGLISH:—293 Seamen and Marines; 3 12-pounder howitzers. FRENCH:—400 Seamen and Zephyrs; 5 mountain-guns.

The part I selected for attack, though composed of 2 small bastions and a curtain, each bastion mounting 2 guns, appeared the easiest of approach.

Having thrown out Captain Burton's detachment of the 99th Regiment and a company of French Zephyrs to cover the advance of the guns, the former took advantage of some good cover afforded by ruined houses 200 yards from the rebel works, the English Naval and Royal Artillery guns took up a position on some mounds to the right rear of the skirmishers, at a distance of 400 yards from the wall, the French guns being in the left rear of the covering party.

The infantry and small-arms men of the Navy, provided with bridges, ladders, and axes, being under cover, and in immediate support of the guns.

After 5 rounds of shell from each gun, all which burst in and over the works with great precision, the English and French skirmishers, urged by the spirit of rivalry which invariably breaks out on such occasions, made a sudden rush at the place, compelling me to cause the guns to cease firing, and the 5th Bombay Native Light Infantry to dash up to the immediate support of the skirmishers; and thus, with the assistance of the bridges and axe-parties of the 5th Bombay Native Light Infantry and Royal Navy, the difficulties offered by a brisk fire from the rebels, an abattis of felled trees, two staked ditches, and a 14-feet wall flanked by 2 bastions, were overcome with—considering the strength of the place — the trifling loss noticed in the margin.*

* Casualties.—Her Majesty's 99th Regiment, 1 private killed; Her Majesty's 5th Bombay Native Light Infantry, 1 wounded; 22nd Bombay Native Light Infantry, 1 wounded; Total — 1 killed, 2 wounded. Commander Daverrones, Aide-de-Camp to Admiral Protêt, wounded.

I shall do myself the honour to report, by the next mail, the measures contemplated by Sir J. Hope, Admiral Protêt, and myself, for the further expulsion of the insurgents from this neighbourhood.

I have the honour, &c.

(Signed) C. W. D. STAVELEY,
Brigadier-General
Commanding in China.

19th April, 1862.

Extract of Letter addressed to the Military Secretary, Horse Guards, dated Shanghai, April 6, 1862, referred to in the foregoing Despatch.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of His Royal Highness the General Commanding-in-Chief that, in consequence of instructions I received from Mr. Bruce, Her Majesty's Minister at Peking, to drive the rebels from the vicinity of Shanghai, I attacked on the 4th instant a camp containing about 9,000 rebels, twelve miles distant from this place, with a force numbering in all 1,700 men and 12 shell guns, and composed as follows, viz., 400 seamen and marines and 3 guns, placed at my disposal by Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope; 300 seamen and 4 guns, placed at my disposal by the French Admiral Protêt; half a company of Royal Artillery, with 4 mountain guns and 1 24-howitzer, under Captain Bradshaw, R.A.; 70 men of the 99th Regiment, under Captain Burton; the 5th Bengal Native Infantry, under Lieutenant-Colonel Stanley; and the 22nd Punjabees, under Major Stafford. The latter military forces being under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Moody, Royal Engineers, the officer in command of the troops at Shanghai.

Colonel Ward, of the Imperial Army, who has been drilling some Chinese, also assisted with 200 of his men.

After about three-quarters of an hour's shelling the rebels bolted from their stronghold, which consisted of a chain of forts very strongly stockaded and entrenched ; we pursued them for about two miles, and then returned and burned their camp.

The loss of the rebels was about 300 ; the casualties on our side, 1 sepoy, of the 5th Bengal Native Infantry, killed, and two privates of the 22nd Punjabees, slightly wounded.

I have, &c.,
C. STAVELEY, Brigadier-General,
Commanding in China.

P.S.—Lieutenant Birch, of the 22nd Punjabees, who was my only Staff officer, was most active, not only during the action, but in making preparations for the expedition.

Head Quarters, Shanghai,

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to transmit for your information copy of an agreement which has been made between Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope, the French Admiral Protêt, and myself, for the protection of Shanghai.

The red line on the accompanying plan shows the limit to the extent of country which we have thought it necessary to clear of the rebels with a view to the safety of Shanghai, and to the supplies of provisions for the support of its population.

Mr. Bruce having consented to the evacuation of Tientsin, I have arranged with Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope, that all the troops in the north, with the exception of a garrison of half a battery of Royal Artillery, and 500 men of the 6th Regiment at Taku, come to Shanghai to assist in the operations decided upon in the accompanying copy of agreement.

When these troops arrive from the north, I shall have at my disposal 2,824 men and 22 guns, as detailed in the margin;* a force, I consider, as regards the resistance the rebels may offer, capable, with the assistance of the two 32-pounder guns worked by the Royal Navy, of effecting anything that may be required in this country, supposing of course that the Imperialists occupy and hold the places we take for them, and which they have undertaken to do.

I have, &c.,

Brigadier-General.

The Right Honourable the Secretary of State for War, War Office.

* Royal Artillery, 10 officers, 317 Non-commissioned Officers and Men; 5th Bengal Native Infantry, 8 European and 11 Native Officers and 504 Non-commissioned Officers and Men; 22nd Bengal Native Infantry, 10 European and 12 Native Officers, and 577 Non-commissioned Officers and Men; 31st Regiment, 23 Officers and 1019 Non-commissioned Officers and Men; 67th Regiment, 9 Officers and 329 Non-commissioned Officers and Men; 99th Regiment, 4 Officers and 78 Non-commissioned Officers and Men — Total, 64 European and 23 Native Officers, and 2824 Non-commissioned Officers and Men. 6 12-pounder Armstrong guns; 7 4⅖-inch howitzers; 6 5½-inch mortars; 2 9-pounder guns; 1 24-pounder howitzer.—Total 22.

Shanghai, April 22, 1862.

Present,—

Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope,
Brigadier-General Staveley.
Le Contre Amiral Protêt.

Agreed,

1st. That it is necessary, for the defence of Shanghai, to occupy Kading, Tsing-poo, Sung-Keoug, Najaor, and Tsao-lin, by which means a district of country will be secured sufficient in extent, to afford the supplies requisite for the support of its numerous population, and to keep the rebels at a distance, which will preclude the continuance of that state of alarm which has prevailed during the last few months, and which has been so detrimental to its commerce.

2nd. Colonel Ward at present occupies Sung-Keoug, and he undertakes, as soon as Singpoo is taken, to establish his head-quarters there and to hold it: the Chinese authorities have undertaken, and will be required to furnish sufficient garrisons for Kading, Najaor, and Tsao-lin; in each of the two first of which it will also be expedient to place two hundred troops, half English and half French, in support of the Chinese, until Colonel Ward's force is sufficiently augmented to enable him to replace them by three hundred of his men.

3rd. Previous to the capture of Kading and the other towns from the rebels, proper arrangements shall be made to prevent any men leaving their ranks for the purpose of pillage; and subsequently to collect whatever may be of value, in order to its fair distribution amongst the troops, to whom the same is to be made known before the commencement of the operations.

4th. After the proposed operations have been brought to a successful conclusion, it is intended to retain at Shanghai, 500 French Infantry, and of English, a half battery of Artillery, 250 European and 350 Native Infantry.

May 3, 1862.

Head Quarters, Shanghai,
May 3, 1862.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to report for your information, and with a view to carrying out the plan of operations detailed in my letter of the 25th ultimo. that the walled city of Kading was taken from the rebels by escalade, on the 1st instant, by Her Majesty's troops under my immediate command, together with the seamen and marines of the Royal Navy, and the French troops placed at my disposal respectively, by Vice-Admiral Sir J. Hope, K.C.B., and Admiral Protet, of His Imperial Majesty's Navy.

2. On the 26th April part of the force left Shanghai and arrived at the ruined town of Nezang, some 5 miles from Kading, where they found the rebels in occupation of two small, but strongly intrenched stockades, on the Kading side of the town, and within gunshot of its suburb.

3. On the 27th I moved out with 4 mountain guns and 300 men, to reconnoitre these posts, and in effecting my object, I regret having to report, that the Fort Adjutant of Shanghai (Lieutenant Brown, 5th Regiment Bombay Native Light Infantry) and a private of the 67th Regiment, were dangerously wounded.

4. I found the stockade resting on the principal canal, and commanding the direct road and water communication to Kading—singularly well defended by ditches, staked on either side, 5 or 6 feet deep, and too broad for the plank bridges with which the force was provided.

5. I resolved, therefore, to turn the position, and on the morning of the 29th, passed the mountain guns and most of the troops over the canals, on the left of the stockades by means of pontoons, while the heavier guns shelled the enemy from the front.

6. As soon as it became apparent to the rebels that they were about to be surrounded, they quitted the stockade in disorder by the rear entrance, running the gauntlet of a fire from the 31st Regiment and 22nd Punjaub Native Infantry, at point blank range.

7. The 31st Regiment, followed by the remainder of the force, was then moved on in rapid pursuit, so that the rebels had not time to break down the bridges over the creeks and canals, between their recent position and Kading.

8. The whole force arrived in front of Kading in the course of the day.

9. The next day was spent in reconnoitring the city, and landing the heavy guns which had been brought up in boats by the main canal from Shanghai.

10. We found Kading to be a square walled town, with projecting gateways, mounting four guns in the centre of each face, thus furnishing flanking defences. The wall, including an eight feet parapet, measured thirty-one feet in height. The moat, which was thirty feet from the wall, was forty-five feet broad, and seven deep, strongly staked and stockaded on both sides.

11. One hour before dawn on the 1st instant, the English and French guns were in position, and the troops in their respective places under cover in a ruined suburb.

At daylight the guns opened on the parapet, gateway, and flanking defences in our front, and in an hour and a-half had so far performed their work as to render an escalade practicable.

12. A bridge of boats was then formed by the navy, and the storming parties of the troops, Royal Navy, and French escaladed the walls without resistance.

13. About 1000 rebels were taken prisoners and some hundreds were killed in the city. The Chinese General, Lee, whom I had placed outside the gates so as to cut off the retreat of the insurgents, reported to me, that his troops had destroyed 2,300 of the enemy.

14. I have the satisfaction to state that these operations were performed with comparatively slight loss to Her Majesty's forces.

15. The troops returned this day to Shanghai, leaving a garrison of 200 British and 200 French troops to hold Kading until relieved by organised Imperialists.

16. A considerable amount of silver and a large quantity of rice was taken in the town, and I have much satisfaction in reporting that the orders previously given, forbidding individual plundering, were obeyed by Her Majesty's troops, seamen, and marines, to the letter.

17. The English and French admirals and myself propose our next operation being directed on the walled city of Tsingpoo, and I feel confident that we shall be in possession of it, and the other towns which complete the circuit of our limit of operations, in the course of three weeks, and before the hot weather sets in.

18. I beg to transmit a return of the troops, &c., employed in the recent operations, as well as a list of casualties; respecting the latter, I am happy to state that those dangerously wounded are considered likely to recover.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) D. STAVELEY,
Brigadier-General,
Commanding Her Britannic Majesty's
Troops in China.

The Right Honourable the Secretary of State for War, War Office, Pall Mall, London.

LOFTUS MANSERGH.

Head Quarters, Soonkong,
May 14, 1862.

SIR,

My letter of the 25th ultimo has already apprised you of the plan of operations agreed upon by Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope, Admiral Protêt, of His Imperial Majesty's navy, and myself, for driving the rebels from Shanghai, to a radius of 30 miles.

I reported the first step taken in the above operations in the capture of Kading.

2. I have now to inform you that the walled cityof Tsingpoo was taken by escalade on the 12th instant, by Her Britannic Majesty's land forces and the seamen, marines, and troops placed at my disposal by the British and French Admirals.

3. The force employed in the operation is detailed in the accompanying return.

4. The expedition left Shanghai, in steamers, on the 7th instant, and rendezvoused the same night at the Imperialists' town of Soonkong, situated about half way between Shanghai and Tsingpoo.

The next day it was embarked in small country boats, so as to proceed up the creek or canal leading to Tsingpoo, where it arrived on the 9th inst.

The 10th and 11th were occupied in reconnoitring the city and works, and in making preparations for the attack.

5. Tsingpoo I found to be about 3 miles in circumference, entirely surrounded by a wall 25 feet high, and a ditch 10 feet deep and 60 feet wide, the approaches affording but little cover, and canals intersecting the neighbourhood almost every 200 yards, rendering the country impassable except by means of bridges. Upon the walls several guns were mounted, varying from 6 to 18-pounders, and very many large gingalls.

6. Having decided on the point of attack, the whole of the guns and troops, with the axe, ladder, covering and storming parties were in position by 4 A. M. the 12th instant. Parties of British and French seamen were placed under cover in small boats in canals leading into the moat, ready when the moment arrived to push forward and form bridges. At daylight the heavy guns opened fire, and by 7 A. M. two practicable breaches were established in the wall, the British Naval 32-pounders and especially a French rifled 64-pounder gun, which was worked from the only gun-boat whose draught of water enabled its being brought up, doing great execution.

7. The English and French bridge parties under the protection of coverers now cleared the stakes in the canals leading into the moat, and established two bridges across it.

8. As soon as the bridges were reported ready, the French ladder and storming parties on the right, and the English, consisting of detachments of the 31st, 67th Regiments, and 22nd Punjab Native Infantry, on the left, advanced, the whole of the small guns being dragged forward and opening fire at the parapet during the movement.

The enemy, however, did not quit the walls, but kept up a smart fire from gingalls up to the moment our men gained the top of the breach.

9. The troops having established themselves within the walls, the city was given in charge to Colonel Ward, of the Imperial Service, and the allied force withdrawn.

10. The next day the whole of the troops returned to Soonkong to prepare for further operations on the opposite side from Shanghai of the Woosung River.

11. We found that the rebels had built on the inside of the parapet a strong stockade, which extended all round the city, this, with the parapet, formed a passage which was covered with a beamed and tiled roof for protection; this roof, however, did not afford much safety to the defenders, four Armstrong guns having been placed in a position to partly enfilade the wall, almost every shell entered through the roof, and burst between the parapet and the stockade.

12. During the attack the city was surrounded by the Imperial troops, and Colonel Ward reports to me, that the whole garrison has been made prisoners.

13. In transmitting a list of casualties, I much regret having to report the death of Captain Bradshaw, R.A., from exposure and over exertion on the march to Tsingpoo; in him the service has lost a most zealous and energetic officer.

The health of the troops I have the satisfaction of reporting as being excellent.

I have, &c.,

Brigadier-General Commanding
H.B.M.'s Troops in China.

SIR, Najow, May 18, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to report for your information the capture yesterday of the fortified town of Najow by the allied British and French forces, and I might have added with trifling loss, had it not been for the death of Admiral Protêt, Commanding H.I.M. Naval Forces in China, who was unfortunately shot through the heart during the advance of the storming party.

In Admiral Protêt the French Navy has lost a most able and zealous officer, and one whose hearty energetic co-operation greatly conduced to the success of the recent operations.

The mail being on the eve of departure, I must defer entering into details of the attack until another opportunity.

A return of casualties, so far as I have been enabled to ascertain, is enclosed,

The humble and congratulatory Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the borough of Kingston-upon-Hull, in Common Council Assembled.

Most Gracious and Beloved Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal and devoted subjects, beg to approach your Majesty for the purpose of offering our most sincere congratulation upon the Marriage of your Majesty's beloved Daughter, the Princess Alice Maud Mary, with His Grand Ducal Highness Prince Frederic William Louis of Hesse.

We hail with satisfaction this event, believing, as we do, that the union of the Princess is founded upon a pure and affectionate attachment to the object of her free unfettered choice, a Prince who is worthy of the high honour of being a member of your Majesty's august Family.

We believe that this Marriage is welcomed by all your Majesty's subjects as the prelude of increased happiness to your Majesty, in the probability of the personal residence of the Princess in this country, whereby she will continue to afford to your Majesty the gratifying solace of her tender attention in alleviating the irreparable loss which your Majesty has so lately sustained by the lamented decease of your Royal Consort.

be granted to them by Providence, and that your Majesty may long live to witness their prosperity, is the earnest prayer of your attached and loyal subjects the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the borough of Kingston-upon-Hull.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of the City of Rochester, in the county of Kent, desire to approach the Throne with the expression of our warmest and most sincere congratulations, on the auspicious marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice with His Grand Ducal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse; an alliance which having received the express sanction of your Majesty and of His late Royal Highness the Prince Consort, cannot, under God's blessing, fail of being a source of comfort and happiness to your Majesty.

The many noble and amiable qualities of Her Royal Highness, her unselfish devotion and thoughtful consideration, so conspicuously displayed by her in your Majesty's late deep affliction, have won for Her Royal Highness a high place in the affections of all your Majesty's subjects; and it is a source of great pleasure to us, and to the country at large, that there is a great probability that Her Royal Highness will spend some portion of every year in this country, and thus conduce to your Majesty's happiness and comfort by her presence.

That the Almighty may, in his infinite mercy, support and strengthen your Majesty under the arduous and important duties which devolve on the sovereign of this great empire, and that your Majesty may long be spared to reign over an attached, grateful, and happy people, is the earnest prayer of all your Majesty's loyal and faithful subjects.

Given under the corporate seal of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Citizens of Rochester, this 26th day of July, in the year of our Lord, 1862.

Also the following Address on the same subject:

War Office, August 4, 1862.

THE following Despatches have been received by the Secretary of State for War from Brigadier-General Staveley, C.B., commanding H.M.'s Troops in China:—

No. 32. Head Quarters, Shanghai,
SIR, May 31, 1862.

ON the 18th instant I did myself the honour to report to you briefly the capture of Na-jow, a rebel stronghold on the south side of the Woosung River, and twenty miles distant from Shanghai. I have now to detail the particulars of the operation.

On the day after the capture of Tsing-poo, the force proceeded in small country boats to Najow, where it arrived on the 16th instant. This town was found to be strongly entrenched and stockaded, about two miles in circumference, with an outwork commanding it, and a creek which ran into the town. I decided upon shelling the defenders out of the outwork and establishing a breaching battery on its reverse. Two French naval 30-pounders, six Armstrong guns, and four mortars, were accordingly got into position, and opened fire at five o'clock on the evening of the 17th instant, and in an hour, the outwork having been rendered untenable, a storming party, composed of 250 men of the 31st Regiment, and the same number of French Chasseurs and Marines, advancing to take possession, dashed through it under a brisk fire of match-locks and jingals, and, finding a pathway through the stakes and planks over the ditches right up to the wall, took advantage thereof, and got into the place by climbing through the embrasures or over the stockades.

It was during this advance that the French Naval Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Protêt, whose death I have already reported, was killed.

As it was of importance that this place should be held until the Chinese authorities should place a garrison in it, 200 British and 120 French troops were left there.

A return of casualties is appended, marked A.

On the 18th instant, the force marched for Cho-lin, six miles from Najow, the guns, provisions, and baggage, being conveyed in country boats, it being found impracticable to make arrangements for their transport by land, owing to the numerous canals and very narrow bridges which intersected the line of march.

Cho-lin is a walled town, three miles in circumference, surrounded by a wet ditch, and situated about one mile from the sea.

On the morning of the 19th instant, the garrison was observed to be engaged in destroying some houses, distant about eighty yards from the walls, and close to a small entrenchment which was placed between these houses and the walls. As these buildings were of value to me for cover, I directed that they should be at once taken possession of, which was done by a company of the 67th Regiment, under cover of the fire of two British naval 32-pounders from the front, and an enfilading fire of two Armstrong guns from the right.

A creek running directly into the ditch under the walls afforded means of passing boats along, and so establishing a bridge for the passage of the assaulting parties.

During the night of the 19th two British naval 32-pounders, two French naval 30-pounders, six Armstrong guns, and five field-pieces, were placed in position. The Armstrongs on the right, to enfilade the wall, and the other guns in front of our position for breaching purposes.

At daylight, on the 20th, the guns opened fire, and at 6 A.M. two breaches having been made, a bridge was established, and the troops entered the place without opposition.

I forward a list of casualties, marked B.

On the evening of this day, and as we were preparing to advance on the next rebel town, news reached me from Shanghai that the Imperialist troops in the neighbourhood of Kading had advanced beyond that place, and been completely cut up or taken prisoners by the rebels; that Kading itself, garrisoned temporarily by the Allies, was invested; that the town of Woo-sung was threatened, and that the Chinese authorities had declared themselves unable to meet their engagement to place garrisons in the towns we might capture.

Under these circumstances I decided upon returning to Shanghai, to reopen communication with Kading, where provisions and ammunition were running short.

On the 24th instant I left Shanghai with the force detailed in the accompanying statement, marked C, and arrived at Nai-zain, six miles from Kading, the same day. All the guns, ammunition, and provisions, owing to the impossibility of carrying them across narrow bridges over innumerable canals, being conveyed in boats in charge of the Royal Navy. The day succeeding our arrival at Nai-zain, and while the boats were, in consequence of the lowness of the tide, unable to reach us, the rebels, who appeared in very great force, attacked us in the town in front and flanks continually during the day, and eventually in the evening made a movement round to our rear towards the boats. In all these attacks they were driven back with loss, the casualties on our side being but few, viz.: one sepoy, 22nd Punjaub Native Infantry, killed; and four sepoys of the same corps, wounded.

The night following these attacks, one side of a street in Nai-zain (in which were housed a few gunners, R.A., and the Chinese Gun Lascar Company) fell down, killing 19 and injuring 75 of the Chinese, and 3 men, Royal Artillery; this accident is attributed to the coolies having made use of some of the timbers of the houses for fire-wood.

It now appearing that the difficulties of transport were very great, that the boats (our sole means for conveyance) were constantly grounding in the shallow creeks, while the enemy continued to hover round us, rendering a lengthened line of boats most dangerous and difficult to protect, and taking into consideration the harassing nature of the service for the troops at the present season, together with the fact that the Chinese authorities had declared themselves unable to garrison the captured town as they had engaged to do, and seeing that the occupation of Kading alone did not prevent the rebels from ravaging the country between it and Shanghai, I resolved upon withdrawing the garrison from that place, and accordingly sent a column of 500 men and 4 mountain guns, under Lieutenant-Colonel Stanley, 5th Bombay Native Infantry, to Kading, with instructions to bring the garrison out, and return to Nai-zain: this operation was performed without a casualty, the rebels retreating before the column as it advanced.

On the 28th instant the force returned to Shanghai.

The accompanying copy of letter (marked D) I have addressed to Her Majesty's Minister at Pekin, will show you that the Chinese authorities are scarcely able to make any effort whatever for their own defence, and that with the force at my command I feel, under present circumstances, unable to do more than protect the city of Shanghai itself.

The rebels are now in force, investing Tsing-poo and Soong-Kong, and have marauding parties ten miles from Shanghai, driving in the country people and burning their houses in every direction. I apprehend, therefore, that the crops will remain ungathered, and that famine must be the consequence.

As Shanghai, if attacked, will, I consider, require all the available troops in this part of the country for its defence. I shall retain the whole of the troops leaving Tien-Tsin, until I receive your instructions.

I have, &c.,

Commanding H.B.M. Troops in China.

No. 32. Head Quarters, Shanghai, May 30, 1862.

SIR,

MY letter of the 26th instant will have informed you that I found it necessary to withdraw the garrison from Kading, for the reasons therein stated.

I have since had an interview with the Viceroy, and find that the Imperial troops which I found here on my arrival from the north have disappeared altogether, having either been taken prisoners or destroyed by the rebels, and that the whole number of troops at his disposal are 4,500, brought by steamers last month from Ngankin, and these without a single musket among them.

He further informed me that the rebels are fast clearing out of the Pootung side of the Woosung river, and that the inhabitants of all the towns on that side had sent in their allegiance.

That the rebels are, however, in considerable force on the line between Soon-kong and Kading, burning the villages and destroying all around them.

I have now to inform you of the measures proposed under the circumstances.

You are aware that the town of Na-jow, situated midway between the Woosung river and the sea on the Pootung side, is held by the Allies, and that the walled town of Cholin was captured by them a short time since.

The Viceroy has engaged to place 1,000 of his troops in Nauwei, on the Poo-tung side, one of the towns which has recently sent in its allegiance. This leaves the Viceroy with only 3,500 men on the Shanghai side.

The force at my disposal is at present 1,643 infantry and 187 artillery, the French having 400 Chasseurs and 300 sailors.

The accompanying memorandum (Report annexed) by a Committee I appointed to report on the immediate defences of Shanghai, shows that nearly the whole of my troops are required for this purpose, besides the French force stationed here.

On the arrival of the remainder of the troops from the north, I shall be able to move out with a column and attack the rebels, should they venture to come near the city; but with so small a force, and not the slightest assistance to be expected from the Chinese troops, I consider that it will be useless and unsafe to attempt to do more than hold Shanghai itself, especially now that the hot weather is coming upon us.

I quite agree with you that the prospect of the Chinese being able to do anything for themselves, depends entirely upon their organizing a force of Chinese, trained by European officers, and armed with muskets.

The Viceroy, however, shows much reluctance in placing men at my disposal for this purpose, and says that if he engaged men they would not remain.

This is, I consider, because the pay he would give them would not render it worth their while to do so.

That they would remain, if properly paid and treated, may be inferred from the fact that a company of Royal Artillery here have a company of 280 Chinese drilled to the guns, and to assist in moving them, who not only adhere to their engagement, but are very willing, hardworking men, and behave well under fire.

I would, therefore, most strongly urge you to move the Chinese Government to place at my disposal 3,000 men for training, in the same manner as was done at Tien-Tsin, and that arrangements be made by which these men should be paid by our Commissariat, and the necessary funds be supplied from the Custom's revenue of Shanghai.

It might be still better if I were allowed to raise these men myself, and decide on the rate of pay they should receive, the Chinese finding the officers, clothing, barracks, &c.

I have, &c.

Shanghai, May 30, 1862.

THE Undersigned having assembled, in accordance with the orders of the Brigadier-General Commanding, proceed to examine and report upon the state of the defences around the settlement and city of Shanghai.

They are of opinion that for the defences as already existing, a force of 1400 infantry, 160 artillerymen, and 19 guns of sorts, will be required to be retained at Shanghai, and also that the force should be disposed as follows, viz.:—

	Infantry.	Guns.	Artillery.
1. Fort at Stone Bridge	100	3	24
2. For small fort at the junction of the line of defence with Soochou Creek	0	2	16
3. For the defence of the parapet from this point to the drawbridge on the road leading from the stone bridge	50	0	0
4. From this drawbridge to the battery on the rose stand for the defence of the parapet	50	0	0
5. To man the two 32-pounders proposed to be placed in battery at Rose stand	0	2	20
6. Reserve for support of the defenders of the parapet between the race stand and Souchow Creek	100	0	0
7. For defence of the parapet from the race stand to the road leading from the race course into the town	30	0	0
8. From the road to the junction of the English line of entrenchment with the Yang Tsingpan Creek for the defence of the parapet	220	2	20
9. Reserve to support the defenders of this line	300	6	48
10. Troops for the Ningpoo Joss-house	180	0	0
11. To man the city wall from Ningpoo Joss-house to the eastern suburb ...	200	0	0
12. To hold the American or Wallis Bridge and to leave a moveable column on Hong Que side	150	4	32
	1380	19	160

In drawing up this detail, the Undersigned have made no allusion to the portion of the defences lying between the Yang Ping Pau Creek and the city wall, nor to the defence of the eastern suburb, as these lines are held by the French.

They would call attention to this memorandum having been drawn up with respect to the defences, as now existing, and do not doubt but what with the modification of the line of defence, the force mentioned might be considerably reduced.

The Undersigned, in stating their opinion that 1400 men are necessary for the defence of Shanghai, have considered the force which was necessary to render the safety of the place beyond all doubt, and which would make the enemy give up all idea of attacking.

They have no doubt but that a very small force would repel an attack if made, but it would at the same time invite one.

They presume that the main object to be attained is to restore perfect confidence in the minds of the inhabitants as to their safety, and considering the importance of the interests at stake, would not consider they were justified in recommending the diminution of the force they mention, more especially so when it has been deemed advisable to withdraw our garrison from the towns lately captured from the rebels in the neighbourhood of Shanghai, a circumstance most likely to embolden them to undertake more daring operations than heretofore.

No. 34. Head Quarters, Shanghai,
SIR, June 2, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to report, that, during my absence with the Field Force on the south side of the Woosung river, the Officer commanding the Garrison, in concert with the Senior Naval Officer at Shanghai, thought it necessary to send to Kading a reinforcement of one naval 12-pounder howitzer, manned by sailors of the Royal Navy; also a supply of provisions and ammunition, escorted by a detachment of one Native Officer and 15 sepoys of the 5th Bombay Native Infantry, the whole under a Lieutenant of the Royal Navy.

At Nai-zain this party, unfortunately, was met by a large body of rebels: the gun, ammunition, and provisions lost, three sepoys of the 5th Bombay Native Infantry Regiment killed, and four taken prisoners.

Admiralty, August 4, 1862.

A DESPATCH, of which the following is a copy, was received at the Admiralty on the 28th ultimo, from Vice-Admiral Sir James Hope, K.C.B., the Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels on the East Indian and China Station:

OPERATIONS AGAINST THE REBELS IN THE VICINITY OF SHANGHAE.

No. 218. "Impérieuse," Shanghae,
MY LORD, June 3, 1862.

YOU will be pleased to acquaint the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that on the 18th ultimo the force under General Staveley and Commodore Kersanson moved up the creek from Najaor to Tsiolin, which town was taken on the morning of the 20th.

Information being received on that day of the irruption of a large number of rebels in the vicinity of Woosung, the force returned to Shanghae on the 22nd, leaving a garrison in Najaor with the view of eventually securing the Pootung Peninsula when the rebels shall have been entirely cleared out.

On the 24th, the force moved out to Nanseang; the 25th was occupied in closing up the boats which had been considerably retarded by want of water in the creek, during which day some desultory skirmishing took place with the rebels, who, in considerable numbers, surrounded the village on all sides except the south.

On the following morning the great mass of rebels had moved off to the westward, and the detachment noted in the margin* moved on to Kading, for the purpose of withdrawing the garrison, and returned the same evening, having effected their object without difficulty or loss.

On the 27th, the force returned to Shanghae, the last boat arriving on the following morning.

Between the 9th and the 18th, a force of Imperialist troops, consisting of from 7,000 to 10,000 men (got together by breaking up their camps at Tsipoo and Yakitun and withdrawing 2,000 men from the garrison of Paoshan,) was moved out to the vicinity of Taitseam, a town in the occupation of the rebels, where they suffered a severe defeat, and were entirely dispersed with the exception of a few hundred who got back to Pawoshan.

* Two mountain guns, 500 troops, Colonel Stanley; two 12-pounder field pieces, 40 Marines, Captain Willes.

This movement, ordered by the late Viceroy Sich in opposition to the remonstrances of the present Governor, by whom he has since been replaced, and without communication with the Allied commanders, with the design of effecting the capture of Taitnam, has resulted in completely uncovering the country to the westward of Shanghae, to which the camps at Tsipoo and Yakitun had afforded a certain amount of protection.

On the 18th, the rebels first appeared in the vicinity of Woosung and Paoshan, from whence they retired on the 21st, having failed in making any impression on the former town, the capture of which may have been in their contemplation.

On the same day the defeat of the Imperialists was heard of at Kading, and on the 21st the rebels were first seen in the neighbourhood of that town, occupying the village of Nanseang, by which its communication with Shanghae was cut off.

Between that day and the 25th, when the greater part of their force moved off to the westward, the town was more or less surrounded by large numbers of rebels, estimated at not less than 25,000, and was attacked on several occasions but without effect.

From Kading the rebels moved by Wangdon to Sekim, where they have established a camp of 20,000, men with two smaller posts of 5,000 and 3.000 men, in advance towards Sung-Keong, at Tsakapan and Tomkio, respectively.

They have also surrounded Tsing-pu in large numbers, which town is held by a garrison of 1,000 of Colonel Ward's troops, and they have established camps at Quang-fu-lung and higher up on the water communication to Tsing-pu, containing about 2,000 men each.

I have stationed the "Pearl" at Minhong, to maintain the communication with Najaor, and the "Centaur" at Sung-Keong for the like purpose.

On the morning of the 30th, probably on information that Colonel Ward with a portion of the garrison was absent for the purpose of throwing supplies into Tsing-pu, an attack was made on Sung-Keong by a body of 1,500 rebels, who were driven off with a loss of 100 by a party of the Centaur's people, under the orders of Lieutenant P. W. Stephens, 1 man being slightly wounded.

This party from the "Centaur" will rejoin their ship on the arrival of 300 of Colonel Ward's troops, which will return from Ningpo.

On the map which I forward, the recent operations of the troops, the movements of the rebels and their present positions are given, with as much accuracy as the information at my command, in regard to the topography of the country and other matters, will permit.

Having been present with the force, except at the capture of Kading, I avail myself of this occasion to express the sense I entertain of the general good conduct of the officers and men composing the Naval Brigade which has been employed with the troops, a return of which is annexed, and to bring under their Lordships' notice the names of those officers whose position has rendered them most prominent during a service, which, if unattended by any severe fighting, has involved a good deal of hard work, the material and supplies of the army being conveyed entirely by water, the chief labour of which naturally devolved on the Brigade.

The organization and management of the flotilla was conducted by Captain Borlase of the "Pearl," in command of the Brigade, assisted by Captain Willes of my Flag Ship, and Commanders Gibson of the "Impérieuse," and Strode of the "Vulcan," under whose immediate superintendence the guns were got into position, the bridges moved up for crossing the ditches, (operations generally performed at night and in close proximity to the enemy ;) and the other duties devolving on the Brigade were performed with a zeal and ability to which, in conjunction with that of the other officers, I ascribe their uniform success.

Such preliminary investigations of the creeks as became requisite in consequence of their complexity, were undertaken by Captain Willes, assisted by Mr. Dathan, Master of the Impérieuse, during the course of which he had an affair with the rebels in the vicinity of Tsiolin, described in the letter I annex. I have, &c.,

Camp of the Naval Brigad near the City of Cholin.

SIR, May 18, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to report, that from a early hour yesterday morning, a large body o well-equipped rebel troops were seen assemblin on a high bund, about three-quarters of a mile o our right flank. It was quite evident that th city had been reinforced during the previou night, and prisoners, since taken, state that the were from Vongmai. Later in the day troop were seen leaving the city by the East Gate, an gathering on our left flank. I felt then quit convinced that some hostile measure was intended and awaited the result with anxiety, but with th most perfect confidence.

About 2 P.M. the people on our right flan advanced in large numbers, whilst others sallie out from the city, amidst a frightful noise of gong and trumpets.

I directed our advanced piquet to fall back until met by Captain Holland and his party o Marines, with a few small arm men under Lieu tenant Grant, of the Vulcan.

A stand was here made, until a number of th rebels had passed the bridge and creek, and wer well down to our quarters.

The Marines and Seamen then advanced in most gallant manner, drove the assailants back a the point of the bayonet. Captain Holland wit the main body of his men passed the bridge, and continued his advances for a considerable distance. Lieutenant Grant, with his men, and First Lieutenant H. E. Sturt, Royal Marine Light Infantry, with a few Marines, forded the creek, which was between our quarters and the city, found the rebels in some out-houses, bayonetted them, and drove them up to the walls of the city. During this time Captain Strode kept up a well-directed fire from the three field pieces in their position near the boats.

About 5 P.M. the rebels, who had been collecting on our left flank, assisted by a few of the more spirited on the right, advanced with frightful yells. The 12-pounder howitzers played upon them with Shrapnell shell, and with good effect; whilst the Marines again advanced, and drove them back.

The loss to the assailants on each occasion was considerable, at least 40 killed, most of whom were fine well-dressed men, and armed with the old musket, marked "Tower."

I beg particularly to call your attention to the good conduct of the Marines, headed by their Captain, John Y. Holland, whose coolness and steadiness under fire render him an invaluable support; and this opinion is confirmed by the experience of nine occasions. And, in conclusion, I have to speak well of the steadiness of the whole force under me (under 200), and I feel convinced that had the attack been of a very much more serious nature, seconded by Commander Strode, I should have seen a similar result.

I have, &c.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of AUGUST 8, 1862.

The Speech of the Lords Commissioners to both Houses of Parliament, on Thursday, August 7, 1862.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

WE are commanded by Her Majesty to release you from further attendance in Parliament, and at the same time to convey to you Her Majesty's acknowledgments for the zeal and assiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the performance of your duties during the session now brought to a close.

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that Her relations with foreign powers are friendly and satisfactory, and that Her Majesty trusts there is no danger of any disturbance of the peace of Europe.

The civil war which has for some time been raging among the States of the North American Union, has unfortunately continued in unabated intensity; and the evils with which it has been attended have not been confined to the American continent. But Her Majesty having, from the outset, determined to take no part in that contest, has seen no reason to depart from the neutrality to which she has steadily adhered.

Disturbances have taken place in some of the frontier provinces of the Turkish Empire, and Her Majesty has instructed Her Ambassador at Constantinople to attend a conference to be held in that city by the representatives of the Powers who were parties to the Treaty of Paris of 1856. Her Majesty trusts that the questions to be dealt with in that conference will be settled in a manner consistent with the Treaty engagements of the Allies, and in accordance with the just rights of the Sultan, and the welfare of the christian inhabitants of his dominions.

Her Majesty's forces in China, together with those of the Emperor of the French, have lately been employed, in co-operation with those of the Emperor of China, in protecting some of the chief seats of British commerce in China from injury by the civil war which is laying waste portions of that vast empire.

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that she has concluded a Commercial Treaty with the King of the Belgians, by which the trade of Her Majesty's subjects in Belgium will be placed, generally, on the footing of the most favoured nation.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

Her Majesty commands us to convey to you her warm acknowledgments for the liberal supplies which you have granted for the service of the present year; and Her Majesty thanks you for having also made provision towards placing Her Majesty's dockyards and arsenals in a permanent state of defence.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

Her Majesty commands us to express to you the admiration with which she has witnessed the undiminished zeal and the patriotic spirit which continue to animate her Volunteer Forces, as well as the military efficiency which they have attained.

Her Majesty has observed with satisfaction the kindly intercourse which has subsisted between Her Majesty's subjects and the numerous foreigners who have been attracted this year to the United Kingdom, and Her Majesty trusts that the interchange of mutual courtesies will strengthen the foundations of international friendship and goodwill.

Her Majesty has given Her ready assent to an Act for carrying into effect the Treaty which Her Majesty has concluded with the President of the United States for the suppression of the slave trade; and Her Majesty trusts that the co-operation of the United States navy with her own may go far to extinguish the desolating crime against which that Treaty is directed.

Her Majesty earnestly hopes that the steps which have been taken for rendering more effectual the aid provided by Parliament for the extension of education among the poorer classes of Her subjects will tend to promote an object of great national importance.

Her Majesty has given Her willing assent to many measures of public utility which you have submitted to Her during this session.

The severe distress which prevails in some of the manufacturing districts, has inspired Her Majesty with deep concern and warm sympathy, mingled with admiration of the manly bearing and exemplary fortitude with which the pressure has been endured. Her Majesty trusts that the Act for enabling Boards of Guardians to provide additional means of relief, will mitigate that distress.

The Act for rendering more easy the transfer of land will add to the value of real property, will make titles more simple and secure, and will diminish the expense attending purchases and sales.

The Act for the better regulation of parochial assessments will tend to a more equal distribution of local taxation; while the Act for the better administration of the highways will, Her Majesty trusts, improve the means of communication in many parts of the country.

The Act for establishing a uniformity of weights and measures in Ireland will apply a remedy to inconveniences which have been much felt and complained of as affecting the trading transactions in that part of the United Kingdom; and the Act for amending the law relating to the poor will extend to the poorer classes of Her Majesty's subjects in Ireland better means of obtaining relief and medical attendance.

The Act for the better regulation of merchant shipping, Her Majesty trusts, will prove advantageous to the maritime commerce of the country.

In returning to your several counties, you will still have important duties to perform, and Her Majesty fervently prays that the blessing of Almighty God may assist your efforts, and may direct them to the attainment of the object of Her Majesty's constant solicitude, the welfare and happiness of Her people.

Then a Commission for proroguing the Parliament was read; after which the Lord Chancellor said:

My Lords and Gentlemen,

By virtue of Her Majesty's Commission, under the Great Seal, to us and other Lords directed, and now read, we do, in Her Majesty's name, and in obedience to Her commands, prorogue this Parliament to Friday the twenty-fourth day of October next, to be then here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Friday, the twenty-fourth day of October next.

LONDON GAZETTE of AUGUST 29, 1862.

Whitehall, August 28, 1862.

THE following Address of Congratulation to the Queen, on the occasion of the Marriage of Her Royal Highness The Princess Alice with His Royal Highness Prince Louis of Hesse, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, for Presentation, has accordingly been presented, by him to Her Majesty, who has been pleased to receive the same very graciously.

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and devoted subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses, of the Cinque Port and borough of Dover, desire humbly to offer to your Majesty our hearty congratulations on the marriage of Her Royal Highness the Princess Alice with His Royal Highness the Prince Louis of Hesse.

The deep interest which your Majesty has taken in this auspicious event has excited our liveliest sympathy, more especially as it was one which had already received the warm approval of His late Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

We feel confident that your Majesty, while losing during this season of affliction the support and companionship of a fond and affectionate daughter, who, in the hour of trial, was enabled by the suppression of her own grief to afford solace to your Majesty's wounded heart, must rejoice in the belief that the happiness of Her Royal Highness has been secured by an union of affection.

Her Royal Highness has borne with her the fervent prayers and fond wishes of all classes of your Majesty's subjects, and we indulge the hope that the alliance between the Royal Families of Great Britain and one of the Protestant States of Germany, may cement the friendly relations of this country, and conduce to the peace of Europe.

We invoke the blessing of Heaven upon your Majesty, the Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family; and we pray that your Majesty may long continue to reign in the hearts of a loyal, contented, and free people.

Given under our Corporate Seal, in our Council Chamber, at Dover, this 14th day of August, 1862.

Foreign Office, August 28, 1862.

LORD RUSSELL has received the following Despatch from Dr. Baikie, in command of the Niger Expedition:

Bida, Nússe, Central Africa,
February 26, 1862.

MY LORD,

I FEEL it to be my duty again, respectfully, to request your Lordship to call the attention of those in England interested in the supply of cotton, to the peculiar eligibility of this portion of Central Africa as a future cotton field. Here there are no adverse interests, no speculative political parties to interfere with our wishes, no monopolists nor capitalists to raise prices. Three-fourths of the labouring population, whether free or slave, are at liberty to have their own farms, and to sell the bulk of their own crops. Thus, though the small farmer may himself be a slave, the larger his crops the larger his profits, and in working hard he is not labouring by mere task, or simply for the benefit of his master, but for his own immediate behoof; and thus, though a large part of the population of Bonú and of Nússe are slaves, the labour on the small farms is not strictly "slave labour."

It is from these small farms that most of the cotton comes to the market, and it is these small farmers whom any demand would stimulate. In Yoruba, more is produced by large traders, and there it has caused an increased demand and price for slaves; but here it would have, if anything, an opposite result, as it would enable many of the present serf population to effect their freedom.

I have, in a former Despatch, shewn how superior Sudán is, as a field for cotton, to the regions explored by Dr. Livingstone, alike from the greater proximity and superior navigability of the Niger to the Zambési, as well as that here cotton is already in abundance, and cultivated by a people able and willing to work, and accustomed to its habits and rearing. Nothing further is required but increased demand, and means of purchase, cleaning, and shipping; the rest would speedily follow.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) WM. BALFOUR BAIKIE.

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to order that the time for the discontinuance of burials in the undermentioned churchyards be postponed as follows; viz.:

In the churchyard of the parish of Middlewich, Cheshire, from the thirtieth of June to the first of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two. one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, in the churchyard of Combe Florey; and whereas it seems fit that such Order be varied:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the directions contained in the said Order, with respect to the discontinuance of burials in the churchyard of Combe Florey, shall apply only to that part of the churchyard which lies to the south of the church.

Signed at London, July 23, 1862.

[Ratifications exchanged at London, August 30, 1862.]

HER Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and

His Majesty the King of the Belgians, being equally animated by the desire to facilitate and extend the relations of commerce and navigation between their respective dominions; and being desirous, with a view to so beneficial an object, to remove the obstacles which impede the commercial relations between the two countries, have resolved to conclude a Treaty for that purpose, and have named as their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honourable John Earl Russell, Viscount Amberley of Amberley and Ardsalla, a Peer of the United Kingdom, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, a Member of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; and the Right Honourable Thomas Milner Gibson, a Member of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, a Member of Parliament, and President of the Committee of Privy Council for Affairs of Trade and Foreign Plantations;

And His Majesty the King of the Belgians, the Sieur Sylvian Van de Weyer, His Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Her Britannic Majesty, Grand Cross of the Order of Leopold, decorated with the Iron Cross, Grand Cross of the Order of Charles III of Spain, of the Order of the Ernestine Branch of Saxony, of the Tower and Sword, of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, Commander of the Legion of Honour, &c.;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

There shall be reciprocal liberty of commerce between all the dominions and possessions of the two High Contracting Parties; and the subjects of each of them shall, throughout the whole extent of the territories and possessions of the other, enjoy the same rights, privileges, liberties, favours, immunities, and exemptions, in matters of commerce and navigation, which are or may be enjoyed by native subjects.

ARTICLE II.

The subjects of one of the two High Contracting Parties residing in the dominions of the other, shall have the same liberty as native subjects to manage their own affairs themselves, or to commit them to the management of any other persons, as brokers, factors, agents, or interpreters. They shall not be restrained in their choice, and shall not be obliged to pay any salary or remuneration to any person whom they shall not choose to employ in those capacities; buyers and sellers being at perfect liberty to bargain together, and to fix the price of any goods or merchandize imported or destined for exportation, on condition of observing the regulations and the Customs laws of the country.

ARTICLE III.

In all that relates to navigation and commerce, the High Contracting Parties shall not grant any privilege, favour, or immunity to any other country, which shall not be also and immediately extended to their respective subjects.

ARTICLE IV.

All vessels which according to the laws of Great Britain are to be deemed British vessels, and all vessels which according to the laws of Belgium are to be deemed Belgian vessels, are declared to be British and Belgian vessels respectively.

ARTICLE V.

No duties of tonnage, harbour, light-house, pilotage, quarantine, or other similar or corresponding duties, of whatever nature or under whatever denomination, levied for the profit or in the name of the Government, public functionaries, communes, corporations, or establishments of whatever kind, shall be imposed in the ports of either country, upon the vessels of the other country, from whatever port or place arriving, which shall not be equally imposed in the like cases on national vessels.

ARTICLE VI.

In all that regards the stationing, the loading, and unloading of vessels in the ports, basins, docks, roadsteads, harbours, or rivers of the two countries, no privilege shall be granted to national vessels, which shall not be equally granted to vessels of the other country; the intention of the High Contracting Parties being, that in this respect also the respective vessels shall be treated on the footing of perfect equality.

ARTICLE VII.

British vessels entering a port of Belgium, and, reciprocally, Belgian vessels entering a port of Great Britain or of the British Possessions, and desiring to discharge only a part of their cargo, may, subject to compliance with the laws and regulations of the respective countries, retain on board that part of the cargo which is destined for another port, whether in the same country or in any other country, and may re-export the same, without being compelled to pay, upon such retained part of their cargo, any duty of Customs save those for watching, which, of course, shall be levied only at the rate fixed for national vessels.

ARTICLE VIII.

Goods of every kind which are or may be legally importable into the ports of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, its Colonies and Possessions, in British vessels, may likewise be imported into such ports in Belgian vessels, without being liable to other or higher duties, of whatever denomination, than if such goods were imported in national vessels.

Reciprocally, goods of every kind which are or may be legally importable into the ports of Belgium in Belgian vessels, may likewise be imported into such ports in British vessels, without being liable to other or higher duties, of whatever denomination, than if such goods were imported in national vessels.

ARTICLE IX.

Goods of every kind which may be exported either from Belgium by British vessels, or from Great Britain and the British Possessions by Belgian vessels, for whatever destination, shall not be liable to any other duties or formalities on departure than if they were exported in national vessels; and they shall enjoy, under either flag, all bounties and drawbacks, or other favours, which are or may be granted in each of the two countries to national vessels.

ARTICLE X.

During the period allowed by the laws of the two countries for the warehousing of goods, no other duties than those for custody and storage shall be levied upon articles imported from one of the two countries into the other, until they shall be removed for transit, re-exportation, or internal consumption.

In no case shall such articles pay higher duties, or be liable to other formalities, than if they had been imported under the national flag, or from the most favoured country.

ARTICLE XI.

Goods of every kind coming from or going to either of the two countries shall reciprocally be exempted from all transit duty.

The prohibition in regard to gunpowder is, however, maintained; and the two High Contracting Parties reserve to themselves to subject the transit of arms of war to special authorizations.

The treatment of the most favoured nation is reciprocally guaranteed to each of the two countries in all that concerns transit and warehousing.

ARTICLE XII.

With regard to the coasting trade, it is agreed between the High Contracting Parties that the subjects and vessels of each of them shall, in the dominions and possessions of the other, enjoy the same privileges, and be treated in all respects on the same footing, as national subjects and vessels.

With regard to the coasting trade in the Colonies, the stipulations of the present Article shall be applicable only to the coasting trade of such of the Colonies of Her Britannic Majesty as have applied or shall hereafter apply, in conformity with the Acts of Parliament which govern this matter, that their coasting trade may be open to foreign vessels.

ARTICLE XIII.

The regulations established for goods imported from France into Belgium by Articles XVIII to XXVI inclusive, of the Treaty of Commerce concluded between the two countries on the 1st of May, 1861, shall equally apply in Belgium to the same goods imported from Great Britain and its Possessions.

With regard to pure or mixed tissues, taxed ad valorem, the valuation of which in the ports may appear to the Belgian Government to present difficulties, the Belgian Government reserves to itself the power to designate the Custom-house of Brussels exclusively for the admission of such goods.

ARTICLE XIV.

Neither of the two High Contracting Parties shall impose upon goods the produce or manufacture of the other party, other or higher duties of importation than such as are or may be imposed upon the same goods the produce of any other foreign country.

Each of the two Parties engages to extend to the other any favour or privilege, or reduction in the Tariff of duties of importation or exportation, on articles mentioned, or not mentioned, in the present Treaty, which either of them may grant to any third Power. They engage, moreover, not to establish against each other any duty or prohibition of importation or exportation, which shall not, at the same time, be applicable to all other nations.

It is further agreed that if sea salt refined in Belgium should obtain a deduction of more than seven per cent. from the general duty of excise, British salt refined in Belgium shall enjoy, at the same moment, a deduction from the excise which shall not be inferior by more than seven per cent. to the deduction granted to sea salt.

ARTICLE XV.

Articles the produce or manufacture of Belgium shall not be subject in the British Colonies to other or higher duties than those which are or may be imposed upon similar articles of British origin.

ARTICLE XVI.

The subjects of one of the High Contracting Parties shall enjoy, in the dominions of the other, the same protection as native subjects in all that relates to property in trade marks, as well as in industrial and manufacturing patterns and models of every description.

The exclusive right to make use of an industrial or manufacturing pattern or model shall not, with regard to British subjects in Belgium, and reciprocally with regard to Belgian subjects in Great Britain, have a duration longer than that fixed by the law of the country for native subjects.

If the industrial or manufacturing pattern or model is open to the public in the country of origin, it cannot be made the subject of an exclusive right in the other country.

The provisions of the two preceding paragraphs are applicable to trade marks.

The rights of subjects of one of the High Contracting Parties in the dominions of the other are not subject to the condition that the models or patterns shall be worked there.

The present Article shall not be put into operation in either country, with regard to such models or patterns, until the expiration of a year from the date of the signature of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE XVII.

Belgian subjects shall not have the right to claim in Great Britain exclusive property in a mark, model, or pattern, unless they shall have previously complied with the regulations, if any, which are or may be in force for the deposit at London, by British subjects, of marks, models, or patterns.

Reciprocally, British subjects shall not have the right to claim in Belgium exclusive property in a mark, model, or pattern, unless they shall have previously complied with the laws and regulations on those subjects which are or may be in force in Belgium.

ARTICLE XVIII.

Each of the High Contracting Parties shall have the right to name Consuls for the protection of trade in the dominions and territories of the other Party; and the Consuls who may be so appointed shall enjoy, within the territories of each Party, all the privileges, exemptions, and immunities which are or may be granted in those territories to Agents of the same rank and character appointed by or authorized to act for the Government of the most favoured nation.

Before any Consul can act as such, he must, however, in the usual form, be approved and admitted by the Government of the country to which he is sent; and each of the two High Contracting Parties shall have the right to except from the residence of Consuls any particular places which either of them may judge proper to be excepted.

ARTICLE XIX.

If any vessel of war or merchant-vessel of either of the two countries should be wrecked upon the coasts of the other, such vessel or any parts thereof, and all furniture and appurtenances belonging thereunto, as well as all goods and merchandize which shall be saved therefrom, or the proceeds thereof, if sold, shall be restored to the proprietors or to their agents, on being claimed by them. In case there should be no such proprietors or agents upon the spot, the said articles and goods, or the proceeds thereof, as well as all the papers found on board of any such vessel, shall be delivered to the British or Belgian Consul in whose district the wreck shall have taken place; and such Consul, proprietors, or agents shall not be called upon to pay any charge but the expenses incurred in the preservation of the property, and the same rate of salvage which would be equally payable, under the like circumstances, by a national vessel. The goods and merchandize saved from the wreck shall not be subject to the established duties, unless cleared for consumption.

ARTICLE XX.

The British flag shall continue to enjoy in Belgium the repayment of the Scheldt Toll so long as the Belgian flag shall enjoy the same.

ARTICLE XXI.

From and after, at latest, the day on which the capitalization of the Scheldt Toll shall be effected by a general arrangement,—

1. The tonnage duty imposed in Belgian ports shall cease to be levied;

2. The pilotage duties in Belgian ports and in the Scheldt, so far as depends upon Belgium, shall undergo a reduction—

Of 20 per cent. for sailing vessels;
Of 25 per cent. for vessels towed;
Of 30 per cent. for steam-vessels.

3. The system of local taxes imposed by the city of Antwerp shall be throughout diminished.

ARTICLE XXII.

As a temporary exception to the stipulations of Article XIV, and for the space of two years from the 1st of October, 1862, the new system shall be applied in the following manner to certain articles of British origin hereinafter enumerated:—

Cotton yarns twisted, warped, or dyed, shall pay the duties imposed upon single yarns unbleached or bleached, with an addition of five centimes for twisted yarns, ten centimes for warped yarns, and fifteen centimes for dyed yarns, per kilogramme.

The duty on stuffs of wool mixed with cotton shall be twenty-two and a-half per cent. until the 1st of October, 1863, and twenty per cent. until the 1st of October, 1864. During the continuance of the transitory system the importer may, at his choice, pay either one hundred and eighty francs the hundred kilogrammes, or the duties stipulated above.

The duty upon printed cotton tissues shall be one hundred and fifty francs the hundred kilogrammes.

ARTICLE XXIII.

It is understood that in case the present duty on the importation of foreign spirits should be maintained in the British Tariff, the Article relative to spirits which is contained in the Treaty concluded between Belgium and France on the 1st of May, 1861, shall not be applied to British spirits; so far as regards the reductions therein stipulated, until the 1st of October, 1865.

ARTICLE XXIV.

The Ionian Islands being under the protection of Her Britannic Majesty, the subjects and vessels of those islands shall enjoy, in the dominions of His Majesty the King of the Belgians, all the advantages which are granted to the subjects and vessels of Great Britain by the present Treaty, as soon as the Government of the Ionian Islands shall have agreed to grant to the subjects and vessels of His Majesty the King of the Belgians the same advantages which are granted in those islands to the subjects and vessels of Her Britannic Majesty: it being understood, that in order to prevent abuses, every Ionian vessel claiming the benefits of that Treaty shall be furnished with a patent signed by the Lord High Commissioner of Her Britannic Majesty, or by his representative.

ARTICLE XXV.

The present Treaty shall continue in force for ten years dating from the tenth day after the exchange of the ratifications. In case neither of the two High Contracting Parties should have notified, twelve months before the end of the said period, its intention to terminate the Treaty, it shall remain in force until the expiration of a year dating from the day on which either of the High Contracting Parties shall have given notice for its termination.

The High Contracting Parties reserve to themselves the right to introduce into the Treaty, by common consent, any modifications which may not be at variance with its spirit or principles, and the utility of which may be shown by experience.

ARTICLE XXVI.

From and after the date fixed by the preceding Article, the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation of the 27th of October, 1851, shall cease to be in force.

ARTICLE XXVII.

The present Treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London before the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed hereto the seal of their arms.

Done in duplicate at London the twenty-third day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

Protocol of Conference held at the Foreign Office, July 23, 1862, between the Plenipotentiaries of Great Britain and of Belgium.

THE Plenipotentiaries of Her Britannic Majesty and of His Majesty the King of the Belgians, in proceeding to the signature of the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation between their august Sovereigns, place upon record that they have agreed upon the following points—

1. That the declarations relative to the arrest of seamen deserters, dated the 4th of January, 1855, and the Order in Council bearing date the 5th of February, 1855, and published in the "London Gazette" of the 13th of February, shall continue in force and validity, as if they had been inserted in the said Treaty.

2. That although the Fishery Convention concluded on the 22nd of March, 1852, between Her Britannic Majesty and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, is provisionally maintained, it is under the reservation made by the Government of His Majesty the King of the Belgians, that they will again bring forward, in a future negotiation, the proposition relative to the reciprocal permission to fish within the marine territorial limit.

In maintaining the said Convention concluded on the 22nd of March, 1852, an exception to the stipulations of the Treaty of Commerce and navigation signed this day, is made in so far as regards the advantages which are or may be given in either country to the produce of national fishery.

3. With regard to sugar, the Government of His Majesty the King of the Belgians reserve to themselves to renew their proposition that an agreement should be come to between Great Britain, Belgium, France, the Zollverein, and the Netherlands, for respectively bringing the duties upon raw and refined sugars imported from any one of those countries into the others to an equality with the taxes imposed upon the same productions of national origin, and for terminating simultaneously in those five countries the system of bounties on the exportation of sugar.

The Belgian Government rely upon the support and co-operation of the Government of Her Britannic Majesty for this purpose,

And whereas a Contagious or Infectious Disorder, known or described as the Sheep Pox, or Variola Ovina, now prevails among the Sheep in some parts of the United Kingdom, and it is expedient to take measures for preventing such Disorder from spreading ;

Now, therefore, the Lords of Her Majesty's Privy Council, do hereby, in pursuance and exercise of the powers so vested in them, as aforesaid, make and ordain the several Orders and Regulations following ; that is to say :—

I.

It shall not be lawful for any person to remove any Sheep or Lambs to or from any or either of the parishes and tythings following, all lying and being in the county of Wilts, and near to the town of Devizes, that is to say, the parishes or tythings of

Horton, Bishop's Cannings, Allcannings, Etchilhampton, and Allington,

or to drive or conduct any Sheep or Lambs through or by way of such parishes or tythings, or any or either of them, unless the person so removing, driving, or conducting such Sheep or Lambs shall first have obtained a certificate, in writing, signed by some person who may have been authorized by two or more Justices of the said county of Wilts to seize Sheep or Lambs infected with or labouring under the said disorders, under the 1st section of the said Act, that such removal, driving, or conducting may take place without danger of spreading the said disease.

II.

All Sheep and Lambs dying in any of the stages of the said disease, wheresoever such death or deaths shall or may occur, shall forthwith be buried by the person or persons in whose possession such Sheep or Lambs may be at the time of death, with their skins on, in pits of not less than five feet in depth, and the carcases so buried shall be covered with quicklime.

III.

All sheds and places whatsoever, and all railway trucks and other vehicles which may or shall have been used or occupied by Sheep or Lambs affected by the said disease, shall forthwith, after having been so used, be thoroughly cleansed with water, and immediately afterwards purified with chloride of lime by the person or persons in possession of such sheds, places, trucks, and vehicles respectively.

IV.

Every person in possession of any Sheep or Lambs in or amongst which the said disease shall manifest itself, shall forthwith give notice, in writing, of the fact to the Chief Constable or Superintendent of Police of the county or borough, in which such Sheep or Lambs may be.

V.

And it is further ordered that this Order shall continue in force for three calendar months from and after the date hereof.

Arthur Helps.

REGULATIONS FOR HER MAJESTY'S DIPLOMATIC SERVICE.

1. Nomination, qualification, and examination of candidates for Unpaid Attachéships.

CANDIDATES for the situation of Attaché in Her Majesty's Diplomatic Service will continue to be nominated by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs; and they must be prepared to undergo an examination before the Civil Service Commissioners within six months after their nomination if they elect to undergo only one examination (which single examination will, in that case, exempt them from any further examination previously to their receiving Commissions as Secretaries) or within three months if they prefer to undergo two examinations as heretofore. In the latter case the second examination may be deferred until the candidate is prepared to undergo it.

Candidates on presenting themselves for examination on their nomination must have completed the twenty-first year of their age, and not have exceeded the twenty-sixth.

In the case of candidates electing to undergo only one examination, such examination will comprise the following matters:—

a. Orthography and handwriting.

b. General intelligence, as evinced by the manner in which the candidate acquits himself, and specifically by the quickness he may show in seizing the points in papers read to him, or read over by him, once or twice.

c. Précis.

d. The candidate must satisfy the Examiners that he is thoroughly well grounded in the Latin grammar, and that he is able to construe and parse a portion of some good classical Latin author, and to give the derivations of words.

e. An accurate knowledge of French grammar, fluency in French conversation, correctness of translation from French into English, and from English into French, and French composition.

f. An accurate knowledge of German grammar, a tolerable degree of fluency in German conversation, and correctness of translation from German into English, and from English into German.

g. A fair knowledge of the political history of Europe, and of North and South America, from the year 1660 to 1860 inclusive, and of the most important international transactions during that period.

h. A general knowledge of geography.

i. The first four rules of arithmetic and decimal fractions as given with examples in Colenso's Arithmetic.

j. The first book of Euclid.

k. A general knowledge of maritime and international law, to be acquired from Wheaton's "Elements of International Law," and the first volume of Kent's "Commentary."

l. Candidates will be allowed, at their option, to be examined in Spanish and Italian in addition to the above subjects.

In the case of candidates electing to undergo two examinations, the first examination will comprise the following subjects :—

1. Orthography ; 2. Handwriting; 3. Précis; 4. Latin; 5. Arithmetic; 6. Geography.

7. General intelligence, except as regards specific tests.

8. An accurate knowledge of French grammar, correctness of translation from French into English, and such a facility of speaking French as may show aptitude for acquiring fluency after a residence abroad.

9. An accurate knowledge of German grammar.

10. A general knowledge of the political history of Europe, and of North and South America, from 1790 to 1815, comprising an acquaintance with the most important international transactions of that period.

In either case, candidates who have passed the first public examination in classics at one of the Universities in Great Britain or Ireland, will be exempted from being examined in Latin.

Candidates who shall have elected to undergo two examinations must be prepared to satisfy the examiners, if required to do so, as to their acquaintance with the various matters which come within the single examination (except as regards Latin, geography, and arithmetic, in which such candidates are exempted from being re-examined); and they will, moreover, be required, for their second examination, to draw up a report on the general commercial and political relations of the several countries in which they may have resided; and on the internal polity and administration, the social institutions, and the character of the people of such countries.

If a candidate offering himself for the single examination should fail to satisfy the Commissioners to the required extent, but should evince such a knowledge of the subjects on which he may have been examined, as would have obtained for him a certificate of fitness if he had only offered himself for a first examination, the Commissioners will, in such case, give a certificate as for a first examination; and the candidate will eventually have to present himself again before the Commissioners for the second examination.

2. Period of service of Attachés.

The service of Attachés will reckon from the date of the certificate first granted by the Civil Service Commissioners, and will be considered as probationary for four years from that date, during which period the Attachés must have been employed for six months in the Foreign Office, and must also have actually resided at one of Her Majesty's Embassies or Missions abroad, or have been actually employed in the Foreign Office, for a further period of three years. If these conditions as to employment and residence have not been fulfilled at the expiration of four years from the date of the certificate of the Civil Service Commissioners, the probationary period will be prolonged until they have been fulfilled; and it will likewise be prolonged in the case of candidates who may have elected to undergo two examinations, until the final certificate of the Commissioners has been obtained.

3. A salary of £150 a-year will be granted, contingently, to Attachés on completion of their probation.

A salary at the rate of £150 a-year will be granted to Attachés on the termination of the period of probation, and on the receipt from the Minister, under whom they have last served, of a certificate showing that their general character and conduct, during the time they have so served, have been satisfactory; and that, as far as such Minister has the means of forming an opinion, they understand and speak French well, and also one other foreign language.

4. Abolition of the designation of Paid Attachés. Commissions as Second Secretaries to be granted to Paid Attachés.

The designation of first and second paid Attaché is abolished; and in lieu thereof will be substituted the designation of Second Secretaries, which will be conferred by Commissions under Her Majesty's Sign-Manual.

5. Commissions as Third Secretaries to be granted to Unpaid Attachés on completion of their probation.

Commissions as Third Secretaries will also be granted under Her Majesty's Sign-Manual to persons now serving as Unpaid Attachés, or who shall hereafter be appointed Unpaid Attachés, on the fulfilment of the conditions, applicable to such persons, as specified in the present regulations.

It is clearly to be understood that the aforesaid Commissions of Second and Third Secretaries will not imply appointment to any particular Embassy or Mission; but the holders thereof will be subject to the same conditions and liabilities as to removal from one Mission to another, at the discretion of the Secretary of State, as those to which Attachés of all classes are now liable.

Secretaries of the Second and Third Classes may be indiscriminately attached, either to an Embassy or to a Mission; and the circumstance of having been attached in either of the above capacities to an Embassy will not preclude transfers in the same capacity to a Mission. Moreover, there may be more than one Secretary of either of the above classes attached, at the pleasure of the Secretary of State, to any Embassy or Mission.

6. Number of Second Secretaries.

There will be a fixed number of Second Secretaries, determined by the number of First and Second Paid Attachés at the date of the issue of these Regulations.

The salaries of Second Secretaries will be fixed at the same rates as those now assigned to First and Second Paid Attachés in the respective Embassies and Missions; it being understood that such rates have reference to the character of the Embassy or Mission, and not to the services of the Second Secretaries, who may be removed, without claim to compensation, from an Embassy or Mission where the rates are higher, to an Embassy or Mission where the rates are lower.

7. Rules as to Pensions of the Fourth Class.

In virtue of Her Majesty's Commissions, the service of Second and Third Secretaries will count for their pensions, under the Act of 2 & 3 Wm. IV, cap. 116, from the date of the issue of their first Commission; but the amount of pension to be assigned to them will be calculated, so long as they are eligible for a pension of the fourth class only, for each year that has elapsed since the date of their first Commission, at one-thirtieth part of the last salary of which they were in receipt at the time of the pension being granted; provided that no pension shall continue to be issued to a person not incapacitated by ill-health, medically certified, who may decline active service before he has reached the sixtieth year of his age, after which age no person shall be required to serve as Second or Third Secretary.

8. Provision for the transfer of the Junior Members of the Diplomatic Service from one post to another; and payment of their expenses of removal.

Second or Third Secretaries, and Attachés, as a general rule, will not be employed for more than two years consecutively, irrespective of the periods during which they may have been absent on leave, in the same Embassy or Mission, unless for special public reasons. Secretaries of Embassy or Legation, Second and Third Secretaries, and Attachés, will, on their first appointment, or on any subsequent removal by reason of promotion or otherwise on public grounds, receive such an allowance as shall be sufficient to cover the actual expense of their personal journey by land, or the actual amount paid for their personal passage by sea, either from England to their post, or from one foreign post to another; and in the case of Secretaries of Embassy or Legation, and of Second Secretaries, a similar allowance for one servant, if they have one; but no allowance will be made under the head of subsistence during a journey by land; neither will any allowance be made for the expense of the journey or subsistence of the families of any such Secretaries or Attachés. In the event of a passage being afforded to Secretaries or Attachés on board of one of Her Majesty's ships of war, the allowance made will be in conformity with the Admiralty Regulations.

No allowance will be made to the Junior Members of the Diplomatic Service for journeys undertaken for their own convenience, in pursuance of leave of absence; but in all such cases the expense of the journeys from and on returning to their posts will be exclusively at their own charge.

It is understood, moreover, that in the case of any journey of which the expense is to be allowed, Secretaries or Attachés, unless specially excused from doing so, will be bound to take charge of despatches, if required; and, in that case, they will be expected to perform the journey without delaying on the road.

9. Interchange of employment between Second and Third Secretaries, and Junior Clerks in the Foreign Office.

The Secretary of State will, should he see occasion, for the advantage of the Public Service, allow Second and Third Secretaries, and Attachés, to interchange for a time their duties with Clerks of the three Junior Classes in the Foreign Office; the several parties being bound, for the whole period through which the interchange extends, in every respect to perform the duties and to submit to the obligations attaching to the situation which they may temporarily occupy.

The Secretary of State will, moreover, if he sees reason to do so, direct such temporary interchange of duties to be made, irrespective of the wishes of the parties, between Second or Third Secretaries, or Attachés, and Clerks in the Foreign Office; or he will direct such persons to be employed for a time, at home or abroad, without any interchange, making in either case such an allowance to the parties as he may consider just and reasonable. In the event of any Attaché being so employed in the Foreign Office, the period, over and above the six months which are obligatory as stated in section 2, during which he shall be actually employed in the Foreign Office, shall reckon towards the three years during which he is by these Regulations to reside at an Embassy or Mission abroad.

In the case of temporary interchanges between Secretaries and Clerks, they will respectively rank, during the period for which the interchange shall last, after the Junior in the classes of Secretaries or Clerks to which each of them belongs, the Clerk receiving an acting appointment as Secretary of such class. The same principle will apply in cases of permanent interchange.

If a Clerk in the Foreign Office should be permanently transferred to the Diplomatic Service, or should be temporarily employed with a Special, or with an Ordinary, Embassy or Mission, he will receive a Commission or an acting appointment, as the case may be, as Secretary of the Second or Third Class, according to the length of his service in the Foreign Office ; but he will, as regards others then in the same class, enter it as the Junior.

10. Deductions to be made from salaries of Heads of Missions on leave of absence.

With a view to relieve Heads of Missions on leave of absence on private grounds, the deduction to be made from their salaries will in future be limited, for a period not exceeding sixty days from the date of their departure from their posts, to the sum required to provide for the allowances of the Acting Chargés d'Affaires according to the present Regulations ; on the expiration of which period the deduction will be at the rate of one-half of their salaries. Such period of sixty days may either be one of sixty consecutive days, or of sixty days occuring at intervals in the course of one year beginning on the first of January.

11. Allowances during war or interruption of relations.

Should an Ambassador, Minister, or Secretary, by reason of war or other interruptions of Diplomatic relations, be withdrawn from active service before his services shall have qualified him for a Diplomatic Pension of the class under which he would otherwise come, the Secretary of State will, as he may see fit, assign to any such person a temporary allowance calculated on the rate of pension assigned to the class to which he belongs, regard being had to the length and general character of his services; such allowance being, however, strictly subject to the condition in regard to employment specified in the 7th section of the Act of 2nd and 3rd William IV., c. 116.

12. Date at which present Regulations shall take effect.

The foregoing Regulations shall take effect from the 1st day of October, 1862: but Unpaid Attachés appointed previously to the 1st of January, 1861, will be allowed until the 1st of July, 1863, to undergo their second examination, according to the Regulations now in force; and if, on such second examination, they obtain their certificates, they will retain their present precedence, but not otherwise.

All persons nominated as Attachés subsequently to the date of the present Regulations will be subject to the provisions as to examination therein contained.

The condition of employment for six months in the Foreign Office will not be enforced with regard to Unpaid Attachés in the service abroad at the date of these Regulations; but such Unpaid Attachés must have passed both examinations under the existing Regulations, must have actually resided for a period of three years at one or more of Her Majesty's Embassies or Missions abroad, must have completed four years from the time of their entering the service, and must be provided with the certificate from the Head of the Mission under whom they have last served, specified in Clause 3 of these Regulations, before they can receive a Commission as a Secretary of the Third Class, or the salary at the rate of £150 a-year assigned to that Class. Those persons who continue in the service, or who shall hereafter enter the service, as Unpaid Attachés, will be denominated "Attachés."

THE events of which the principality of Servia has recently been the theatre, having induced the Sublime Porte to assemble in conference the representatives of the powers who signed the Treaty of Paris, and those powers being, above all things, desirous to avoid new sources of irritation, have considered it their duty to abstain from a minute investigation of the immediate causes of those lamentable occurrences. They have therefore confined themselves to showing that the re-establishment of confidential and friendly relations between the Suzerain Power and the Principality was of great importance, as well for Turkey as for the peace of Europe, and that it was a matter of consequence to seek with care all the means adapted to attain that end. They have seen with satisfaction that the Sublime Porte being disposed to introduce into the state of things which has subsisted in Servia up to the present time the modifications suitable to remove causes of disagreement and of conflict, was desirous of using all the means in her power to convince the Servians that she takes the most sincere interest in the natural development of their prosperity and their self-government. It is, therefore, the duty of the Servians on their part to give to the Sublime Porte, by unmistakeable proofs, the assurance that in the legitimate development of this self-government they do not seek the means of relaxing the ties which unite them to the Ottoman Empire, but that, on the contrary, they will always strive to render those ties more close, and to strengthen the natural union which is created by community of interest, and the necessities of mutual defence.

In order to realize those intentions, as wise as they are generous, the Sublime Porte has not hesitated to enter into the following engagements with the representatives of the guaranteeing powers, which she will hasten to make known by a firman, published in the usual form, as soon as the Servians shall have entirely razed the works lately constructed in the suburb, or between the suburb and the walls of the fortress. The Servians shall likewise raze the military works which they may have unduly constructed since the late events in other parts of the principality. It is the intention of the Sublime Porte on its part to remove the works which have been constructed during the same period by Turkish authorities for defensive purposes, which will no longer exist, the Ottoman Government having the most lively desire to obliterate in the moral as well as in the material order of things, all traces of deplorable misunderstandings.

ARTICLE I.

In order to prevent the possibility of conflicts arising from the intermixture in the same locality of Mussulman and Servian population, the Ottoman Government will transfer in full property to the Servian Government, on condition of indemnifying the proprietors, all the lands and houses in the suburb of Belgrade, belonging at the present time to Mussulmans. The Porte will abandon on the same condition to the said Government the walls, ditches, and works forming the ancient enclosure which separates the modern from the ancient town which is called the Faubourg, as well as the four gates of the Save, of Varos, of Stamboul, and of Vidin. These ditches, walls, gates, and works shall be demolished and levelled. The Servians shall not erect any military work on this ground. These modifications in the former state of things will have for result that the exclusive jurisdiction of the Servian authorities shall in future extend over the whole of the town as well as over the Faubourg of Belgrade. All the religious edifices and tombs which the Mussulman population may leave standing when they retire from the places they have hitherto occupied in virtue of ancient rights, shall be scrupulously respected.

ARTICLE II.

The Sublime Porte being determined to maintain in all their integrity its rights over the citadel of Belgrade, as sanctioned by Treaties, but not wishing in any respect to make the conditions thereof more burthensome for the Servians, she is, nevertheless, resolved to seek the means for putting that fortress into a proper state of defence, and deems it necessary to give to the present esplanade more regularity, and, at certain points where such extension cannot disturb the town, an increase of extent.

This extension will therefore be made in the quarter almost exclusively occupied by the Mussulmans, and situated between the citadel, the Danube, and a line passing by the Tekké of Scheik Hassan and by the mosque of Ali Pacha. If the Sublime Porte should think it absolutely necessary to carry the demolition of the Mussulman quarter a little further than the aforesaid line, the mixed Military Commission, which forms the subject of Article V, will have to take the question into consideration and decide upon it. If there should be any Non-Mussulman houses in this space, the Ottoman Government will indemnify the proprietors, and will, of course, undertake to indemnify all those expropriated persons who are under their direct jurisdiction.

With regard to the exclusively Servian Quarter, the Ottoman Government, which would not think of touching the religious edifices, such as the Cathedral, the University, and the Bishop's Palace, nor the Mercantile Quarter, will negotiate in a friendly manner with the Prince's Government for the purchase of certain houses which competent judges may declare absolutely necessary to complete the esplanade in that direction, and will take care to facilitate the consent of the proprietors by the offer of liberal compensation.

No building of any kind whatever shall remain or be built in future upon the ground of this Esplanade, which shall remain the exclusive property of the Turkish Government. Nobody shall reside there, even temporarily.

ARTICLE III.

The Servian Government shall take care to restore, in kind or in value, all moveables left by the Mussulmans in their houses or shops when they retired to the citadel. If, at the time of the disturbances which then occurred, any Servian suffered any losses of the same nature by the act of the Mussulmans, he will be indemnified by the Ottoman Government.

The two Governments will come to a confidential and friendly understanding as to the mode of such restitution and of the indemnity in question.

ARTICLE IV.

The Sublime Porte, firmly resolved to maintain all its rights without ever exceeding them, protests that there is not the least foundation for the apprehension that the citadel of Belgrade, destined for the defence of the country, can be considered as the means for infringing the immunities granted to Servia by the Sultans, and guaranteed by treaties. Its paternal feeling towards the principality excludes any desire to exercise any pressure on the Prince's Government, or any intimidation towards the population. As a proof of its intentions, the Sublime Porte has not hesitated to communicate to the Conference the instructions which it has prepared, and which will hereafter form the invariable rule for the conduct of the Governors of Belgrade.

The Representatives, in placing upon record the engagement resulting from this communication, are happy to state that those instructions prove to the Powers that the Sublime Porte has no intention of giving a threatening character to the armaments of the ramparts on the town side towards the town, nor to make use of the guns on that side, except in a case of the most necessary and legitimate defence ; and even in such a case, faithful to the feelings of humanity with which it is ever animated, the Sublime Porte will never permit that devastation should be intentionally carried into the heart of a rich and populous town, whose interests are so closely united with its own.

The Sublime Porte, moreover, does not doubt that the Servians will scrupulously guard against the citadel being placed, by acts of hostility, under the painful necessity of repelling force by force. The Sublime Porte has no difficulty in adding that, while resolved to examine the actual state of the ramparts of the citadel, in order that they may be restored and placed on a satisfactory footing of defence, it will equally cause an examination to be made into the question, whether the more advanced works on the southern side could be advantageously modified without endangering the security of the fortress and its efficient state of defence, which, in any case, it cannot allow to be diminished.

ARTICLE V.

The new circuit of the esplanade shall be marked out by a Mixed Military Commission, composed of an officer named by each of the guaranteeing Powers, and of an officer named by the Ottoman Government. This Commission will avail itself of all local information which may assist it in resolving this question ; it shall make its report to the Sublime Porte, which will receive favourably any observations which the Servian Government may think right to submit to it on this subject. The Conference would feel pleasure if the Sublime Porte were to take advantage of the opinion of this Commission in the examination which forms the subject of the last part of the preceding Article.

A Civil Mixed Commission, composed of members named by the Ottoman Government and the Servian Government, shall decide all the questions of expropriation, and of indemnity which are contemplated in the present arrangement, except those only which can be discussed only between the Turkish Government and the proprietors who are under its direct jurisdiction. This Commission shall conclude its labours within the space of four months.

ARTICLE VI.

The Sublime Porte wishing to maintain in the Principality of Servia, only the number of fortified points which seem to her really necessary for the security of the Ottoman Empire, has devoted itself to an attentive examination of this question, and has pleasure in declaring to the Conference that her intention is to demolish from this time, from among the fortresses which belong to her, those of Sokol and Oujitza, which shall never be restored without the mutual consent of the Sublime Porte and the Servian Government. The Porte looks upon the maintenance of the fortresses of Feth-Islam, of Chubutz, and of Semendria, as indispensable to the general system of defence of Turkey.

ARTICLE VII.

Not wishing to exercise the rights which belong to her in the principality of Servia beyond the limits which her own security demands, the Sublime Porte will maintain in the fortified points which she occupies there, whether at Belgrade or at Feth-Islam, Semendria, and Chubutz, only garisons proportionate to the extent of these places, and to the real requirements of their defence.

ARTICLE VIII.

The Sublime Porte engages to take immediate measures, in concert with the Servian Government, so that all the Mussulman inhabitants who live around the five fortified points which he occupies in virtue of the treaties, and which are specified in the preceding Articles, may dispose of their properties and withdraw from the Servian territory as quickly as possible.

The Ottoman Commissioner sent to Belgrade in order to decide this question and others which were previously pending, shall terminate his labours within the period fixed by the Civil Mixed Commission described in Article V. It is well understood that there is nothing in what precedes to prevent Mussulmans from travelling upon business in the interior of the principality, on condition of conforming to the laws of the country.

ARTICLE IX.

It is in the intention of the Sublime Porte to see that the Governor of the citadel of Belgrade confines himself strictly to the exercise of his military functions, and does not seek to exercise, directly or indirectly, any interference, however small, in the affairs of the city or of the principality. She will likewise see that he observes and causes to be observed towards the Prince and his Government, all the respect to which they have right.

On their part, the Prince and his Government will act in the same spirit towards the Governor of the citadel; they will not commit any encroachment upon his functions, and will see that all the Ottoman functionaries are treated in all cases conformably to their rank.

The same regard shall be observed between the Commandants of the three forts which the Sublime Porte maintains outside the citadel of Belgrade and the neighbouring Servian authorities.

ARTICLE X.

Every corps recruited entirely from foreigners in Servia shall be disbanded, and the Servian Government shall carefully abstain from exciting distrust of the Sublime Porte by any abusive extension of the right of asylum.

ARTICLE XI.

As for questions which are not provided for in the present arrangement, and which are of a nature to influence the good understanding of Turkey and of Servia, the Conference does not doubt that the Servian Government will be anxious to treat concerning them with the Sovereign Power in the desire to grant her every possible and legitimate satisfaction. It is desirable, in particular, that Prince Michael should endeavour to put an end to the apprehensions which the new military organisation of Servia has created at Constantinople. The Sublime Porte has already declared that she will maintain in her fortresses only the number of men necessary to insure their defence; she naturally expects that the Servian Government will not maintain a larger number of men than is necessary for the maintenance of the tranquillity and the internal order of the country. The limits within which the Porte will exercise its right of garrison are easy to be understood, and even to be declared. It will be easy for the Prince of Servia to give declarations equally satisfactory as to the number of men which will compose his usual effective force, and by an exchange of confidential and friendly communications between the two parties to come to an arrangement, which, while it removes on both sides all doubts, and does not injure any rights of the principality, will tranquilize the Sublime Porte as to the number and employment of the effective force, which should be in conformity with the spirit of the Hatti-Chérifs.

ARTICLE XII.

The Servians will always find the Sublime Porte ready to listen, in a just and friendly spirit, to any demands which they may have to make in future, and the Porte will cause an answer to be returned with the shortest possible delay.

The Guaranteeing Powers, in giving to the Sublime Porte counsels which have served as a basis for the present arrangement, and in placing upon record its good intentions, declare that they have only had in view to ensure the maintenance of Articles XXVIII and XXIX of the Treaty of Paris, by means of wise modifications, founded upon the interest of Turkey and Servia, and dictated by the desire to strengthen the peace of Europe. They are convinced that the Servians, while appreciating the efforts which have been made to satisfy in every just and possible manner their complaints and wishes, and brought to a true sense of their situation, will perceive that it is their interest to remain in close connection with the Suzerain Power, to rely upon its support, and to contribute towards the general defence of the Empire with that fidelity of which they have given so many proofs, and which alone can insure the self government and the existence of Servia.

AALI.

Sublime Porte, September 16, 1862.

INSTRUCTIONS given by the Sublime Porte to the Governor of Belgrade.

The Sublime Porte has been always animated with the greatest good will towards the Servian people. As the natural consequence of this good will, our august Sovereign desires sincerely the progressive developement of their prosperity ; and moved by this invariable principle, His Imperial Majesty cannot tolerate anything which might injure it. In order, therefore, that you may thoroughly understand this, and with a view to avoid all conflict between authorities, I have the Royal order to indicate to you the following points, which will serve you for the regulation of your conduct in the exercise of your duties :—

1. You are aware that the internal administration of the Principality of Servia is confided exclusively to the Prince and his functionaries. You will not therefore mix yourself up in any manner in matters which concern that administration.

2. You will do everything in your power to live in good harmony with the Servian administration, and you will yourself pay, and cause all your subordinates to pay, to the Prince and to his functionaries all the respect which is due to them. In the same manner the Servians will of course not interfere in any manner with what concerns the fortress, and they will show, and will cause to be shown to you, the respect due to a high functionary of the Sublime Porte, as well to the officers of the garrison.

3. You will not permit any of the Mussulman inhabitants of Belgrade to live outside the citadel.

4. You will not give any air of menace, which might without necessity disquiet or alarm the Servian population, to the disposition of your artillery on the ramparts directed towards the town.

5. You will not use artillery except in case of a serious attack made against the fortress which you are charged to defend.

In case of necessary defence, and in that case only, will you make use of your artillery, taking care to direct the fire only on those parts of the town from whence the attack proceeds, and you will always be animated by the generous intentions of His Imperial Majesty to spare as far as possible a town, to the preservation and prosperity of which he attaches the greatest importance.

6. You must understand that the only object of the preceding article is to regulate the line of conduct which you should pursue in eventualities which you must do all in your power to avoid. If, after having exhausted all means of conciliation, you find yourself under the unhappy necessity of making use of your cannon to repel an attack on the fortress, you will endeavour to inform beforehand the Foreign Consuls resident in Belgrade, and if possible the peaceable inhabitants of the town.

My Lord, Peking, July 2, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to enclose copy of a despatch from Mr. Gingell, Her Majesty's Consul at Hankow, and of my reply, on a recent outrage committed on a party of foreigners at Woo-chang-foo. I trust your Lordship will approve of my insisting on Her Majesty's subjects acting with discretion, and of Her Majesty's Consuls evincing a disposition to consider the difficulties with which the Chinese authorities have to contend in dealing with the people. The more we avoid collisions at the new ports, the better.

I have, &c.

FREDERICK W. A. BRUCE.

The Right Honourable Earl Russell,

P.S.—I have the honour to enclose copy of a despatch to Mr. Forrest, on the line of conduct to be observed by him at Kiukiang.

Sir, Hankow, May 22, 1862.

THE enclosed copy of letter addressed to me will furnish particulars of an assault upon a party of British subjects, while visiting the Wu-chang city, on the 14th May.

A party of Americans, having two ladies among the number, were similarly attacked on the 10th instant, and driven out of the city; the ladies on that occasion having their ornaments, as I am informed, taken from them, and other indignities offered to their persons.

Whatever insolence and violence foreigners may have been subjected to on the Hankow side, it has been constantly remarked with what freedom from annoyance every individual has hitherto visited the Wu-chang city. And this was particularly mentioned to the Viceroy on the occasion of Lieutenant Poole's visit to him on the 8th instant.

Her Majesty's gunboat "Havoc" left this port for Kiu-Kiang, on the morning of the 10th, and the attack upon the first party which entered the city, following immediately after her departure, is, I conceive, highly significant. It is probable the Mandarins have been instrumental in secretly intimating to the people to make a demonstration of their dislike to foreigners visiting Wu-chang. The Chinese Superintendant of Trade, however, addressed me a note immediately after the occurrence, and affirmed that the attack was made by strangers who were staying in the eity during the continuance of the examinations, and he requested me to deter the merchants and others from going into the city until the examinations were over. He was informed by me, in reply, that British subjects, under treaty, were allowed to visit any places they pleased, and that the Chinese authorities were at all times bound to afford them the fullest protection, and that I could not, therefore, interdict them from visiting Wu-chang city.

As soon as the matter was reported to me, I at once brought it to the notiee of the Viceroy, and required the punishment of the aggressors; and

His Excellency was also requested to adopt means for preventing a repetition of such outrages, but as yet no reply has been received to my appeal.

I have, &c.,

SIR, Hankow, May 15, 1862.

WE would respectfully bring to your notice an unprovoked attack, made upon us yesterday at Wu-chang, by a crowd of people belonging to that place. We had entered by the Han-yang Gate, accompanied by Mr. Dick, of the Imperial Customs, with the intention of visiting the curiosity shops, and viewing the country from the ridge that intersects the city. Having accomplished the first object of our visit, in which we were not only unmolested, but treated with civility, we mounted the hill, and, seeing some military review or examination going on in the parade-ground, passed down towards it. As a large crowd was assembled round the competitors, we entered the pavilion in which the Prefect was seated, stationing ourselves in rear of his attendants, who received us with courtesy; but we had only been there a few minutes when a rush was made in the direction of the pavilion by the crowd, who, with loud cries, poured a shower of brick-bats into the buildings. The Prefect and his officers remonstrated with the mob without effect; and, as they were evidently unable to afford us protection, we retreated up the hill and along its top, pursued by some hundred of Chinese, and under a shower of stones, by which several of us were bruised, though fortunately not severely hurt. The crowd, still throwing brick-bats, followed us until within a hundred yards of the Han-yang Gate.

We would also beg to assure you, that the attack was entirely unprovoked on our part, we having, neither by word or action, offered the slightest offence to any one, nor did we offer any but a passive resistance even when thus savagely assaulted. But we would at the same time bear testimony to the gallant behaviour of our guard of four soldiers, who, though unarmed, never left us, but afforded us all the protection within their power. Were this simply a personal matter, we should forbear to intrude it on your time and notice, but fear that in the absence of a remonstrance from you to the proper authorities, other unoffending British subjects may be subjected to similar ill-treatment.

SIR, Peking, July 2, 1862.

WITH reference to the assault, reported by you, on the party who visited Wu-chang-fu, I have to observe, that although the Treaty does confer the right on Her Majesty's subjects of going freely about, it was not intended to relieve them from the exercise of discretion.

It appears that the party was treated with civility in the city itself, and that they then ascended the hill, where some sort of examination was going on, and took upon themselves, without invitation, to enter the pavilion in which the Prefect was presiding. This was not a very courteous or proper proceeding, and certainly does not come within the scope of the facilities provided by the Treaty.

They were then attacked by the crowd, and fortunately escaped without serious injury.

I am sorry to see your insinuation that the attack was secretly prompted by the authorities. The facts stated do not seem to warrant it; the Prefect and his attendants did what they could, and the Chinese soldiers, as the sufferers very creditably admit, behaved well; and further, they were not molested in the town, whence, it appears, the American party had shortly before been driven out.

I see no reason to doubt that the cause stated by the Mandarins is the real one. It is well known to every one in China, that the authorities dread the examination periods, on account of the crowds of strangers who attend, and of the feeble means at their disposal to prevent the disorders to which they give rise. They are attended by a class who are generally ill-disposed to foreigners, and who are, no doubt, at present irritated by the proceedings which have led to the late outbreak against Roman Catholic Missionaries.

I therefore think that it would be well, during the examinations, to advise Her Majesty's subjects to avoid these crowds, for it is very difficult to obtain redress for such outrages; and the gratification of mere curiosity, and the assumption that there may be a scheme to curtail ultimately the rights of foreigners, do not warrant us in disregarding a warning that, in China, is not primâ facie unreasonable. For the maintenance of proper relations depends on meeting the authorities in a spirit of compromise, when what they propose in view of the state of the country is reasonable, and in resisting them, firmly but temperately, when it is not.

SIR, Peking, July 2, 1862.

IN reply to your despatch, I have to state that I fully approve the arrangements made by you with reference to the British concession at Kiukiang.

I am very glad to receive so satisfactory an account of your port. Make it a rule to cultivate a good understanding with the authorities and people, and impress the necessity of pursuing the same course on the British community.

Where there are difficulties that you are unable to overcome, you must refer the case, after exhausting all amicable means, to Peking ; but avoid, as much as possible, menace. As to calling in the aid of force, Her Majesty's Government has reiterated its instructions that Her Majesty's Consuls are not to appeal to it, except in cases where the lives of Her Majesty's subjects are threatened, or their property endangered by riots, &c. Abuse of authority by the Chinese, or delay in doing what we are entitled to demand, are not sufficient causes to warrant violent measures.

The effort is now to be made to settle such disputed questions through the intervention of the Imperial authority; and although the process may at first be slow and imperfect, it must be persevered in.

COPIES of Correspondence with Her Majesty's Minister in China:

My Lord, Peking, July 18, 1862.

I HAVE the honour to enclose copy of a despatch from Mr. Gingell, Her Majesty's Consul at Hankow, detailing the steps taken by him, in consequence of the levy of an extra charge by the officials of Hoonan on teas bought by British subjects in the interior for shipment at Hankow.

I also enclose copies of two despatches, the one disapproving of the seizure of war-junks and of a custom-house officer, as a guarantee against repetition of these acts, and the other directing Mr. Gingell to inform Her Majesty's subjects that their proper course to pursue is to pay these illegal charges under protest.

I am particularly anxious to submit this latter point to your Lordship, for, if the principle laid down meets with approbation, it will, in a great measure, prevent claims founded on irregular acts of provincial authorities, becoming a source of gain to unscrupulous traders, a system which flourished luxuriantly in Egypt, to the great detriment of the national reputation of European states.

The complaints forwarded from Hankow are simply an illustration of the truth, that in countries, like China, where the principles of administration differ entirely from those practised by us, the conclusion of a treaty is the commencement and not the termination of difficulties. The ill-will, ignorance, and necessities of local authorities have to be encountered ; and time, patience, and tact are required to overcome them. Foreign merchants expect to obtain the same facilities at Hankow as, for instance, at Shanghae, forgetting that twenty years have elapsed since our intercourse with the latter place began ; and they apply to the Consul for naval assistance as the readiest and most effectual means of overcoming opposition. The Chinese Government relies so little on force in its internal administration, that the appearance of a single gunboat is generally enough to effect the object peaceably ; but there is no certainty that such will always be the case, and at all events the proceeding is not very palatable, and probably leads to retaliation in the shape of petty annoyances and insults offered by the populace to foreigners.

Your Lordship will see by the enclosed despatch from the Prince of Kung, that another release of laden junks and seizure of war-boats has been effected near Nanking, the circumstances of which have not been reported to me. These acts are not easy to justify, and it is difficult to say how far they may put to inconvenience Tsung-kwo-fan, in his operations on the river against the insurgents. My reply is, that these acts are rendered necessary by the habitual disregard of treaty rights, and the little attention paid to the Prince of Kung's orders on this subject. At the same time I have written, both to the Consuls and to Sir James Hope, to put a stop to these proceedings, as this remedy is more objectionable than the evil complained of.

A considerable contraband trade is springing up on the Yangtze River, in salt; and at one place, about fifteen miles above Chin-kiang, a settlement is growing up, formed of needy and desperate western men, who undertake to convoy vessels engaged in it. The Chinese allow these vessels to pass, but have established customs' stations to exact duty on the articles. The war-junks attached to these stations are, no doubt, those whose acts are complained of. The breach of treaty committed by the foreigners engaging in this traffic, leads to breaches of treaty being committed by Chinese; and while I complain of these abusive acts, the Chinese Government is remonstrating against the illegal proceedings of foreigners on the Yangtze River.

I have, &c.,

FREDERICK W. A. BRUCE.

The Right Honourable Earl Russell,

&c., &c., &c.

[Enclosure 1.]

British Consulate, Hankow,
June 23, 1862.

SIR,

MESSRS. TURNER AND CO. complained to me, on the 28th May, of the stoppage of a chop of tea at the custom-house, about 160 le from Hankow, Hoo-peh province, and that a duty of 4 mace a chest of 75 catties had been demanded in excess of the transit duty which had already been levied in the Hoo-nan province. This payment had been tendered in Sycee, but the officer in charge of the barrier alleged the silver was not of sufficient pureness, and refused to allow the teas to pass, or to take the silver at a discount.

A messenger was then dispatched from Hankow with Sycee of the required pureness, but for some reason or other the teas were still detained, and on the 30th I was again addressed by Messrs. Turner and Co.'s agent, stating that in consequence of the non-arrival of the tea, he had been compelled to purchase other teas in the market in lieu of those detained, and that he had sustained a positive and immediate loss of 14,500 täels, which he begged may be recovered from the Chinese officials.

I had, on his first complaint, addressed a letter to the Superintendent of Customs, telling him the officers would be held responsible for the detention and for the illegal exaction on these teas; and as up to the 30th I had received no reply, and there appeared no probability of the boats being released, I requested Lieutenant Poole, of H. M. gunboat "Havoc," to proceed to the barrier where they were detained, and effect their liberation.

But before the departure of the "Havoc" from the harbour, the boats containing the teas arrived.

On these teas an excess of 618·75 täels had been paid.

Messrs. Dent and Co.'s agent, on the 30th May, brought to me Lekin receipts exhibiting an excess on transit duty of 940 täels; this excess I claimed from the Superintendent of Customs, a copy of whose reply is enclosed.

On the 13th, a further claim for 462·40 paid in excess was made again by the same firm; and on the 11th and 12th June, Messrs. Gibb Livingstone's agent, and Messrs. Gilman's agent, made similar complaints of excessive charges of 541·60 and 467·20 respectively.

For all these charges Lekin receipts had been granted, and the papers were handed in to me by the several complainants.

On the 10th June, Messrs. Dent and Co.'s agent reported the stoppage of six boats, containing teas, at two barriers, Peh-how-kow and Tan-kow, on which the extra charge of four mace per chest was demanded. Certificates of the proper amount of transit duty having been paid on the teas in the Hoonan provinces were produced to me, and Mr. Evans further stated that he had given positive orders to the Chinese in charge of the teas, on no account to pay the excess demanded; and as the officer of the station had declared that these boats should not be allowed to pass unless under this payment, there appeared but little probability of the teas reaching Hankow.

I had on so many occasions already addressed in vain both the Viceroy and the Superintendent of Customs on this same subject, that I resolved to place the matter in Lieutenant Poole's hands, and to request him to take such steps in the liberation of the boats as would more effectually impress the authorities of this port with the necessity of adhering strictly to the tariff rules. Lieutenant Poole accordingly left this port on the 11th, and returned on the evening of the 14th, having effected the release of the teas. Copy of his letter reporting his proceedings is enclosed.

Immediately on his arrival I sent a message to the Superintendent of Customs, requesting he would take charge of the Chinese brought down, which he did the same evening, and on Monday, the 16th, I addressed a letter to the Viceroy, of which the enclosed is a copy. On the eve of its dispatch a Wei-yuen visited the Consulate, and handed me a private note from the Viceroy, asking me to give up the boats, as orders had been issued not to levy the excess in future, and that thus the necessity of public documents on either side in reference to the subject would be dispensed with. The officer was informed that the Viceroy had been written to officially, and that when his official reply to that communication, promising the irregular and illegal acts should no longer be allowed, was received, the boats would be given up. No answer to my letter was received until the evening of the 21st, on which day the boats were handed over. Copy and translation of this, as well as of the Viceroy's private note, enclosed.

Since the opening of the port, the 7th Rule attached to the Tariff has been entirely set aside by the authorities. Exemption certificates for goods to be conveyed into the interior they have virtually refused to issue, and in case of exports the officers in charge of barriers have in many instances objected to recognise produce as being foreign owned, although reported so by the person in charge, and thus the merchants have been subjected to detention and illegal exactions. It appears that the Lieutenant-Governor of Hoonan has determined upon levying transit dues allowed by treaty on all produce passing through this province, irrespective of the authorities of Hoo-peh.

On goods arriving in the latter province, notwithstanding the transit duty has been already paid and a certificate to that effect given, a further demand is again made at the several barriers the produce may have to pass on its way to Hankow.

The local governments are thus contending each for its own particular levy, but the Hoonan requires the allowed transit duty, while the Hoopeh claims an illegal charge.

About twelve hours after the gun-boat had left this harbour, Chin, Superintendent of Customs, paid me a late visit, and after a variety of futile excuses, the chief of which was that these levies are made under the old regulations, and that nothing had ever been definitely settled in reference to collection of duties at Hankow, he informed me that orders had that day been sent off to the different officers in charge of barriers to discontinue these levies, and he requested that I would send off a messenger and call back the gun-boat; I informed him I had repeatedly addressed communications to the Viceroy and other authorities begging that these irregularities may be put a stop to, and I showed him the copy of Prince Kung's despatch to the Viceroy, where orders were given that not a fraction more than the duties allowed by tariff was to be taken, and I pointed out to him that these orders had met with no attention, and that as my own communications were equally disregarded, and as teas were still stopped up the country for illegal duties, my last resource had been to place the matter in the hands of Her Majesty's senior naval officer, who had gone up for the express purpose of releasing the boats so detained; and I added it was to be regretted that the orders just given had not been issued at a much earlier date, bound as the authorities were to carry out the rules attached to the tariff, whether duties were or were not received at Hankow.

To a question put by myself when the amounts, as ordered by Prince Kung, would be refunded to Messrs. Dent and Co., and Messrs. Dudley and Co., he remarked that the sum would be paid back when duties were collected at Hankow.

CHING, Superintendent of Customs.

June 10, 1862.

ON the 2nd instant I received your letter requesting me to refund at once excess of duty and Lekin paid by Messrs. Dent and Co., at Neë-keashe, on teas bought by them and brought to Hankow.

For this excess there are reasons which ought to be separately explained, and not all taken as one whole.

The duties to be received at the Custom-house not having been determined, I have not issued transit reports and certificates, and I have long ago requested you to wait a month or two, till the question was settled.

The Authorities of Hoonan have addressed the Throne, praying that Lekin may be levied in lieu of transit duty, and a note to that effect has been made on the receipts, as you will see on examination.

The Imperial will has left this matter to the Viceroy's deliberation; and, although it has not yet been definitively settled, the amounts do not differ very much from that payable by transit duties.

With regard to the Lekin paid at Neë kea she, that paid in cash was a levy made on the tea growers, as is plainly stated on the receipt, and was paid by the hong into the office for them. May I request you to examine the receipt, when you will see that the payment has no connection with the foreign merchant.

Indeed this document should be held by the tea grower, and I do not know why it passed into Messrs. Dent and Co.'s hands. I would request you to address the Viceroy, that he may order inquiry by having this fact verified, and thus preventing future complications.

But Fashow is a barrier in Hoopeh, and, as the duties have not been arranged, each province collects its own, according to the regulations formerly existing. Taking both provinces together, as regards the merchant, the payment is in excess, but, as regards the barrier, it is still adhering to the old regulations received. This matter cannot be discussed with your countrymen, and I have already reported it to the Viceroy, who orders to wait until the payment of tariff duties at the Kiang Han Custom-house shall have been arranged, and there is no fear that this matter will then remain without settlement.

Your request for refund I really cannot now accede to, but it is right that I should reply to your letter, and return you the nine Lekin receipt.

H.M. Gunboat "Havoc,"
Hankow, June 14, 1862.

SIR,

WITH reference to your letter of the 10th instant, I have the honour to inform you, that I have returned from Tan-kau, having released Messrs. Dent and Co.'s teas at that place, also 660 chests detained by the customs authorities at Lian-lien-kia, belonging to the same firm.

I arrived at Tan-kau on the evening of the 12th instant. I there seized all the Mandarin and war junks, as also the officer in charge of the custom-house.

I have brought him, as also the gunboats and guns named in the margin,* with me to Hankow.

On the 13th, I stopped at Lian-lien-kia, and released the boats containing Messrs. Dent and Co.'s teas.

The war-boats had all been taken about three miles up a creek. I went up in our boats and seized them. They had been scuttled by the crews, and some of their guns were thrown overboard. I was obliged to leave one gunboat behind, as she had such a large hole in her. The remainder, as stated in margin,† I raised and have brought with me to Hankow.

I sent, on arrival at this place, to the Mandarin's, informing him that I would call on him; but when I went on shore in the evening he was nowhere to be found. The people told me he had gone that day to Hankow. I have every reason to believe that he left after my arrival.

One of the boats seized at this place got adrift during the night; and this morning I found her at Pei-chow, scuttled, on shore, with everything taken out of her. There was a war-boat close to her, and, as I observed some of their men about her, I am sure that it was these men who had stripped her. I therefore seized their boat,* which I have brought to Hankow.

* 4 gunboats, 16 guns.

† 3 gunboats (one of these boats lost in the way down river), 2 guns.

Besides the custom-house officer, I have five men who were taken in the different junks. I will be glad if you will make arrangements to take these men † out of the ship as soon as possible.

I would suggest to you that we retain possession of the war-boats and guns ‡ until some assurance is given that no more than the proper amount of duties be charged on goods belonging to British merchants coming down the river.

I have, &c.,

British Consulate,
Hankow, June 16, 1862.

SIR.

THE 7th Rule of the Tariff attached to the Treaty of Tien-tsin states

Rule 7.—Transit Dues.

It is agreed that Article XXVIII of the Treaty of Tien-tsin shall be interpreted to declare the amount of transit-dues legally leviable upon merchandize imported or exported by British subjects,

---

* Gunboat, 1; guns, 2.

† Prisoners, 5, not including customs' officer.

‡ Total gunboats, 7; guns, 20; prisoners, 6 in number.

to be one-half of the tariff-duties, except in the case of the duty-free goods liable to a transit-duty of two and a-half per cent. ad valorem, as provided in Article 2 of these Rules. Merchandize shall be cleared of its transit-dues under the following conditions :—

In the case of Imports.—Notice being given at the port of entry from which the imports are to be forwarded inland ; of the nature and quantity of the goods ; the ship from which they have been landed ; and the place inland to which they are bound, with all other necessary particulars ; the Collector of Customs will, on due inspection made, and on receipt of the transit-duty due, issue a transit-duty certificate. This must be produced at every barrier station, and viséd. No further duty will be leviable upon imports so certificated, no matter how distant the place of their destination.

In the case of Exports.—Produce purchased by a British subject in the interior will be inspected and taken account of at the first barrier it passes on its way to the port of shipment. A memorandum, showing the amount of the produce and the port at which it is to be shipped, will be deposited there by the person in charge of the produce ; he will then receive a certificate, which must be exhibited and viséd at every barrier on his way to the port of shipment. On the arrival of the produce at the barrier nearest the port, notice must be given to the Customs at the port, and the transit-dues due thereon being paid, it will be passed. On exportation the produce will pay the tariff-duty.

Any attempt to pass goods inwards or outwards, otherwise than in compliance with the rule here laid down, will render them liable to confiscation.

Unauthorised sale, in transitu, of goods that have been entered as above for a port, will render them liable to confiscation. Any attempt to pass goods in excess of the quantity specified in the certificate, will render all the goods of the same denomination named in the certificate liable to confiscation. Permission to export produce which cannot be proved to have paid its transit-dues, will be refused by the Customs until the transit-dues shall have been paid.

The above being the arrangement agreed to regarding the transit-dues, which will thus be levied once and for all, the notification required under Article XXVIII of the Treaty of Tientsin, for the information of British and Chinese subjects, is hereby dispensed with.

Now I find that this rule has again and again been disregarded by the authorities in charge of barriers up the river, and that I have repeatedly addressed the Superintendent of Customs at Hankow, calling upon him to allow none but the Tariff rate of duties to be levied; but in spite of my remonstrances the Lekin duty has been levied. Transit certificates have been refused, and in many instances tea and other produce detained at barriers, to the great inconvenience and loss of the British Merchants.

Last year, Messrs. Dudley and Co. had teas stopped, and they were made to pay an excess of 285 täels. Messrs. Dent and Co. also paid an excess of 357 täels on one occasion; and on another, in the eighth month of last year, at Too Kow, 499 t. 9 m. 5 c. These facts were at the time communicated to the then Taotai Chang, and refund of the excess required as is recorded.

The first two instances were reported to Her Majesty's Minister at Peking, by whom they were brought to the notice of the Imperial Foreign Office, and subsequent orders were given to your Excellency to recover these amounts paid in excess and hand them over to me. A copy of the despatch to your address on this subject was enclosed to me from Peking, and the original letter I delivered to you in the beginning of the 3rd moon of this year as is recorded. This letter required that none but tariff rates should be levied, and it further directed the punishment of the Wei-yuens in charge of these several barriers where the excessive charges had been levied.

On the 5th May of this year I addressed your Excellency, and requested that orders might be sent to the officials in charge of the several barriers, directing them to collect the tariff rate and not the Lekin, as the tea season was approaching, and the British merchants had sent persons into the interior to purchase and bring down teas.

On the 30th May Turner and Co. addressed me complaining that two boats of tea had been stopt at Liao-lin-Kea, and that he had paid more than taels 500 excess of duty.

Messrs. Dent and Co. also reported having been obliged to pay an excess of 484 taels, 456 T. and 462 . 4. on three chops of tea.

On the 11th June Messrs. Gibb, Livingston, and Co. reported having paid 293 T. 6 and 248 T. excess on two chops of tea.

Messrs. Gilman and Co. also reported having to pay 467 T. 2 m. in excess. It would, therefore, appear that your Excellency never issued instructions, or else that those instructions have never been attended to.

On the 10th June Messrs. Dent and Co. reported that 6 boats containing tea were stopt at Tao-Kow and Pe-ho-Kow, and 4 mace per chest demanded over and above the tariff rate, which sum they had refused to pay, and consequently the teas were detained. As my reiterated requests have failed to effect any change in this illegal mode of conducting foreign trade, I requested the Commander of Her Majesty's gunboat to proceed to Tao Kow and Pe-ho-Kow, and release these teas; and on the 11th instant he started, returning on the 14th, having seized the Wei-yuen belonging to the Tao-Kow barrier, who had detained the teas, as also 7 war-boats, together with 20 guns and 5 Chinese belonging to some of the boats. These he brought down to Hankow, and the Wei-yuen with the five Chinese were handed over on the 14th instant to a deputy of Ching Tao-tai; but the boats and guns will be detained until I learn from your Excellency that orders are issued that hereafter British merchants shall not be called upon to pay any excess over and above the tariff rate, and that the excess already paid shall be refunded.

It remains with your Excellency to explain why the directions in Prince Kung's despatch have not been carried out (a copy of which I append). I am desirous that the Treaty shall be strictly followed, and if your Excellency had given strict injunctions to your several subordinates to act in accordance thereto, much trouble and difficulty would have been saved.

Awaiting your reply,

[Enclosure No. 5.]

KWAN Viceroy, Governor-General of Hookwang, &c., &c., &c.

June 20, 1862.

ON the 14th instant, the General Lekin Board transmitted me the following petition of the officer in charge of the barrier at Tao-Kow :—" Suddenly, at noon, on the 12th instant, a British vessel of war arrived at the barrier with Lieutenant Poole and Mr. King. With their men they seized gunboats, a long dragon, and a fast crab (two denominations of boats), together with money and other articles, as also Ma the officer, 4 braves, and several guns." Also the petition of the officer of the Pih-ho-kow barrier, at Siao-lin-kea, that on the 13th, at noon, a British vessel of war suddenly arrived at the barrier and seized 3 gunboats, 6 guns, and 1 preventive police boat, anchored at Pai-chew, with one man in her.

Subsequently, Ching Tao-tai, of the Kiang Han Custom-house, reported to me at an interview, that you had delivered into his care the officer and others, but had not yet given up the gun-boats, and that your motive for so doing was, that some Hoonan tea having already paid a transit duty in Hoonan, a further levy was still made in Hoopih of 4 mace per chest. I was much surprised on hearing this. In your despatch to me, I note that you argue on the VII Tariff Rule—the Wei-yuen's breach of the same in detaining the tea—the excess paid—and Ching Tao-tai's refusal to grant transit certificates. Now, the Tariff Rules were drawn up previous to the trade on the Yangtsze, and last year, because trade on the Yangtsze could not be carried on in the same way as at the maritime ports, a set of Yangtsze Trade Regulations were specially drawn up. If in every thing the Treaty should be religiously observed, why, since a Custom-house has been established at Hankow, have not export and import tariff duties been yet received here? The matter is quite plain and intelligible.

I have never said that the Kiang Han Kuan Custom-house should not receive transit duty, and Ching Tao-tai has already replied to you saying that the question of duties here was not arranged, and requesting you to wait a little till Mr. Hart, sent here by Prince Kung, shall have settled, as it is certain he will, the matter definitely, and neither thus did Ching Tao-tai say he would not receive transit duty.

Tea brought here from Yang-lew-tung in Hoo-pih pays a contribution of 9 mace a chest and no more is made at other places ; this is less than the transit duty. That brought from Nu-Kea-she in Hoonan, according to the Imperial assent prayed for by Mao Foo-tai of Hoonan, pays a Lekin in lieu of a transit duty. Hoonan not being a port, the duties it receives cannot be called "transit," and this confusion of the regulations originates in Hoonan. I have on this subject been instructed by His Majesty to consider and arrange the question, but the arrangements not having been definately made, Fao Kow and Pe ho Kow have, according to their old and as yet unrepealed orders, made their levy of 4 mace per chest. Hearing now that your merchants do not consent to this levy, I have already this month circulated general orders to cease from levying on teas of these two provinces the slightest excess according to the native duties and subscriptions. The excess already paid by the 4 mace per chest of course ought to be refunded, and when there are duties to be paid to the Custom-house, there is no objection to the refund being made by a deduction from the duties ; but I can only recognise refunds stated in your letter, and that of Messrs. Dent and Co. notified to the custom-house on a former occasion. Others in addition to these cannot be allowed, as causing endless complications.

With regard to the cases last year of Messrs. Dent and Co., and Dudley and Co., they occurred before a Custom-house was established, and before the date of the Yangtze Trade Regulation ; besides which, the excess was received in Hoonan, and consequently cannot affect the Superintendent of Customs here.

Although I received a letter from the Foreign Office, yet the provinces are permitted to address (that office) direct, and I have already sent a reply explaining the nature of the case, that that office may reply to the British Minister. In this matter [you / I ?] ought to listen to the orders given by the authorities away from the capital, and [I | am not able at this time to act upon my own responsibility.

You say in your letter you seek nothing but strict observance of the Treaty, and that the excess levied at every barrier interferes with the Treaty, but is it in accordance with Treaty that Mr. Poole and Mr. King should assault the barrier, seizing and carrying off boats and guns from Tao-kow, Pe-ho-kow, and Pai-chaw, together with money, articles, an officer, and other people ?

Whether you restore the guns and boats, or not, you yourself will judge and decide.

Autograph Note written by Viceroy to Mr. Consul Gingell :—

The reason why a levy of 4 mace Lekin per chest was made at Tao-Kow on Hoonan teas was, that the officer had not yet received a letter, stating that transit duty had already been collected in Hoonan. Hearing this, I directed the General Lekin Board to direct all the barriers to cease collecting the 4 mace, but my letter did not arrive at the board till the next day, and now there will be no further levy made on Hoonan tea other than the transit duty only ; the boats must produce their receipts for inspection at the barriers, as proof that they are not those of scheming natives endeavouring to creep in. Thus henceforward we shall have no suspicion one of the other, and I hope you will give up to me all the gunboats, and there is no necessity for any dispatches between the two Governments to be kept on record, as there is nothing glorious to boast of.

SIR, Peking, July 17, 1862.

I HAVE received your despatch, giving an account of the steps taken by yourself and Lieutenant Poole, to put an end to exactions on teas brought down by Her Majesty's subjects from the interior.

As these measures have been executed, and have, I trust, put a stop to these exactions, I do not think it necessary to enter into a detailed examination of these proceedings, but I think it right to state that I do not approve, whatever immediate advantage may be derived from such acts of violence, of the seizure of war-junks and of the carrying off, as prisoner, the wei-yuen of the barrier Custom-house.

Had any collision taken place, and had loss of life ensued, the proceeding could not have been justified.

I have stated in a previous despatch the only circumstances under which Her Majesty's Consuls are justified in calling on Her Majesty's naval forces for material assistance, viz.: where life or property are endangered by violence. But a surcharge of duties does not justify its employment. Such demands, if illegal, ought to be paid under protest, and sooner or later the amounts will be recovered. There is no power lodged in the hands of Her Majesty's agents in this country, to redress such violation of treaty by force, and when you are called upon to employ it, in such cases, you will refuse to do so.

The important result to be gained by the establishment of direct relations with the government of Peking, is the avoidance of local acts of violence, which produce bad blood on both sides, and have been most prejudicial to general tranquillity by weakening the authority of the Chinese Government in the eyes of its people. Time will elapse before the new system will work smoothly and efficiently, but however much you may be urged by local influences, you must not go beyond pacific efforts to remedy the abuses complained of.

SIR, Peking, July 19, 1862.

I OBSERVE in one of the cases mentioned in your despatch, respecting the exaction of four mace additional per chest of tea, that one of the mercantile firms had given orders to its agent not to pay the charge.

As a matter of principle, there can be no doubt that where there is a dispute between a Custom-house agent in the interior and a foreign trader, the former is the judge. It is to be assumed that the officer is acting under superior orders, and, whether these orders be in accordance with treaty or not, he has no power to vary them. The course of proceeding the trader ought to adopt in such a case is to pay under protest; and I wish you to understand that I will not take up claims for consequential damages, founded on detention, &c., where the goods might have been released, and these complications avoided by a payment of the disputed charge under protest. Still less do I approve of vessels of war being sent to release them under such circumstances.

The transit duty clause in the treaty is, as you are aware, a great innovation on the principles of Chinese provincial administration. It is reasonable, therefore, to expect that at first the exercise of this privilege will meet with opposition, but with patience and perseverance the clause will be brought into operation, and Her Majesty's agents are bound to see that the course pursued by Her Majesty's subjects, in these cases, is one that will confine claims to the refund of the excess of duty demanded, and not one which, in the hands of unscrupulous men, gives rise to extravagant and colourable extortion, under pretext of consequential damages.

FROM THE

Foreign Office, November 7, 1862.

CORRESPONDENCE respecting Montenegro:

Despatch 1.

THE EARL RUSSELL TO MR. J. SAVILE LUMLEY.

SIR, Foreign Office, Sept. 30, 1862.

I HAVE read and laid before the Queen your despatches, Nos. 88 and 93, of the 2nd and 5th instant, relating to the affairs of Montenegro.

Her Majesty's Government have to express their regret that they cannot agree with the views of Prince Gortschakoff either on the general question of interference in the affairs of Turkey or on the particular question of Montenegro.

Her Majesty's Government have always understood that when Turkey was allowed to form part of the system of Europe, she was to have all the advantages, and be liable to all the duties, of an independent State. She was, in short, to be as independent as Prussia or Portugal, Sweden or Saxony, and, on the other hand, to be bound like those States by the faith of treaties and the ties of international comity and good will.

If this be so, it is not justifiable, where treaties are silent to interfere without necessity or provocation in a case where an insurrection has broken out in Turkey, and that insurrection has been supported by a neighbouring Prince.

Such was the case in Herzegovina, where an insurrection broke out, and in Montenegro, from which it was fomented and supported.

If the Prince of Montenegro was a vassal, the Sultan had a right to reduce him to obedience, and to impose such conditions as will secure that obedience for the future; if he was an independent Prince, the Sultan had a right to force him to accept such terms of peace as would prevent a renewal of his aggression.

As to the particular terms demanded by Turkey, Her Majesty's Government do not pretend to justify or to condemn them.

It is for the Porte to declare what guarantees are necessary for her future quiet.

The terms proposed, however, are not without example.

Soon after the beginning of the last century the Highlanders of Scotland attempted to overthrow the throne of the Hanoverian family, and to set up another dynasty. The advisers of the British Crown took means to overcome this resistance. They defeated the insurgents in two rebellions, they made good roads through the Scotch mountains, and they erected forts to keep the disaffected in awe.

At the present day Her Majesty has no more loyal subjects than the Highlanders of Scotland.

I will not conclude without giving, in a few words, the view taken by Her Majesty's Government of what is going on in Turkey.

If the Sclavonic and Greek subjects of the Sultan rise in insurrection, and that insurrection is suppressed, the weight of authority will be made heavier, privileges will be withdrawn, and the sums which ought to be expended in making roads and harbours, and in promoting improvement, will be diverted to the pay and maintenance of a large military force.

If, on the other hand, the darling scheme entertained in some quarters of overthrowing the Turkish rule should be successful, Greeks and Sclavonians will quarrel, each province will claim supremacy, civil war will ravage the countries where the authority of the Sultan shall have been thrown off, and an appeal will be made to the great Powers of Europe to put an end to this anarchy by dividing among themselves the Turkish provinces. But the European Powers would hardly be able to perform this task without giving rise to fresh conflicts—probably to a general war.

Such are the views which induce Her Majesty's Government, while sincerely desirous of improving the condition of the Christian subjects of the Porte, to refuse all countenance to projects which in Greece go by the name of the 'great idea,' and which, whether Greek or Sclavonic, tend to the disruption of all existing ties of allegiance in the Turkish empire, and are more or less connected with the criminal intrigues of which Turkey feels the effects in Servia, and which aim no less at the subversion of every monarchy in Europe than at the destruction of the integrity of the Ottoman empire.

(Communicated by Baron Brunnow, October 23, 1862.)

Monsieur le Baron,

J'AI l'honneur de transmettre ci-près à votre Excellence la copie d'une dépêche de Lord Russell, dont M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre m'a donné communication d'après l'ordre du Principal Secrétaire d'Etat de Sa Majesté Britannique.

Elle a trait aux évènemens du Monténégro, ainsi qu'à la question générale d'intervention dans les affaires de Turquie, et exprime le regret du Cabinet Anglais de ne point pouvoir adhérer aux vues que nous avons énoncées à cet égard.

Le prix que nous attachons à nous trouver autant que possible d'accord avec le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique, m'engage à examiner de plus près la question, afin de constater les points sur lesquels cet accord peut exister et ceux sur lesquels nous devons maintenir une opinion différente.

Nous ne contestons nullement le point de vue général émis par Lord Russell que, du moment où la Turquie a été admise à faire partie du système Européen, elle a droit aux mêmes avantages que tout autre Etat indépendant, et est liée par les mêmes devoirs résultant des Traités et des rapports internationaux de convenance et de bon vouloir. Lord Russell en infère que dès lors le Gouvernement Ottoman était parfaitement libre d'agir à son gré à l'égard du Monténégro, de le réduire à l'obéissance si c'était un Etat vassal, à telles conditions qui pouvaient assurer à l'avenir le maintien de cette obéissance, et si c'était un Etat indépendant, de lui imposer telles conditions de paix qui pouvaient prévenir de nouvelles agressions.

Ici je ferai observer incidentellement que l'Angleterre a toujours professé des doctrines politiques tendant à la reconnaissance des Gouvernements de fait, c'est-à-dire, de ceux dont l'existence se manifeste par des faits assez notoires et assez durables pour constater leur vitalité.

D'après cette doctrine, il nous semble que le Cabinet Anglais ne devrait pas contester au Monténégro un droit à l'indépendance que ce pays a maintenu depuis plus d'un siècle avec une indomptable énergie, à moins d'admettre que le principe en question ne cesse d'être applicable du moment où il s'agit de réduire un Etat Chrétien sous la domination Turque.

Quant à l'opinion que la Porte étant en guerre avec le Monténégro comme avec un Etat indépendant, était en droit de lui imposer des conditions ressortant de la situation respective des belligérans à l'issue de la guerre, nous ne la contestons nullement.

Nous rapellerons seulement à Lord Russell qu'en insistant avec raison sur les droits qui appartiennent à la Turquie comme membre de la famille Européenne, il a lui-même indiqué les devoirs correspondant à ces droits et découlant des rapports internationaux.

Or, dans la question présente, à côté de la Porte et du Monténégro comme belligérans, il y a un troisième élément: les Grandes Puissances de l'Europe. Indépendamment de l'intérêt profond qu'elles doivent vouer à des évènemens dont les conséquences, en affectant le repos de l'Orient, rejaillissent sur la sécurité générale, et sans parler des antécédens qui ont amené leur participation solennelle à des actes publics concernant les rapports entre la Turquie et le Monténégro, les Grandes Puissances ont vu leur sollicitude appelée sur ce débat par la Porte elle-même, qui, en prenant spontanément vis-à-vis d'elles l'engagement de ne modifier en rien le statu quo territorial et administratif de la Montagne, a posé de sa propre initiative une limite à son droit de belligérante.

Il nous parait impossible d'admettre qu'elle en soit dégagée par le fait que le Prince Nicolas n'a accepté que d'une manière évasive le premier ultimatum d'Omer Pacha.

Lorsque la Porte a fait la déclaration dont nous parlons, la réponse du Prince Nicolas lui était parfaitement connue, et c'est même à la suite de cette réponse qu'elle s'est décidée aux opérations militaires sur les conséquences desquelles elle a pris soin de rassurer d'avance les Grandes Puissances intéressées à ce débat.

Il en eût sans doute été autrement, si, dans le cours de la guerre, le Gouvernement Ottoman avait déclaré qu'il ne se considérait plus comme lié par sa promesse antérieure. En pareil cas, les Puissances auraient été à même de combiner en conséquence leur attitude et leurs conseils.

Ce n'est pas ainsi que les choses se sont passées. Aucune déclaration semblable n'a été faite. Pas une parole n'a été prononcée qui fût de nature à affaiblir l'engagement primitif, spontanément contracté par le Gouvernement Ottoman. Les Grandes Puissances ont été tenues jusqu'au dernier moment dans l'ignorance des conditions envoyées à Omer Pacha, et lorsqu'elles ont pu les apprécier, elles se trouvaient en présence d'un fait accompli qui ne saurait invalider le droit que la Porte elle-même leur avait concédé.

C'est donc à ces Puissances à juger si ces conditions sont d'accord avec les engagements pris à leur égard ; si nommément la clause qui stipule la construction d'une route militaire avec des blockhaus gardés par des garnisons Turques n'équivaut pas à une véritable occupation militaire, à une prise de possession réelle du pays ; si elle n'introduit pas dans la Montagne un principe dangereux, celui du contact immédiat des races—principe qui vient précisément d'être condamné d'après ses résultats, et définitivement aboli en Servie comme incompatible avec le maintien des relations pacifiques que l'Europe désire voir s'établir et se consolider en Orient pour la sécurité générale ; si, par conséquent, cette clause ne détruit pas entièrement le statu quo que la Porte s'était engagée à maintenir ; et si enfin elle n'est pas de nature à constituer un état de guerre permanent là où les efforts collectifs des Puissances qui sont intervenues dans la Convention de 1858, ont eu pour but de prévenir des conflits.

Nous croyons, quant à nous, que l'examen de ces questions est pour ces Puissances un devoir de prévoyance et de dignité.

Lord Russell cite comme un exemple à l'appui des derniers actes de la Porte à l'égard du Monténégro, un fait historique du siècle dernier, la révolte des Highlanders d'Ecosse contre la Maison de Hanovre, révolte qui fut domptée par les mêmes moyens dont le Gouvernement Ottoman prétend user envers les Monténégrins.

Lord Russell nous permettra de lui faire observer que l'Ecosse se trouvait réunie depuis longtems à l'Angleterre lorsqu'une fraction du pays, les Highlanders, essaya de renverser la dynastie Hanovrienne, tandis que le Monténégro n'a jamais reconnu ni souveraineté ni suzeraineté de la part de la Porte et a su maintenir son indépendance de fait à travers une lutte de plus d'un siècle.

J'ajouterai qu'en employant la rigueur à l'égard des Highlanders, la Dynastie de Hanovre les ralliait sous un Gouvernement qui leur apportait les lumières et le bien-être; c'est pourquoi ses efforts ont abouti à faire aujourd'hui des Highlanders de loyaux sujets de Sa Majesté la Reine.

Quelque convaincus que nous soyons des bonnes intentions qui prévalent dans les conseils du Gouvernement Turc, le respect que nous professons pour le haut degré de civilisation dont s'honore à juste titre la nation Britannique, ne nous permet pas d'établir sous ce rapport une analogie qui d'ailleurs n'existe, quant aux faits, ni dans leur principe, ni dans leurs conséquences probables.

Il n'y voit que deux solutions possibles: ou bien des insurrections permanentes des sujets Slaves ou Grecs du Sultan, dont la répression devrait avoir pour effet de restreindre leurs privilèges, de rendre plus lourd le poids de l'autorité, et d'obliger celle-ci à dépenser en armements militaires les ressources qui pourraient être affectées à l'établissement de routes ou de ports; —ou bien le succès définitif des entreprises tentées par les populations Chrétiennes pour secouer la domination Musulmane, résultat qui aboutirait à l'anarchie, à la lutte des races, et finalement à l'intervention de l'Europe et au partage des provinces Turques au prix d'une guerre générale.

Le Principal Secrétaire d'État de Sa Majesté Britannique nous permettra d'abord de lui rappeler que les privilèges dont jouissent les provinces Chrétiennes du Sultan reposent sur la garantie des Grandes Puissances de l'Europe, et que par conséquent elles ne sauraient être restreintes sans violer une des stipulations les plus solennelles du Traité du $\frac{18}{20}$ Mars, 1856.

Mais, en outre, nous ne pouvons pas nous résigner à admettre que la solution d'un problême d'un si haut intérêt pour la sécurité, le repos, la prospérité générale, les principes modernes de civilisation et de progrès, et les sentimens d'humanité des Grandes Puissances de l'Europe, ne puisse se trouver ailleurs que dans les termes extrêmes où le Principal Secrétaire d'Etat de Sa Majesté Britannique la cherche exclusivement, en ne laissant d'autre alternative aux deux parties en présence qu'une lutte d'extermination réciproque, et d'autre rôle aux Grandes Puissances de l'Europe que de se diviser en appuyant, selon leurs vues particulières, les unes des répressions à outrance de la part de la Porte, les autres des aspirations passionnées de la part des populations Chrétiennes.

A notre avis, cette solution doit plutôt être cherchée dans les voies de la conciliation mieux appropriées aux intérêts en conflit et aux besoins de notre époque.

La conservation de l'Empire Ottoman est pour nous, comme pour toutes les Grandes Puissances, un principe essentiel d'équilibre Européen. Mais, en présence des élémens de désordre et de lutte, légués à ces contrées par les siècles passés, un pareil résultat ne saurait être atteint d'une manière solide et durable que par un systême de Gouvernement qui tendrait à concilier au Sultan l'affection et la reconnaissance de ses sujets Chrétiens, en donnant à leurs besoins et à leurs vœux une satisfaction légitime, et en les dotant à cet effet des conditions d'existence indispensables à une vie sociale, heureuse et prospère.

C'est là en effet la voie que nous n'avons pas

cessé de recommander comme la seule qui puisse conduire à l'affermissement et à la prospérité de l'Empire Ottoman dans des conditions compatibles avec les Traités existans, comme avec les sympathies, les convictions, et les intérêts généraux de l'Europe.

C'est également dans ce but que nous n'avons pas cessé de convier les Grandes Puissances à un accord qui, en écartant tous les calculs fondés sur leur rivalité politique, aurait exercé une salutaire influence, d'un côté sur les Chrétiens, en leur inspirant confiance et espoir, de l'autre sur le Gouvernement Turc, en le fortifiant dans les bonnes intentions manifestées à plusieurs reprises par Sa Majesté le Sultan.

Nous avons la conviction que si nos conseils avaient été écoutés ils eussent prévenu les calamités qu'on a aujourd'hui à déplorer.

Nous ne voulons pas porter un jugement trop sévère sur les actes du Gouvernement Ottoman. Nous savons qu'il a à lutter avec de grandes difficultés et nous sommes tout disposés à lui tenir compte de ses moindres efforts. Mais, nous devons aussi reconnaître que des faits tels que la guerre qui vient de s'accomplir en Herzégovine et dans le Monténégro, ou le bombardement d'une cité sans défense, ne sont pas les moyens qui peuvent conduire au but désiré.

Ce sont précisément ces mesures violentes qui, en exaltant à la fois les prétentions des vainqueurs et les ressentimens des vaincus, amènent les choses à un point où il n'y a plus de recours possible qu'à la force, et plus de solution que l'une ou l'autre des deux extrémités signalées par Lord Russell.

C'est parceque nous croyons qu'un pareil résultat n'est conforme ni à l'intérêt des Chrétiens, ni à celui du Gouvernement Turc, ni à celui des Grandes Puissances de l'Europe, que nous persistons à recommander aux premiers la prudence, au second la modération, aux dernières le bon accord qui peut seul donner à leurs conseils l'autorité nécessaire.

Le jour où le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté Britannique voudra entrer dans cette voie de conciliation, vous pouvez l'assurer qu'il nous trouvera à ses côtés, pourvu toutefois qu'il ne se renferme pas dans un optimisme que nous ne pourrions pas partager, et qu'il consacre avec nous ses efforts à ramener les populations Chrétiennes à la confiance par le sentiment reel d'une amélioration pratique.

Quant à l'éloignement, exprimé par Lord Russell à la fin de sa dépêche, pour toute coopération à des intrigues criminelles tendant à la dissolution les liens d'obéissance des sujets envers le Souverain et au renversement de toute monarchie en Europe, nous prenons acte de cette assurance avec une sincère satisfaction, et je n'ai pas besoin d'ajouter qu'elle rencontrera toujours la plus complète adhésion de la part du Cabinet Impérial.

Votre Excellence est autorisée à donner lecture et à laisser copie de la présente dépêche à Monsieur le Principal Secrétaire d'Etat de Sa Majesté Britannique.

Recevez, &c.

COPY OF A DESPATCH from Prince Gortchakoff to Baron de Brunnow, dated 28th September, 1862.

M. LE BARON,

I HAVE the honour to inclose herewith to your Excellency a copy of a despatch from Lord Russell, communicated to me by the English Ambassador, by order of the Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty.

It relates to the events in Montenegro, as well as to the general question of intervention in the affairs of Turkey, and expresses the regret of the English Cabinet that they are unable to adhere to the views which we have expressed in that respect.

The value which we attach to finding ourselves, as far as possible, in accord with the Government of Her Britannic Majesty, requires me to examine the question more closely, so as to ascertain the points on which such agreement can exist, and those on which we must maintain a different opinion.

We do not in any manner call in question the general view of the case put forth by Lord Russell, that from the moment when Turkey was admitted to form a part of the European system, she has had a right to the same advantages as belong to every other independent State, and is bound by the same duties resulting from Treaties and from international relations of courtesy and good will.

Lord Russell thence draws the inference that from that period the Ottoman Government was perfectly free to act independently as regards Montenegro; to reduce it to obedience if it were a vassal State, upon such conditions as might insure for the future the maintenance of that obedience; and if it were an independent State, to impose upon it such conditions of peace as might prevent fresh aggressions.

Here I may incidentally make the observation, that England has always professed political doctrines tending to the recognition of Governments de facto; that is to say, such whose existence is manifested by facts sufficiently notorious and lasting to establish their vitality. According to this doctrine, it appears to us that the English Cabinet ought not to contest the right of Montenegro to the independence which that country has maintained for above a century with unconquerable energy, unless they admit that the principle in question ceases to be applicable when it is proposed to reduce a Christian State under the Turkish dominion.

As to the opinion that the Porte, being at war with Montenegro as with an independent State, had the right to impose upon it conditions arising from the relative attitudes of the belligerents at the end of the war, we in no wise question it.

We will simply remind Lord Russell, that in insisting with reason upon the rights which belong to Turkey as a member of the European family, he has himself indicated the duties corresponding to those rights and emanating from international relations.

Now, in the present question, besides the Porte and Montenegro as belligerents, there is a third element, — the Great Powers of Europe. Independently of the profound interest which they must devote to events, the consequences of which, by affecting the repose of the East, react upon the general security, and not to mention the preceding events which have led to their solemn participation in public acts regarding the relations between Turkey and Montenegro, the Great Powers have had their anxious consideration called to this dispute by the Porte herself, which in spontaneously taking towards them the engagement not in any way to modify the status quo territorial and administration of the mountain, has by its own initiative placed a limit to its rights as a belligerent.

It appears to us impossible to admit that it is released from its engagement by the fact that Prince Nicolas only accepted in an evasive manner the first ultimatum of Omer Pasha.

When the Porte made the declaration of which we speak, the reply of Prince Nicolas was perfectly known to it, and it was even as a consequence of that reply that it decided upon the military operations, as to the consequences of which it was careful to reassure beforehand the Great Powers interested in this struggle.

It would doubtless have been otherwise if, in the course of the war the Ottoman Government had declared that they would no longer consider themselves bound by their former promise. Consequently, in such a case, the Powers would have been in a position to take a joint attitude and joint counsels.

This is not what has happened. No such declaration has been made. Not a word has been said of a nature to weaken the original engagement, contracted spontaneously by the Ottoman Government. The Great Powers have been kept up to the last moment, in ignorance of the conditions sent to Omer Pasha, and when they were enabled to weigh them they found themselves in presence of an accomplished fact, which could not invalidate the right which the Porte itself had conceded to them.

It is, then, for those Powers to judge if those conditions are in accordance with the engagements taken with respect to them; if, namely, the clause which stipulates for the construction of a military road, with block-houses guarded by Turkish garrisons, is not equivalent to a real military occupation, to a real taking possession of the country: if it does not introduce into the Mountain a dangerous principle, that of the immediate contact of races;—precisely the principle which has just been condemned through its results, and which has been definitively abolished in Servia, as being incompatible with the maintenance of the pacific relations which Europe desires to see established and consolidated in the East for the general security; if, consequently, this clause does not entirely destroy the status quo which the Porte had engaged herself to maintain; and, lastly, if it is not of a nature to constitute a permanent state of war there, where the collective efforts of the Powers which intervened in the Convention of 1858 had for their object to prevent conflicts.

We are of opinion, as far as we are concerned, that the investigation of these questions is for these Powers a duty of foresight and of dignity.

Lord Russell cites, as a precedent in support of the late acts of the Porte towards Montenegro, an historical fact of the last century,—the revolt of the Scotch Highlanders against the House of Hanover,—a revolt which was suppressed by the use of the same measures which the Ottoman Government claims the right to employ towards the Montenegrins.

Lord Russell will permit us to point out to him, that Scotland had been united during a long period to England, when a fraction of the people, the Highlanders, attempted to overturn the Hanoverian dynasty, whilst Montenegro has never recognized either sovereignty or suzerainty on the part of the Porte, and has known how to maintain her independence de facto through a struggle of more than a century.

I will add that, in employing severe measures in regard to the Highlanders, the Hanoverian dynasty rallied them under a Government which was bringing to them enlightenment and welfare; for this reason, its efforts have resulted at this day in converting the Highlanders into loyal subjects of Her Majesty the Queen.

However well convinced we may be of the good intentions which prevail in the councils of the Turkish Government, the respect which we profess for that high degree of civilization of which the British nation is so justly proud, does not permit us to establish in this respect an analogy which, as regards the facts. exists neither in their principle, nor in their probable consequences.

Lord Russell, in conclusion, enters upon the more general question raised by the present state of Turkey.

He can see in it but two possible solutions,—either permanent insurrections of the Sclavonian or Greek subjects of the Sultan, the repression of which would have the effect of restricting their privileges, of rendering heavier the weight of authority, and of obliging the Government to spend in military armaments, resources which might otherwise be applied to the construction of roads or of ports; or, on the other hand, the final success of enterprises attempted by the Christian population against Mussulman dominion, a result which would terminate in anarchy, in a strife of races, and finally, in the intervention of Europe, and in the partition of the Turkish provinces at the cost of a general war.

The Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty will permit us to remid him, in the first place, that the privileges enjoyed by the Christian provinces of the Sultan are secured by the guarantee of the Great Powers of Europe, and that in consequence they cannot be curtailed without violating one of the most solemn obligations of the Treaty of $\frac{18}{30}$ March, 1856.

But, moreover, we cannot bring ourselves to admit that the solution of a problem of so high an interest for the security, the repose, the general prosperity, the modern principles of civilization and progress, and the sentiments of humanity of the Great Powers of Europe, can only be found n the extreme terms in which the Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty seeks for it exclusively, leaving no other alternative to the two opposite parties than a struggle of reciprocal extermination, and no other part for the Great Powers of Europe to play than take sides according to their own particular views;—one party supporting extreme measures of repression on the part of the Porte;—the other party the passionate aspirations of the Christian population.

In our opinion, this solution should rather be sought by means of conciliation better suited to the interests at stake, and to the requirements of our age.

The preservation of the Ottoman Empire is to us, as well as to all the Great Powers, a principle essential to the balance of power in Europe. But in presence of the elements of disorder and strife bequeathed to those countries by past ages, such a result could not be attained in a solid and durable manner, except by a system of government which would tend to conciliate to the Sultan the affection and the gratitude of his Christian subjects, by granting a legitimate satisfaction to their wants and their wishes, and by granting to them for this purpose those conditions of existence which are indispensable to a happy and prosperous social life.

In this respect, we accept with pleasure the assurance of Lord Russell, that the Government of Her Britannic Majesty sincerely desires an improvement in the lot of the Christian subjects of the Sultan.

This is, in fact, the path which we have never ceased to point out as the only one likely to lead to the consolidation and to the prosperity of the Ottoman Empire, in conditions compatible with existing treaties, as well as with the sympathies, the convictions, and the general interests, of Europe.

It is equally with this object that we have not ceased to invite the Great Powers to an understanding which, putting aside all the calculations founded upon their political rivalry, would have exercised a wholesome influence, on the one hand, upon the Christians, by inspiring them with confidence and hope; on the other, upon the Turkish Government, by fortifying it in the good intentions manifested on many occasions by His Majesty The Sultan.

We are convinced that if our counsels had been listened to, they would have prevented the calamities which we have now to deplore.

We do not desire to pass too severe a judgment upon the acts of the Ottoman Government. We know that they have to contend with great difficulties, and we are quite disposed to give them credit for their smallest efforts. But we are also bound to acknowledge that facts such as the war which has just taken place in the Herzegovina and in Montenegro, or the bombardment of a defenceless city, are not the means which can lead to the desired end.

It is precisely these violent measures, which at once arousing the pretensions of the conquerors and the resentment of the vanquished, bring matters to a point, where no course is left but to resort to force, and no other solution than one or other of the two extremes indicated by Lord Russell.

It is because we believe that such a result is in conformity neither with the interests of the Christians, nor with those of the Turkish Government, nor with those of the Great Powers of Europe, that we continue to recommend to the first—prudence, to the second—moderation, to the last—that good understanding which alone can give the necessary authority to their councils.

Whenever the Government of Her Britannic Majesty shall be inclined to enter upon this path of conciliation, you may assure them that they will find us at their side, provided always that they do not shut themselves up in an optimism which we are unable to share, and that with us they will devote their efforts to restoring the Christian populations to confidence by a sense of real and practical amelioration.

As to the absence of all co-operation in criminal intrigues tending to the dissolution of the bonds of obedience of subjects towards the Sovereign, and to the overthrow of every monarchy in Europe, which Lord Russell asserts at the end of his despatch, we take note of this assurance with sincere satisfaction; and I need not add, that it will always receive the fullest adhesion on the part of the Imperial Cabinet.

Your Excellency is authorized to read this despatch, and to give a copy of it to the Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty.

Accept, &c.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, November 4, 1862.

THE Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs a copy of a despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at New York, enclosing a copy of the following Circular Instructions to Collectors and other Officers of the United States Customs, containing regulations for the execution of the recent Act of the United States' Congress for increasing, temporarily, the duties on imports.

(Circular.)

INSTRUCTIONS TO COLLECTORS AND OTHER OFFICERS OF THE CUSTOMS.

Treasury Department, August 1, 1862.

THE following regulations are transmitted for the information and government of Officers of the Customs, in executing certain provisions of an Act entitled "An Act increasing temporarily the duties on imports, and for other purposes," approved July 14, 1862, said Act to take effect on the 1st day of August, 1862.

1st. The 16th section of the Act provides that "from and after the passage of this Act, in estimating the allowance for tare on all chests, boxes, cases, casks, bags, or other envelope or covering of all articles imported liable to pay any duty, where the original invoice is produced at the time of making entry thereof, and the tare shall be specified therein, it shall be lawful for the Collector, if he shall see fit, or for the Collector and Naval Officer, if such Officer there be, if they shall see fit, with the consent of the consignees, to estimate the said tare according to such invoice; but in all other cases the real tare shall be allowed, and may be ascertained under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time prescribe."

In contemplation of this legislation, the following regulations are established, viz.:—

Where the original invoice is produced at the time of making entry thereof, and the tare shall be specified therein. the consignees, owners, or agents, must declare, in writing, their assent to the estimate of tare as set forth in the invoice; and if the Collector, or the Collector and Naval Officer, see fit, the tare shall be so estimated. In the absence of such written assent, or if the Collector doubts the correctness of the tare as specified in the invoice, it will be his duty to cause the actual tare or weight of the cask or package to be ascertained, and for that purpose he may cause to be emptied and weighed such number of casks and packages as he may think proper.

In all other cases, actual tare only shall be allowed.

2nd. The 17th section provides that "from and after the first day of November, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, no goods, wares, or merchandise subject to ad valorem or specific duty, whether belonging to a person or persons residing in the United States, or otherwise, or whether acquired by the ordinary process of bargain and sale, or otherwise, shall be admitted to entry, unless the invoice of such goods, wares, or merchandise be verified by the oath of the owner or one of the owners, or in the absence of the owner, one of the party who is authorized by the owner to make the shipment and sign the invoice of the same, certifying that the invoice annexed contains a true and faithful account, if subject to ad valorem duty and obtained by purchase, of the actual cost thereof, and of all charges thereon, and that no discounts, bounties, or drawbacks, are contained in the said invoice but such as have actually been allowed on the same; and when consigned or obtained in any manner other than by purchase, the actual market value thereof, and if subject to specific duty, of the actual quantity thereof; which said oath shall be administered by the Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States in the district where the goods are manufactured, or from which they are sent; and if there be no Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States in the said district, the verification hereby required shall be made by the Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States at the nearest point, or at the port from which the goods are shipped, in which case the oath shall be administered by some public officer, duly authorized to administer oaths, and transmitted with a copy of the invoice to the Consul or Commercial Agent for his authentication; and this Act shall be construed only to modify, and not repeal the Act of March first, eighteen hundred and twenty-three, entitled "An Act supplementary to, and to amend an Act entitled 'An Act to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage,' passed second March, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine, and for other purposes," and the forms of the oaths therein set forth shall be modified accordingly."

In executing the provisions of section 17, the following forms are prescribed:

I, A. B., do solemnly and truly swear (or affirm) that the invoice annexed contains a true and faithful account of the actual cost of the goods, wares, or merchandise therein mentioned, subject to ad valorem duty, and of all charges thereon, and of the actual quantity of the goods, wares, or merchandise therein mentioned, subject to specific duty, and that no discounts, bounties, or drawbacks, are contained in the said invoice but such as have been actually allowed on the same.

If there be no Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States in the district where the goods are manufactured, or from which they are sent, then the above verification shall be made by the Consul or Commercial Agent of the United States at the nearest point, or at the port from which the goods are shipped; in which latter case the oath (or affirmation) shall be administered by some public officer duly authorized to administer oaths, and transmitted with a copy of the invoice, to the Consul or Commercial Agent for his verification.

3rd. The 21st section provides that "all drugs, medicines, and chemical preparations, entered for exportation and deposited in warehouse or public store, may be exported by the owner or owners thereof in the original package, or otherwise, subject to such regulations as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury."

For this section the following regulation is prescribed :

Whenever the owner or owners, or consignees, desire to export any drugs, medicines, or chemical preparations, otherwise than in the original packages, written application for such export must be made by him or them to the Collector of the Port where the drugs, medicines, and chemical preparations may be ; such application to specify the name of the article proposed to be exported, and, if less than the entire package, the quantity thereof, and the kind of package in which it is proposed to make the export, whether a box, chest, bag, or bale, and also to give the name of the vessel in which the original importation was made, and the date thereof.

Upon such application, the collector will make the proper endorsement, directing the reopening of the original package and the repacking of so much as may be specified in the application ; and the package so made up shall be marked and numbered in the same manner as the original package. The officer in charge of the store in which the articles shall have been deposited (which shall be designated as Bonded Warehouse No. 2), shall cause the opening and repacking to be done under his immediate supervision.

Where the merchandise is to be weighed, gauged, or measured, it shall be done by the United States Weigher, Gauger, or Measurer, as the case may be, prior to being repacked. All labour performed and services rendered under this regulation, shall be under the supervision of an Officer of the Customs, and at the owner's expense.

4th. The 21st section of the Act of July 14, 1862, also provides that "all goods which now are or may be deposited in public store or bonded warehouse after this Act takes effect and goes into operation, must be withdrawn therefrom, or the duties thereon paid within one year from the date of original importation, but may be withdrawn by the owner for exportation to foreign countries, or may be transhipped to any port of the Pacific or western coast of the United States, at any time before the expiration of three years from the date of original importation; such goods, on arrival at a Pacific or western port, as aforesaid, to be subject to the same rules and regulations as if originally imported there."

The following regulation is prescribed:

All goods, wares, or merchandise transhipped under this section to a port on the Pacific or western coast, may, on arrival there, be entered for consumption within one year from the date of original importation into the United States, or may be warehoused for such period of the three years, allowed by law, as may not have expired since their first arrival in the United States.

5th. The 22nd section provides that "the privilege of purchasing supplies from the public warehouses duty free, be extended, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe to the vessels-of-war of any nation in ports of the United States, which may reciprocate such privilege towards the vessels-of-war of the United States in its ports."

Therefore, if the vessel to which supplies are to be conveyed under authority of this section be within the port where the public warehouse is located, the goods must be delivered on board such vessel under the supervision of an Officer of the Customs, whose certificate, together with that of the Captain or Purser of the vessel, shall be taken as sufficient evidence that the goods have been withdrawn from warehouse in pursuance of law.

If the vessel be at a port other than that in which the public warehouse is located, a transportation bond, in the usual form, must be given for the delivery of the articles on board, under the regulation above prescribed.

The transportation bond will be cancelled on the production of the certificate of the Customs' Officer, together with the certificate of the Captain or Purser of the vessel, that the supplies have been so delivered.

Secretary of the Treasury.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament made and passed in the session of Parliament holden in the third and fourth years of the reign of Her Majesty, for the regulation of the duties of postage, it was enacted, amongst other things, that printed newspapers might be sent free of postage, or liable to postage according to the regulations and rates thereinafter set forth, and that no printed paper, whether newspaper or votes and proceedings of Parliament or of the Colonial Legislature, should be sent by the post either free or at the therein mentioned rates of postage, unless the following condition (amongst others) should be observed, that is to say:—There should be no word or communication printed on the paper after its publication or upon the cover thereof, nor any writing or marks upon it or upon the cover of it, except the name and address of the person to whom sent. And it was also enacted that the Postmaster-General might examine any printed paper or any packet which should be sent by the post without a cover or in a cover open at the sides in order to discover whether it was contrary in any respect to the conditions thereby required to be observed, or to any regulations which the Postmaster General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, might from time to time make in respect of any paper or packet of such a description:

And whereas by another Act of Parliament made and passed in the session of Parliament holden in the tenth and eleventh years of the reign of Her Majesty, for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post Office, it was enacted (amongst other things) that it should be lawful for the Postmaster-General, if he should think fit (with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury) to allow any printed words, writing, or marks (in addition to the direction) to be put on any printed newspapers or other printed papers sent by the post, or on the covers thereof, and any such newspapers or other printed papers should from thenceforth be forwarded either free of postage or subject to such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, should from time to time direct:

And whereas by another Act of Parliament made and passed in the eighteenth year of the reign of Her Majesty for amending the laws relating to the stamp duties on newspapers, and for providing for the transmission by post of printed periodical publications, power was given to Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, to make and issue such orders, regulations, conditions, and restrictions as he should deem to be necessary or expedient for the purpose of regulating the receipt, transmission, and delivery by post of periodical publications under the provisions of that Act, or for preventing or detecting frauds or abuses in relation thereto, and for giving effect to the purposes of that Act: And also with the like consent from time to time to rescind or revoke all or any such orders, regulations, conditions, and restrictions and to make and issue any new ones in lieu thereof:

And whereas printed newspapers, printed periodical publications, not being newspapers, printed pamphlets, and other printed papers have been transmitted by the post between the United Kingdom and other countries and places, under and by virtue of certain warrants in writing, under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time heretofore made, and amongst others between the United Kingdom and the following countries and places, that is to say: Between the United Kingdom and the United States of America, under and by virtue of two certain Warrants of the said Commissioners, bearing date respectively the 8th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1849, and the 15th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1858. Between the United Kingdom and the Kingdom of Holland, under and by virtue of a certain other Warrant of the said Commissioners, bearing date the 2nd day of December, in the year of our Lord 1843. Between the United Kingdom and the Kingdom of Belgium, under and by virtue of a certain other Warrant of the said Commissioners, bearing date the 24th day of September, in the year of our Lord, 1857. Between the United Kingdom and France, and foreign countries viâ France, under and by virtue of two certain other Warrants of the said Commissioners, bearing date respectively the 20th day of December, in the year of our Lord, 1856, and the 26th day of December, in the year of our Lord 1861; and between the United Kingdom and the Kingdom of Sardinia, under and by virtue of a certain other Warrant of the said Commissioners, bearing date the 15th day of January, in the year of our Lord 1858, and with certain conditions and restrictions therein respectively contained with respect to the words or matter which might be printed or written thereupon or on the covers thereof respectively. And it is expedient that certain of such conditions and restrictions should be removed and that certain printed words and writing, in addition to the direction, should be allowed to be put thereupon, or on the cover thereof, respectively, to the extent and in manner hereinafter mentioned and contained.

Now, I, the Undersigned, Edward John, Lord Stanley of Alderley, Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, given under the hands of two of the said Commissioners (by 75th Regiment.

Also for cheering and encouraging a party which hesitated to charge down a lane in Subzee Mundee, at Delhi, lined on each side with huts, and raked by a cross fire; then entering with the said party into an enclosure filled with the Enemy, and destroying every man,

For having also, on the same occasion, returned under a cross fire to collect dhoolies, and carry off the wounded; a service which was successfully performed, and for which this man obtained great praise from the Officers of his regiment. Dates of Acts of Bravery, June 8th and July 18th, 1857.

The mutineers were between 30 and 40 in number. They suddenly opened fire on Lieutenant-Colonel Seymour and his party at a few yards distance, and immediately afterwards rushed in upon them with drawn (native) swords. Pistolling a man, cutting at him, and emptying with deadly effect at arm's length every barrel of his revolver, Lieutenant-Colonel Seymour was cut down by two sword cuts, when the two men above recommended, rushed to his rescue, and the Trumpeter shooting a man with his pistol in the act of cutting at him, and both Trumpeter and Dragoon driving at the enemy with their swords, enabled him to arise, and assist in defending himself again, when the whole of the enemy were dispatched.

The occurrence took place soon after the action fought near Sundeela, Oudh, on the date abovementioned. Date of Acts of Bravery, October 8th, 1858.

charged as the sum which any such packet would be charged with under this Warrant if not exceeding four ounces in weight.

14. The respective letters and packets transmitted by the post under the provisions of this Warrant shall be subject to the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage respectively contained in a certain other Warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, under the hands of two of the said Commissioners, bearing date the 19th day of February, 1855, relating to redirected rates of postage upon letters and packets which shall be redirected and again forwarded by the post.

15. The rates of postage chargeable on letters, printed newspapers, books, publications, or works of literature or art, and other printed papers, transmitted by the post under the provisions of this Warrant, shall be in lieu of any rates of British postage now chargeable by law thereon.

16. Nothing herein contained shall be construed in anywise to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, passed in the session of Parliament holden in the third and fourth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, or to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the privileges which seamen and soldiers, employed in Her Majesty's Service, are now by law entitled to of sending and receiving by the post letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, subject to the regulations and restrictions in respect of the same.

17. The term "books, publications, or works of literature or art," in this Warrant used, shall, for the purposes of this Warrant, mean and comprise all printed books or other printed publications, printed or lithographed letters, and such artistic productions as prints, printed maps (whether on paper, parchment, or vellum) and photographs (when not on glass or in frames containing glass), together with any binding, mounting, or covering of, or upon, or belonging to, any such article or production, or any portion thereof, and including also any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book markers (whether of paper or otherwise), or other thing usually appertaining to any such article or production, or necessary for its safe transmission, which shall be sent in the same packet with any such article or production to which they or it shall belong, and also, when contained in any packet consisting of unbound proof sheets only, any ordinary corrections in writing of such unbound proof sheets. Provided, nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall extend to authorize the sending by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, of any patterns, or books of patterns, or papers of patterns, of any article or thing whatsoever, unless such patterns consist merely of paper. The term "German Postal Union," used in this Warrant, shall include the states and countries of Prussia, Austria, Bavaria, Saxony, Hanover, Wurtemburg, Baden, Luxemburg, Brunswick, Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Oldenburg, Lubeck, and the countries and places comprised in the postal district of the Prince of Tour and Taxis, viz.: Frankfort-on-the-Maine, the Grand Duchy of Hesse, Hesse-Electoral, Hesse-Homburg, Schaumburg-Lippe, Lippe-Detmold, Nassau, Reuss, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Saxe-Meiningen, Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, Hohenzollern, Schwartzburg-Rudolstadt, and Schwartzburg-Sonderhausen, and the other terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the session of Parliament, holden in the third and fourth years of the reign of Her Majesty, for the regulation of the duties of postage.

18. The Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by warrant under their hands, duly made at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby fixed or altered, or any of the orders, directions, regulations, and conditions hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates, orders, directions, regulations, and conditions in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of NOVEMBER 14, 1862.

Foreign Office, November 14, 1862.

THE following Despatch has been addressed by Earl Russell to Earl Cowley, Her Majesty's Ambassador at Paris:

Foreign Office,
November 13, 1862.

MY LORD,

THE Count de Flahault came to the Foreign Office by appointment, on Monday, the 10th instant, and read to me a Despatch from M. Drouyn de Lhuys, relating to the Civil War in North America.

In this Despatch the Minister for Foreign Affairs states, that Europe has followed with painful interest the struggle which has now been going on for more than a year on the American Continent. He does justice to the energy and perseverance which have been displayed by both sides, but he observes that these proofs of their courage have been given at the expense of innumerable calamities and immense bloodshed.

To these accompaniments of civil conflict is to be added the apprehension of a servile war, which would be the climax of so many irreparable misfortunes.

If these calamities affected America only, these sufferings of a friendly nation would be enough to excite the anxiety and sympathy of the Emperor.

But Europe also has suffered in one of the principal branches of her industry, and her artisans have been subjected to the most cruel trials.

France and the Maritime Powers have during this struggle maintained the strictest neutrality; but the sentiments by which they are animated, far from imposing on them anything like indifference, seem, on the contrary, to require that they should assist the two belligerent parties in an endeavour to escape from a position which appears to have no issue.

The forces of the two sides have hitherto fought with balanced success, and the latest accounts do not show any prospect of a speedy termination of the war.

These circumstances, taken together, would seem to favour the adoption of measures which might bring about a truce.

The Emperor of the French, therefore, is of opinion that there is now an opportunity of offering to the belligerents the good offices of the Maritime Powers. He, therefore, proposes to Her Majesty, as well as to the Emperor of Russia, that the Three Courts should endeavour, both at Washington and in communication with the Confederate States, to bring about a suspension of arms of six months, during which every act of hostility, direct or indirect, should cease, at sea as well as on land. This armistice might, if necessary, be renewed for a further period.

This proposal, M. Drouyn de Lhuys proceeds to say, would not imply on the part of the Three Powers any judgment on the origin of the war, or any pressure on the negotiations for peace which it is hoped would take place during the armistice. The Three Powers would only interfere to smooth obstacles, and only within limits which the two interested parties would prescribe.

The French Government is of opinion that, even in the event of failure of immediate success, these overtures might be useful in turning the minds of men, now heated by passion, to consider the advantages of conciliation and of peace.

Such is, in substance, the proposal of the Government of the Emperor of the French, and I need hardly say that it has attracted the serious attention of Her Majesty's Government.

Her Majesty is desirous of acting in concurrence with France upon the great questions now agitating the world, and upon none more than on the contingencies connected with the great struggle now going on in North America. Neither Her Majesty the Queen nor the British Nation will ever forget the noble and emphatic manner in which the Emperor of the French vindicated the law of nations, and assisted the cause of peace in the instance of the seizure of the Confederate Commissioners on board the "Trent."

Her Majesty's Government recognise with pleasure in the design of arresting the progress of war by friendly measures the benevolent views and humane intentions of the Emperor.

They are also of opinion that if the steps proposed were to be taken, the concurrence of Russia would be extremely desirable.

Her Majesty's Government have, however, not been informed up to the present time that the Russian Government have agreed to co-operate with England and France on this occasion, although that Government may support the endeavours of England and France to attain the end proposed.

But is the end proposed, attainable at the present moment by the course suggested by the Government of France? Such is the question which has been anxiously and carefully examined by Her Majesty's Government.

After weighing all the information which has been received from America, Her Majesty's Government are led to the conclusion that there is no ground at the present moment to hope that the Federal Government would accept the proposal suggested, and a refusal from Washington at present would prevent any speedy renewal of the offer.

Her Majesty's Government think, therefore, that it would be better to watch carefully the progress of opinion in America, and if, as there appears reason to hope, it may be found to have undergone, or may undergo hereafter, any change, the Three Courts might then avail themselves of such change to offer their friendly counsel with a greater prospect than now exists of its being accepted by the two contending parties.

Her Majesty's Government will communicate to that of France any intelligence they may receive from Washington or Richmond bearing on this important subject.

Your Excellency may read this despatch to Monsr. Drouyn de Lhuys, and give him a copy of it.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) RUSSELL.

CORRESPONDENCE respecting the Schleswig Holstein Question.

No. 1.

*Earl Russell to Mr. Paget.

Sir, Foreign Office, September 24, 1862.

IT appears from the accounts received from various quarters that the correspondence between Austria, Prussia, and Denmark, which it was asserted would lead to a settlement of the dispute so long subsisting between Germany and Denmark in regard to the obligations of Denmark in the affairs of Holstein, Lauenburg, Schleswig, and the common Constitution of the Danish Monarchy, has grown more and more bitter. The longer the lapse of time, and the further the negotiation is carried, the wider is the space which separates the two parties, and the stronger the language which they use towards each other.

* Identic despatches were addressed on the same day to Mr. Lowther and Mr. Fane.

Upon considering, with pain and regret, this unsatisfactory aspect of the affair, and contemplating the unfavourable results which may be expected from further direct communications between Powers so adverse in their opinions, Her Majesty has directed that you should be furnished with instructions which may, it is hoped, tend to the long-desired settlement.

In framing these instructions it is advisable to throw out of the calculation, in the first place, those matters upon which controversy may be said to be exhausted.

The first of these matters relates to the question whether any taxes can be imposed, or any laws enacted, in Holstein or Lauenburg without the express consent of the Representatives of those Duchies.

This question has been resolved in the negative by the German Confederation, of which the Duchies of Holstein and Lauenburg are members.

Another question which need not be further discussed is the Constitution of 1855.

It is clear that whether a representation according to numbers of the Kingdom, as well as the Duchies, be a good or a bad Constitution, yet, not having been accepted by the Duchies, the Constition of 1855 has no force in Holstein, Lauenburg, or Schleswig.

Neither is it necessary to discuss the rights of Denmark in reference to her Rigsraad. It is quite clear that Denmark can legislate for herself, and impose taxes to be levied upon her own people, without the consent of Holstein, Lauenburg, or Schleswig.

Two questions of great importance remain. The first regards the Duchy of Schleswig; the second, the common constitution of the Monarchy.

Schleswig was formerly in a position altogether anomalous. Unconnected with the German Confederation, it was yet connected with Holstein, which formed part of that Confederation. Later arrangements have dissolved this inconvenient tie, and Schleswig is at present only connected with Holstein by non-political relations affecting the two communities.

There are, however, relations between Germany and Denmark in respect to Schleswig which have given rise to the present controversy.

The obligations of honour contracted by Denmark towards Schleswig, and imparted to the German Confederation as such by the King of Denmark in 1852, chiefly regard two points. The first of these is the Royal promise that Schleswig shall not be incorporated with Denmark. The second is, in substance, an engagement that the Germans in Schleswig shall be treated on an equal footing with persons of Danish or any other nationality.

The grievances of which Germany complains as violations of these promises are thus summed up in the recent Prussian note of the 22nd of August:—

"The systematic destruction of national and neighbourly connection between Schleswig and Holstein; the disregard of the determination concerning the University of Kiel; the overfilling of the Duchy of Schleswig with Danish officials in the Administration, with Danish clergy in church and school, as well as the whole spirit of the administration in this Duchy; finally, the violation of all actual and practical relations by the maintenance of the language Edict, are matters of fact which are notoriously public, and of which the evidence is in the hands of every one."

For all practical purposes, it would be vain to attempt a constant supervision by Germany of the nomination to civil offices of Danish officials in Schleswig, or the administration in church and school by Danish Ministers of religion. Such superintendence would lead to a constant renewal of quarrels, and a perpetuity of ill-will.

The best mode, therefore, of remedying these evils for the present, and of preventing complaints for the future, is to grant a complete autonomy to Schleswig, allow the Diet of Schleswig fairly to treat, and independently to decide upon questions affecting their university, their churches and schools, the language to be used where the Danish population prevails, where the Germans preponderate, and where the races are mixed.

I come lastly to the question of the Constitution, the most entangled and the most embarrassing question of all those in discussion.

Treaties, Protocols, and despatches afford us little light upon this subject, and the glimmering rays which they do afford tend rather to lead us astray than to guide us right.

For what could be more destructive of all union, all efficiency, all strength, and, indeed, of all independence, than to lay down as an absolute rule that no law should be passed, and no Budget sanctioned, unless the four States of the Monarchy all concurred? What would Austria say if she were asked to accept a Constitution which should paralyze the action of the Reichsrath at Vienna till separate Diets in Hungary, in Gallicia, and in Venetia, should have adopted the same law or sanctioned the same Budget? How would Prussia herself bear an absolute veto on the proceedings of her Parliament given to the Diet of Posen?

If such a Constitution must lead to an early and decisive rupture, let us consider whether each portion might not have its due independent movement without clogging the wheels of the whole machine. For instance, if the sums required for the navy were represented by 90, of which Denmark were to furnish 60, and the other States 30, Denmark might vote, and apply her contingent of 60, independently of the vote of the other three portions.

There is only one objection to be made to this suggestion which deserves consideration.

If the 1,600,000 people of Denmark were taxed to pay the army and navy, and the 50,000 of Lauenburg were to refuse any grant for these purposes, a hardship would be suffered by the inhabitants of the kingdom when compared with the situation of the King-Duke's subjects in Lauenburg.

The remedy for this inequality is to be found in a proposal for a normal Budget, to be laid before the Rigsraad, and before the Diets of Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig, for their consent.

It is obvious that the Government of an independent kingdom like Denmark must, for the maintenance of that independence, require a certain amount of expenditure for the Civil List of the Sovereign, for the Diplomatic Service, for the Army and Navy of the State.

Let this be reckoned as economically as possible; for the least amount of royal dignity; for the most frugal establishments of profound peace.

Obtain that sum from the four Representative

Bodies. Confide its distribution to a Council of State, formed, two-thirds of Danes, and one-third of Germans. Let the votes of this Council be taken in public, and accounts of the expenditure published yearly.

The normal Budget to be voted in gross for ten years. The distribution or expenditure to be voted yearly.

Extraordinary expenses beyond the normal Budget to be voted freely by the Kingdom and the three Duchies separately.

The suggestions I have made may be summed up in a few words:—

1. Holstein and Lauenburg to have all that the German Confederation ask for them.

2. Schleswig to have the power of self-government, and not to be represented in the Rigsraad.

3. A normal Budget to be agreed upon by Denmark, Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig.

4. Any extraordinary expenses to be submitted to the Rigsraad, and to the separate Diets of Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig.

You will give a copy of this despatch to Monsieur Hall and invite his serious attention to its contents.

I am, &c.

No. 2.

M. Hall to M. Bille.—(Communicated to Earl Russell by M. Bille, October 10).

Monsieur, Glucksborg, le 5 Octobre, 1862.

SI le Gouvernement du Roi n'a pu encore expédier sa réponse—et il n'y en a qu'une possible—aux notes des deux Puissances Allemandes, vous devinez, Monsieur, qu'il n'y a d'autre raison à cela que l'absence du Roi de la capitale, qui ne permet pas la réunion du Conseil d'Etat nécessaire pour l'envoi de cette réponse. Car sur le fond de l'affaire la manière de voir du Gouvernement ne saurait être douteuse pour personne, pas même, j'ose le dire, pour les Gouvernements qui ont formulé des demandes si exorbitantes.

Dicter au Gouvernement Danois l'abolition de la Constitution commune, qui n'embrasse plus aujourd'hui que les parties de la Monarchie qui sont en dehors de toute compétence de l'Allemagne; nous imposer, pour remplacer le régime constitutionnel, ou l'absolutisme, auquel l'esprit du peuple et le progrès de notre civilisation ne se prêterait plus, ou l'anarchie, car c'est le seul nom qu'on puisse donner à la proposition d'après laquelle chaque loi commune et chaque dépense de la Monarchie devraient être approuvées préalablement par quatre Assemblées Délibératives; vouloir enfin régler les questions purement intérieures d'une province exclusivement Danoise; — voilà des exigences auxquelles le Gouvernement du Roi ne pourrait pas accéder sans abdiquer, je ne dis pas notre dignité, mais l'existence même d'un Etat Danois indépendant de la volonté arbitraire de l'Allemagne. Mieux que tout autre Gouvernement, celui de l'Angleterre appréciera l'impossibilité qu'il y a pour le Danemark à se laisser refouler dans les formes surannées d'un pouvoir absolu. Aussi est-ce avec un véritable plaisir que je me rappelle combien de fois Lord Russell a reconnu et revendiqué dans les termes les plus précis l'indépendance des parties non-Allemandes de la Monarchie Danoise de toute intervention étrangère, "qui impliquerait le mépris non seulement du droit des gens, mais encore les intérêts les plus sacrés du Nord;" et Mr. Paget a parfaitement bien prévu les aspirations de la Confédération Germanique, lorsqu'il a dit dans sa dépêche du 3 Juillet, 1860, "qu'elle ne se contenterait pas de moins que du renversement de l'organisation actuelle de la Monarchie pour retourner à l' ordre de choses existant avant 1848, et du rétablissement des rapports antérieurs entre le Slesvig et le Holstein —un arrangement auquel aucun Gouvernement Danois ne pourrait être amené à se prêter, en supposant même qu'on voulût le presser pour le faire."

Je vous prie, Monsieur, d'exprimer à Lord Russell notre espoir qu'il voudra bien continuer à nous prêter son puissant appui auprès des Puissances qui, jusqu'à présent, n'avaient peut-être pas jugé avec la même netteté que la diplomatie Anglaise jusqu'où en viendraient les prétentions Allemandes, et à quel point cesserait pour le Cabinet Danois toute possibilité de céder.

Sir, Glucksborg, October 5, 1862.

IF the King's Government has not yet been able to send its answer—and only one answer is possible—to the notes of the two German Powers, you can imagine, Sir, that it is only on account of the absence of the King from the capital, which does not allow of the assembling of the Council of State necessary for the dispatch of this answer. For, with regard to the principle of the affair, the view taken by the Government can be a matter of doubt to no one—not even, I may venture to say, to the Governments who have made such exorbitant demands.

To dictate to the Danish Government the abolition of the common Constitution, which now only embraces those parts of the Monarchy which are quite beyond the competence of Germany; to impose on us, as a substitute for Constitutional Government, either absolutism, in which the spirit of the people and the progress of our civilization would no longer acquiesce, or anarchy, for that is the only name which can be given to the proposal according to which every general law and every item of expenditure of the Government would have to be previously approved by four Deliberative Assemblies; to attempt, finally, to decide the purely internal questions of an exclusively Danish province;—these are demands to which the King's Government could not accede without abdicating, I do not say our dignity, but even the existence of a Danish State independent of the arbitrary will of Germany. The Government of England will appreciate, better than any other Government, how impossible it is for Denmark to allow herself to be thrust back into the obsolete forms of absolute power. It is, therefore, with true pleasure that I remember how often Lord Russell has recognized and claimed, in the most precise terms, the independence of the non-German portion of the Danish Monarchy from all foreign intervention, "which would imply a contempt, not only for the law of nations, but also for the most sacred interests of the North;" and Mr. Paget accurately foresaw the aspirations of the Germanic Confederation when he said, in his despatch of the 3rd of July, 1860, that it would not be contented with less than "a subversion of the existing organization of the Monarchy, in order to revert to the state of things which existed before 1848, and a re-establishment of the former political union between Schleswig and Holstein; an arrangement to which no Danish Government could be brought to agree, even if it could be urged to do so."

I request you, Sir, to express to Lord Russell our hope that he will continue to afford us his powerful support with Powers which, until now, had not perhaps judged with the same clearness as English diplomacy has, how far the pretensions of

No. 2.

Earl Russell to Mr. Paget.

Sir, Foreign Office, October 11, 1862.

I HAD, yesterday, a long conversation with M. Bille.

He began by informing me that he had been desired by M. Hall to come immediately to London, in consequence of a report sent by Captain Falbe of a despatch which I was about to send to the Great Courts recommending an abrogation of the Danish Constitution of 1855.

M. Bille proceeded to say that this report had caused great alarm in the Danish Government; that they had hitherto reason to believe Her Majesty's Government favourable to the rights of Denmark. The Danish Government, upon the advice of the British Government and other allies of Denmark, had complied with the requisitions of Germany in regard to Holstein and Lauenburg. Their only stronghold, at present, was the Constitution which bound together Denmark and Schleswig; this gone, the Danish Monarchy would fall to pieces. He gave me a copy of a despatch from M. Hall to this effect.

I replied, that he would recollect the advice I had given, on behalf of Her Majesty's Government, to the Danish Government, to remedy all the practical grievances of Schleswig, and thus to present an unassailable front to Germany.

This suggestion was also rejected by M. Hall.

It was then that Her Majesty's Government had devised a plan which, by securing on the one hand self-government to Schleswig, and on the other an adequate normal Budget to the Danish Monarchy, seemed to Her Majesty's Government to provide at once for the redress of the complaints of the German inhabitants of Schleswig and for the supplies necessary to maintain the independence and the dignity of the Danish Monarchy.

I was convinced, I told M. Bille, that, when my despatch was communicated to M. Hall, his apprehensions would be diminished; and I even trusted the plan of Her Majesty's Government, conceived in a spirit of equity and fairness, would be found to afford a reasonable basis for a definitive arrangement.

M. Bille, however, continued to affirm that Denmark had taken no engagements to Germany, or to Austria and Prussia, in regard to Schleswig, and that the King of Denmark was free to do exactly as he pleased in respect to that portion of the Danish Monarchy. Adopting the language of M. Hall, he said that the adoption of any such plan as I had sketched out must lead either to absolutism or to anarchy; that absolutism was happily impossible, but the division of the Danish Monarchy into independent portions would lead to anarchy and dismemberment.

I could only refer M. Bille to my despatch.

No. 4.

M. Hall to M. Bille.—(Communicated to Earl Russell by M. Bille, October 28.)

Monsieur, Copenhague, le 15 Octobre, 1862.

Je crois devoir à l'intérêt que Lord Russell a toujours porté au Danemark de répondre sans délai à la dépêche, ci-jointe en copie, que Mr. Paget m'a communiqué hier et qui a dû nous causer d'autant plus de surprise et de regret que Lord Russell avait, jusqu'à présent, exprimé des vues bien différentes de celles vers lesquelles il semble incliner aujourd'hui.

Le Ministre commence dans sa dépêche par écarter la question de la position du Holstein dans la Monarchie, comme ne faisant plus objet d'une discussion. A nous aussi cette question paraît épuisée, en ce sens, que la solution définitive ne dépend plus que du réglement de quelques points dont la nécessité ne saurait être méconnue.

Vis-à-vis de la demande de la Diète Germanique notre attitude est nette et bien déterminée. Nous avons prouvé que la faculté que la Diète exige pour les Etats Holsteinois de voter le Budget commun et les lois communes, en tant qu'ils regardeut le Duché, est aussi contraire au droit public que la demande en est insoutenable au poiut de vue de la compétence de la Diète. Néanmoins, nous avons déclaré que nous serions prêts à y accéder, quelques dangers pour l'intégrité de la Monarchie que cela puisse entraîner, si cette position éventuelle du Holstein pourrait être précisée de telle sorte que le reste de la Monarchie ne fût pas réduite à une dépendauce continuelle de l'Allemagne, et si, par ce sacrifice, nos rapports avec la Confédération pouvaient être rétablis sur une base durable.

C'est pour bien fixer ces points que nous sommes entres dans les négociations actuelles avec la Prusse

Pour ce qui est des affaires intérieures du Slesvig, nous aurions pu espérer que notre ligne de conduite n'était pas moins propre à nous assurer les sympathies du Gouvernement Anglais. Les intentions qu'à l'égard de ce Duché le Roi avait spontanément exprimées dans le temps, l'engagement d'honneur, pour me servir de l'expression employée par Lord Russell, que le Roi aurait pris, ont été immédiatement et consciencieusement remplies par lui. Même pour ce qui concerne le réglement sur l'usage des deux langues, qui, je le répète aujourd'hui, n'avait nullement été mentionné dans la correspondance de 1851, le Gouvernement a scrupuleusement gardé la même mesure, puisque les dispositions aujourd'hui en vigueur sont les mêmes qui, en 1851, ne provoquèrent aucune objection. Lorsque ensuite Lord Russell recommande l'extension des libertés accordées à la Diète Provinciale du Sleswig, le Roi a déjà, dans le discours de al Couronne de cette année, annoncé cette même intention. Toutefois, un tel développement ne pourrait être que l'œuvre de la libre volonté du Roi, et de même c'est Sa Majesté qui peut le mieux juger de l'opportunité d'une telle mesure. Le Gouvernement y procédera dès que la situation de la question Holsteinoise le permettra, et dans l'organisation nouvelle qu'il compte donner alors aux Etats Provinciaux du Slesvig, il suivra les mêmes principes libéraux qui le guident dans toute son administration, et principalement il les suivra dans la rédaction de la nouvelle loi électorale qu forme l'élément le plus indispensable de tout nouvel ordre de choses dans le Duché.

stitution commune, en tant qu'elle regarde le Royaume et le Slesvig. Je n'ai, à cet égard, rien à ajouter à ce que vous avez déjà dit au Ministre, et vous prierez sa Seigneurie de voir dans les explications que vous lui avez déjà présentées l'expression définitive des vues du Gouvernement du Roi.

Je n'entrerai dans aucun détail pour prouver combien peu est fondée l'objection que la Constitution eût dû être soumise au vote des différentes représentations spéciales de la Monarchie. Je l'ai déjà suffisamment démontré, mais quelqu'ait été l'avis de la Diète de Frankfort à l'égard du droit des Etats Holsteinois, j'aime à croire que, pour ce qui concerne le Royaume et le Slesvig, Lord Russell, tout en émettant un avis, n'entend pas méconnaître le devoir impérieux qui défend au Roi de se soumettre aux arrêts de l'Allemagne pour l'appréciation de ce qu'il doit à ceux de ses Etats qui n'appartiennent pas à la Confédération. Aussi peu que la Constitution commune est entâchée d'aucun défaut formel, aussi peu il serait possible de la remplacer par l'organisation dont Lord Russell a voulu esquisser les traits principaux, sans que la Monarchie fût dissoute et sans que cette intégrité même que le Traité de Londres avait pour but de sauvegarder fût gravement compromise. Dans sa depêche, Lord Russell a fait ressortir lui-même, avec une parfaite justesse, tout ce qu'une telle organisation comporterait de dangers pour des Monarchies étendues et puissantes. A plus forte raison il reconnaîtra sans peine, je le crois, que pour un Etat comme le Danemark cette organisation amènerait l'anarchie, et serait suivie de près du démembrement complet de la Monarchie. Le maintien de la Constitution commune, pour le Royaume et le Slesvig, est donc la question de vie et de mort pour le Danemark, et autant le Gouvernement est pénétré de cette certitude, autant il est déterminé à ne point s'écarter de la ligne de conduite qui lui est tracée par cette conviction.

Je vous prie, Monsieur, de donner lecture de cette dépêche au Ministre et de lui en laisser copie. Je suis profondémenent convaincu que, même en formulant les conseils que Lord Russell vient de nous donner, il n'a pas cru se mettre en contradiction avec les sympathies qu'il a toujours témoignées envers le Danemark. Cet intérêt sincère et le souvenir des antécédents politiques de sa Seigneurie me donnent le ferme espoir qu'il trouvera dans nos franches explications des motifs suffisantes pour ne plus s'arrêter à des propositions qu'il n'a pu mettre en avant, j'en suis certain, que parcequ'il ne lui est pas aussi évident que pour nous, que leur adoption préluderait à l'anéantissement de la vie constitutionnelle du Danemark et bientôt mettrait en question l'existence même de la Monarchie.

Sir, Copenhagen, October 15, 1862.

I think it due to the interest which Lord Russell has always taken in Denmark to reply without delay to the despatch, inclosed herewith in copy, which Mr. Paget communicated to me yesterday, and which has occasioned us the more surprise and regret inasmuch as Lord Russell had hitherto expressed views very different from those towards which he now appears to incline.

The Minister in his despatch begins by putting aside the question of the position of Holstein in the Monarchy as being no longer a subject under discussion. To us, too, this question appears to be exhausted, in the sense that its final settlement only depends on the arrangement of some points the necessity of which cannot be ignored.

Our attitude in regard to the demand of the Germanic Diet is clear and well defined. We have proved that the power which the Diet claims for the Holstein States of voting the common Budget and the common laws, in so far as they regard the Duchy, is as contrary to international law as the demand of it is indefensible in respect to the competency of the Diet. We have, nevertheless, declared that we should be ready to accede to it, whatever dangers to the integrity of the Monarchy it might involve, if the eventual position of Holstein could be defined in such a manner that the rest of the Monarchy would not be reduced to a constant dependence on Germany, and if by this sacrifice our relations with the Confederation could be re-established on a permanent basis.

It was to settle these points that we entered upon the present negotiations with Prussia and Austria, and the opinion which Lord Russell expresses on the necessity of this concession on our part is, I am convinced, accompanied by an entire approval of the two conditions which I have just pointed out.

With regard to the internal affairs of Schleswig, we might have hoped that our line of conduct was not less fitted to assure us the sympathies of the English Government. The intentions in respect to this Duchy which the King had on a former occasion spontaneously expressed, the engagement of honour, to use the term employed by Lord Russell, which the King had taken, were immediately and conscientiously fulfilled by him. Even in respect to the regulation as to the use of the two languages — which, I repeat, never was mentioned in the correspondence of 1851—the Government has scrupulously maintained the same measure, for the arrangements now in force are the same which in 1851 did not provoke any objection. Lord Russell next recommends an extension of the liberties accorded to the Provincial Diet of Schleswig, but the King has already, in the Speech from the Throne of this year, proclaimed the same intention. Such a development could not, however, take place otherwise than by the King's free will, and in like manner His Majesty is the best judge of the opportuneness of such a measure. The Government will act in this matter as soon as the state of the Holstein question permits it, and in the new organization it proposes then to give to the Provincial Estates of Schleswig, it will follow the same liberal principles which guide it in the whole of its administration, and will especially do so in framing the new electoral law which, by universal consent, is the most indispensable element of any new order of things in the Duchy.

Lord Russell enters, finally, on the question of the common Constitution in so far as it concerns the Kingdom and Schleswig. I have nothing in this respect to add to what you have already said to the Minister, and you will beg his Lordship to look upon the explanations which you have already given him as the final expression of the views of the King's Government.

I will not enter into any detail to prove how unfounded is the objection that the Constitution ought to have been submitted to the vote of the different special representations of the Monarchy. I have already sufficiently demonstrated it; but, whatever may have been the opinion of the Diet of Frankfort in respect to the right of the Holstein States, I trust that, in what concerns the Kingdom and Schleswig, Lord Russell, while expressing an opinion, does not intend to ignore the imperious duty which forbids the King to submit to the decrees of Germany in estimating what he owes to those of his States which do not belong to the Confederation. So little as the common Constitution is defaced by any defect in form, so little would it be possible to substitute the organisation of which Lord Russell has endeavoured to sketch the principal outlines, without the Monarchy being dissolved, and that very integrity which it was the object of the Treaty of London to maintain being seriously compromised. Lord Russell himself has, in his despatch, shown, with perfect justice, all the dangers that such an organization would entail on great and powerful Monarchies; with still more reason he will, I believe, readily admit that, for a State like Denmark, this organization would produce anarchy, and would shortly be followed by the entire dismemberment of the Monarchy. The maintenance of the common Constitution for the Kingdom and for Schleswig is, therefore, the question of life and death for Denmark; and as the Government is convinced of this, so is it resolved not to depart from the line of conduct prescribed to it by such a conviction.

I beg you, Sir, to read this despatch to the Minister, and to give him a copy of it. I am firmly convinced that, even in drawing up the advice which he has just given us, Lord Russell did not believe that he was acting in contradiction to the sympathies which he has always shown for Denmark. This sincere interest, and the political antecedents of his Lordship, afford me a firm hope that he will find in our frank explanations sufficient reasons for not adhering to propositions which I am sure he can only have put forward because it is less evident to him than to us that their adoption would be the prelude of the extinction of Constitutional life in Denmark, and would soon jeopardize the very existence of the Monarchy.

I have, &c.

M. Bismark to Count Bernstorff.—(Communicated to Earl Russell by Count Bernstorff, October 30.)

(Translation.) Berlin, October 27, 1862.

YOUR Excellency is already cognizant of the despatch which the British Secretary of State for the Foreign Department wrote on the 24th ultimo to Mr. Lowther, communicating his views as to the manner in which the long-pending dispute between Germany and Denmark might be terminated. A like communication was sent to Vienna, and Lord Russell has recommended his views, and the propositions grounded upon them, to the consideration of the two great German Powers. It is not necessary to assure you that this consideration will be fully given to them by us. It is true that this difference essentially relates to nothing more than the performance of requisitions settled by Treaty between Germany and Denmark. But we understand the desire of friendly Powers to see the settlement of a dispute which in its further developments might certainly lead to very serious results, as it is impossible, as your Excellency is aware, that Germany should yield up claims which are most intimately bound up with the whole of her political position. If, in the interests of peace, we hold it to be our duty seriously to examine every view offered to us upon the solution of this weighty question, a proposition from England especially has the fullest claim to our searching consideration.

I am rejoiced to be able at the outset to express the conviction that Earl Russell's despatch, particularly the four points in which the propositions are summed up at the close, contains the basis for coming to an understanding, provided that they be unreservedly accepted by the Danish Government, and then carried out also, in a suitable manner.

We do not, it is true, conceal from ourselves that the propositions of Lord Russell do not strictly turn upon the basis of the agreements of 1851 and 1852.

No one could make it a reproach to us if we should simply insist that Denmark also should absolutely not deviate from this basis, and that in case Denmark should declare herself unable to fulfil the obligations she has contracted, all existing obligations would then cease for us also, and from that moment the ancient right, for which an equivalent was offered, but not guaranteed, to us, might be the only basis of our demands and acts. But, however, we can gather in the propositions of Lord Russell also a means of securing the essential objects and interests which prevailed in the negotiations of 1851 and 1852; and it is in consideration of this, and in our sincere wish for the maintenance of peace, that we find the justification of our efforts to reach our object in a somewhat devious way.

We must, first of all, thank the British Secretary of State for having simplified the question by discarding all those points upon which there remains no dispute. In this respect we fully concur with him, and we have always most deeply regretted that we were compelled to go back to circumstances which should have been clear of themselves; the acknowledgment contained in the despatch of the 24th September will dispense with our doing so for the future.

The first of these points referred to, which negatives the levy of taxes, or the enacting of laws in Holstein and Lauenburg, without the assent of the States, is in accordance with the conditions set up by the well-known Federal Resolutions for the immediate provisional situation, the discontinuance of which we have shown to be necessary, if Federal measures are to be averted. As the British Secretary of State declares that this is decided by the Federal Resolutions, he shows that he perfectly understands this part of the question to be a matter purely appertaining to the Confederation.

The second point, relative to the nullity of the collective Constitution of 1855, is also clearly conceived. This nullity is a condition of the exclusion of Schleswig from the Reichsrath, and it is expressly stated also in the second of the recapitulating paragraphs at the close of the despatch. It would be difficult for the Cabinet of Copenhagen to oppose these simple statements of facts by any deductions, however ingenious.

And, lastly, the third of these points, which expresses the independence and freedom of the Kingdom of Denmark to impose taxes and to legislate for itself, is a matter of course, and is so understood by us. We have always been very far from claiming a right for the Duchies to interpose in the affairs of the kingdom.

After Earl Russell has thus put away those elements which have but too much contributed to obscure the whole affair, he proceeds to lay down his direct ("positiv") propositions in regard to the two great questions—upon the position of Schleswig, and upon the ordering of such relations in the different parts of the monarchy as imply, in some form, a common action.

In speaking of the first of these two points, we will not argue upon the designation of the obligations of Denmark as being that of a debt of honour; we certainly look upon the performance of Treaty obligations as being also a debt of honour.

Here again also Lord Russell brings forward clearly the two essential parts: the security of Schleswig against incorporation, and the protection of German nationality in the Duchies; and he believes that a suitable remedy for both is to be found in a complete autonomy of the Duchy, by which it would stand in no nearer a political relation to the Kingdom than to the other territories in the Monarchy, and would have to decide independently upon all the points regarding which Danish encroachments have up to this time given occasion for such just and hitherto such fruitless complaints; complaints resting upon such notorious facts that a superintendence, such as we have neither exercised nor claimed, was not required to prove their reality.

We declare ourselves to be fully in accordance with the propositions of Lord Russell; but they will certainly not attain their object unless they be carried out with perfect sincerity on the part of His Majesty the King of Denmark; unless the system of Danish arbitrariness ("Vergewaltigung") which has hitherto prevailed in Schleswig be really terminated; and unless a guarantee be given for a perfectly free election and voting of the Assembly of States, which is to decide upon all the given points. This is a matter which is quite self-evident, and it will indeed appear so to the British Secretary of State; but frequent and sad experience unfortunately compels us again to mention it, and urgently to recommend it to the attention of Earl Russell.

The despatch finally treats of what it designates, justly, as the most difficult and complicated point of the whole affair; namely, the ordering of common financial matters.

In this point, also, I can but declare myself to be in accordance with the propositions as they are contained in the third and fourth summary paragraphs at the close of the despatch. The union with the States of the several territories of the Monarchy for a normal Budget, and free voting, by the same States, for extraordinary expenses going beyond it, corresponds, in our view, with the rights and interests of those territories, as also with the wants of the whole body; and it will, I should suppose, find no objection on the part of the Duchies themselves. If the Danish Government accepts without reserve these points, together with the two first mentioned, it will be possible to determine, also, by a further agreement, a suitable form for ordering the expenses appertaining to the common body. The plan intimated in Earl Russell's despatch of paying and distributing the normal Budget, with the co-operation of a Council of State, may offer, I am of opinion, the connecting point ("Anknüpfung") for such agreement, if in this the principle be strictly adhered to, that each of the territories be secured from an unjust preponderance of the rest.

In expressing, therefore, our assent to the four paragraphs in which the British Secretary of State sums up his propositions, I need hardly add the observation that we can speak at present in our individual name only. We have now no express mandate from the Confederation, and can neither prejudge its views nor dispose of its rights. But it is likewise a matter of course that if Lord Russell's propositions be accepted by the Danish Government, we shall also represent our view to the Confederation, and exert ourselves to obtain thereto the consent of our Federal colleagues. Should this endeavour to come to an understanding be frustrated by the failure of a corresponding move on the part of the Danish Government, the Agreements of 1851 and 1852, and the rights and claims of Germany, naturally remain in full force.

I request your Excellency to express yourself in this sense to the British Secretary of State, and, at the same time, I authorize you to give him a copy of this despatch.

Accept, &c.

(Traduction.)

M. le Comte, Vienne, le 29 Octobre, 1862.

MR. JULIAN FANE m'a communiqué la dépêche ci-jointe en copie, que le Principal Secrétaire d'Etat pour les Affaires Etrangères lui a adressée par ordre de Sa Majesté la Reine, afin de rendre plus facile d'arriver à un arrangement final du différend qui subsiste entre l'Allemagne et le Danemark.

Ainsi que vous le verrez par cette pièce, Lord Russell, comme introduction à ses propositions, désigne d'abord les points dans lesquels, selon sa conviction, les discussions qui ont eu lieu jusqu'ici ont livré un résultat incontestable. Il considère comme parfaitement établi :—

1. Que dans le Holstein et le Lauenbourg aucune loi ne peut être décrétée et aucun impôt levé sans le consentement des Etats de ces Duchés.

2. Que la Constitution générale du Royaume du 2 Octobre, 1855, déjà formellement suspendu pour le Holstein et le Lauenbourg, doit nécessairement être et rester sans effet aussi pour le Slesvig.

3. Que le Royaume de Danemark, proprement dit, a le droit de se donner les lois et de se décréter des impôts indépendamment de l'assentiment des Duchés.

Lord Russell a tracé ensuite les lignes fondamentales d'un plan d'après lequel la question de la position du Slesvig, aussi bien que le problème compliqué de l'établissement d'une Constitution commune pour toute la Monarchie Danoise, doivent être résolus à la satisfaction des deux parties.

Ces lignes fondamentales sont résumées par le Principal Secrétaire d'Etat dans les quatre points suivants :—

1. Les Duchés de Holstein et de Lauenbourg doivent obtenir tout ce que la Confédération Germanique a demandé pour eux.

2. Le Slesvig doit avoir le droit de jouir de son autonomie et il ne doit pas être représenté dans le Conseil du Royaume ("Reichsrath").

3. Un Budget normal doit de dix en dix ans être voté par les quatre Corps Représentatifs du Danemark, du Holstein, du Lauenbourg, et du Slesvig.

4. Les dépenses communes extraordinaires doivent être approuvées également par la Diète Danoise ("Reichstag") et par les Etats des trois Duchés.

Après avoir examiné attentivement cette importante communication, et après nous être concertés avec la Cour de Prusse, à laquelle le Cabinet de Londres a fait parvenir les mêmes ouvertures, je réponds par les observations suivantes au désir de Lord Russell de connaître nos vues sur son plan d'arrangement.

Après une longue et infructueuse discussion entre les Puissances Allemandes et le Cabinet de Copenhague, le Gouvernement Impérial a acquis la conviction que pour trouver la clef d'une solution finale des complications subsistant jusqu'à ce jour, il faut maintenant avant tout persuader le Danemark de l'impossibilité de conserver comme un lien unissant entr'elles les autres parties seulement de la Monarchie la Constitution Générale du 2 Octobre, 1855, qui a été établie contrairement aux Conventions de 1851 et 1852, et qui a déjà été abolie pour le Holstein et le Lauenbourg. Ceci formait le point principal de notre Mémorandum du mois d'Août.

Nous éprouvons donc une satisfaction particulière en voyant la Grande Bretagne partager ce point de vue, et en en prenant acte je n'hésite pas à exprimer la conviction que le Gouvernement Britannique aura le mérite d'avoir contribué fortement à l'apaisement d'un différend menaçant pour le repos de l'Europe, s'il amène le Gouvernement Danois, qui a tant de motifs de tenir compte des conseils de l'Angleterre, à renoncer définitivement aussi pour le Slesvig à la Constitution de 1855.

Il n'est pas moins satisfaisant pour nous que Lord Russell reconnaisse entièrement le droit de la Confédération Germanique de trancher en dernier ressort par ses décisions les questions concernant le Holstein et le Lauenbourg qui sont pendantes à Francfort.

Nous sommes, de notre côté, loin de contester que le Royaume de Danemark proprement dit ne puisse user de ses droits particuliers en matière de législation et d'impôts sans être lié au consentiment des Corps Représentatifs des Duchés.

Nous nous félicitons donc de nous trouver entièrement d'accord avec le Gouvernement Britannique quant aux points qu'il admet comme placés hors de toute discussion ultérieure. Nous nous empressons d'ajouter que pour notre part nous sommes également disposés à voir dans les propositions positives qui forment la seconde partie de la dépêche de Lord Russell une base convenable et équitable pour la solution définitive du différend Dano-Germanique.

Pour couvrir la responsabilité du Gouvernement Impérial, je dois cependant observer que dans cette affaire l'intercession d'une Puissance tierce doit trouver ses limites dans le droit de la Confédération Germanique, reconnu par Lord Russell lui-même en tant qu'il est question d'une affaire intérieure de l'Allemagne, d'agir conformément aux lois de la Confédération, indépendamment de toute immixtion étrangère.

Je dois de plus rappeler que les Cabinets de Vienne et de Berlin n'ont pas de mandat précis pour négocier au nom de la Confédération Germanique, et qu'ils ne sont donc pas à même d'accepter un changement quelconque à l'état légal de la question sans l'assentiment de la Confédération.

Les quatre points posés par Lord Russell comme base d'un arrangement ne concordent pas entièrement avec les stipulations de 1851 et 1852, desquelles la Confédération fait dériver ses demandes, et il n'appartient pas aux Gouvernements d'Autriche et de Prusse d'accepter, en vertu de leur propre décision, au lieu de l'exécution exacte de ces stipulations, une proposition qui n'est pas parfaitement identique à ces stipulations.

Les deux Gouvernements doivent se borner à exprimer leur opinion individuelle sur la question de savoir s'ils jugent cette base, ainsi modifiée, admissible pour la Confédération, et s'ils peuvent plaider en sa faveur auprès de leurs confédérés Allemandes. Cela posé, je n'hésite pas à déclarer que d'après le sentiment du Cabinet Impérial les droits et les intérêts qu'il a le devoir de défendre dans l'affaire en question pourraient être sauvegardés par la mise à exécution franche et complète des quatre points posés par le Cabinet de Londres tout aussi efficacement que par l'exécution des stipulations de 1851 et 1852. Le Gouvernement Impérial, dans son amour de la paix, ne peut surement qu'accompagner de ses meilleurs vœux une proposition d'accommodement sur laquelle il porte ce jugement, et qui a pour elle l'autorité de l'Angleterre. Dans l'intérêt du succès désiré, le Gouvernement Impérial croit d'ailleurs ne pas pouvoir assez recommander que le même esprit d'équité envers les différentes parties de la Monarchie Danoise qui se montre incontestablement dans les quatre points susmentionnés, préside aussi au traitement des questions qui demanderont à être réglées, soit en dehors de ces quatre points sommaires, soit pour assurer leur mise à exécution. Lord Russell a indiqué lui-même une des plus importantes de ces questions, en recommandant dans le texte de sa dépêche l'institution d'un Conseil d'Etat commun.

Je conclus en répétant que les explications qui précèdent ne peuvent rien enlever à la force et à la validité des engagements qui subsistent entre la Confédération Germanique et le Danemark, et que bien entendu nous réservons non seulement à la Confédération, mais aussi à nous-mêmes, le droit d'en revenir uniquement à ces engagements si l'influence conciliante de l'Angleterre venait à ne pas atteindre son but par suite d'un manque de bonne volonté de la part de la Cour de Copenhague.

Vous voudrez bien, M. le Comte, vous exprimer envers le Principal Secrétaire d'Etat dans le sens de ces observations, et vous pourrez aussi placer à la disposition de son Excellence une copie de la présente dépêche.

Recevez, &c.

M. le Comte, Vienna, October 29, 1862.

MR. JULIAN FANE has communicated to me the despatch, of which a copy is inclosed, addressed to him by the Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, by command of Her Majesty the Queen, with a view to facilitate a final arrangement of the difficulty which subsists between Germany and Denmark.

As you will see by this despatch, Lord Russell, as an introduction to his proposals, designates, in the first place, the points on which, in his opinion, the discussions which have hitherto taken place have produced an indisputable result. He considers it as quite established—

1. That in Holstein and Lauenburg no law can be decreed and no tax levied without the consent of the States of those Duchies.

2. That the general Constitution of the Kingdom of the 2nd October, 1855, which has been already formally suspended as regards Holstein and Lauenburg, must, of necessity, be and remain without effect as regards Schleswig.

3. That the Kingdom of Denmark Proper has the right to frame its laws and impose its taxes, independently of the assent of the Duchies.

Taking these Articles as a point of departure, Lord Russell proceeds to trace the fundamental outlines of a plan by which the question of the position of Schleswig, as well as the complicated problem of the establishment of a common Constitution for all the Danish Monarchy, may be solved to the satisfaction of both parties.

These fundamental outlines are comprised by the Secretary of State in the four following points:—

1. Holstein and Lauenburg to have all that the German Confederation ask for them.

2. Schleswig to have the power of self-government, and not to be represented in the Rigsraad.

3. A normal Budget to be agreed upon by Denmark, Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig.

4. Any extraordinary expenses to be submitted to the Rigsraad, and to the separate Diets of Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig.

After having attentively examined this important communication, and having come to an agreement with the Court of Prussia, to whom the Cabinet of London has addressed the same proposals, I reply by the following observations to the wish expressed by Lord Russell to be made acquainted with our views of his plan of arrangement.

After a long and fruitless discussion between the German Powers and the Cabinet of Copenhagen, the Imperial Government has acquired the conviction that to find the key of a final solution of the complications hitherto existing, it is above all necessary to persuade Denmark of the impossibility of preserving as a bond of union for the other portions only of the Monarchy, the general Constitution of 1855, which was established contrary to the Conventions of 1851 and 1852, and which has already been abolished for Holstein and Lauenburg. This was the principal point of our Memorandum of last August.

We feel, therefore, especial satisfaction at seeing Great Britain share this opinion; and in taking note of it I do not hesitate to express the conviction that the British Government will have the merit of having greatly contributed to the settlement of a difference threatening to the peace of Europe, if it brings the Danish Government, which has so many motives for attaching value to the counsels of England, finally to renounce for Schleswig also the Constitution of 1855.

It is no less satisfactory to us that Lord Russell completely recognises the right of the Germanic Confederation to settle in the last resort, by its decisions, the questions concerning Holstein and Lauenburg which are pending at Frankfort.

We, on our side, are far from contesting that the Kingdom of Denmark Proper should not use its special rights in the matter of legislation and of taxes without being bound by the consent of the Representative Bodies of the Duchies.

We congratulate ourselves, therefore at finding that we are entirely in accord with the British Government as to the points which it considers to be removed from all further discussion. We hasten to add that, for our part, we are equally disposed to see in the positive proposals which form the second part of Lord Russell's despatch, a proper and equitable basis for the final solution of the Dano-Germanic question.

To cover the responsibility of the Imperial Government, I ought, however, to observe that in this affair the intercession of a third Power should be limited by the right of the Germanic Confederation, as recognized by Lord Russell himself, to act, in matters concerning the internal affairs of Germany, in conformity with the laws of the Confederation, independently of all foreign interference.

I should further recall to mind that the Cabinets of Vienna and Berlin have not precisely a commission to negotiate in the name of the Germanic Confederation, and are not, therefore, in a position to accept a change of any kind in the legal state of the question without the consent of the Confederation.

The four points laid down by Lord Russell as the basis of an arrangement do not entirely agree with the stipulations of 1851 and 1852, from which the Germanic Confederation derives its demands, and the Governments of Austria and Prussia have not the right of accepting, in virtue of their own decision, a proposition which is not perfectly identical with these stipulations, in place of their exact execution.

The two Governments must confine themselves to an expression of their individual opinion on the question whether this basis, thus modified, should be considered as admissible by the Confederation, and whether they can plead in its favour with their German confederates. This point established, I do not hesitate to declare that, according to the view of the Imperial Cabinet, the rights and interests which it is called upon to defend in the affair in question might be secured by the frank and complete execution of the four points laid down by the Cabinet of London, quite as effectually as by the execution of the stipulations of 1851 and 1852. The Imperial Government, in its love of peace, can assuredly not fail to give its best wishes to a proposal of settlement of which it entertains such an opinion, and which has on its side the authority of England. In the interest of the success which it desires, the Imperial Government thinks, moreover, that it cannot sufficiently recommend that the same spirit of equity towards the various portions of the Danish Monarchy which is incontestably shown in the four points above mentioned, should also guide the treatment of the questions which will require to be settled, either in addition to these four summary points, or to secure their execution. Lord Russell has himself pointed out one of the most important of these questions when recommending in the text of his despatch the establishment of a common Council of State.

I conclude by repeating that the preceding explanations can take nothing from the force and validity of the engagements subsisting between the Germanic Confederation and Denmark; and that, of course, we reserve not only to the Confederation, but to ourselves also, the right of reverting entirely to those engagements if the conciliatory influence of England should not attain its object from want of good-will on the part of the Court of Copenhagen.

You will be good enough, M. le Comte, to speak to the Principal Secretary of State in the sense of these observations; and you may also place at the disposal of his Excellency a copy of this despatch.

Receive, &c.

(Signed) RECHBERG.

No. 7.

Earl Russell to Mr. Paget.

Sir, Foreign Office, November 20, 1862.

SINCE my conversation with M. de Bille related in my despatch of the 11th ultimo, that Minister has placed in my hands the copy of a despatch addressed to him by M. Hall of the date of the 15th ultimo.

I am sorry to see, by that despatch (of which I inclose a copy), that the Danish Government show a strong repugnance to the adoption of the counsels given them by Her Majesty's Government. I am persuaded that the Danish Government have not sufficiently reflected on the evils of their present position, and have exaggerated to themselves the consequences which they think would follow their consent to the plan of arrangement sketched out by Her Majesty's Government. Her Majesty's Government, therefore, are desirous, with a view to the maintenance of the Danish Monarchy, and not to its dismemberment or its subversion, to point out more fully the obligations of the King of Denmark and the means of fulfilling them.

It will not be denied that the King of Denmark holds the Duchy of Holstein as Duke of Holstein, and Lauenburg as Duke of Lauenburg, and that in both capacities he is a member of the German Confederation, bound by its laws, and amenable to the authorities constituted by the Federal Act.

Neither can it be denied that, as Duke of Schleswig, the King of Denmark is bound to Austria and Prussia, and to the German Confederation collectively, as sovereign States of Europe, by certain promises made in 1851, and which (as M. Hall reminds me) I have always stated His Danish Majesty is bound in honour to fulfil.

Such being the position and such the obligations of the King of Denmark, I feel sure that M. Hall will agree with me when I say that no argument ab inconvenienti can be allowed to prevail against these positive stipulations and honourable engagements. It will not be enough to say that, by the arrangement which has been proposed, the march of the Danish Government will be retarded; and that it is difficult to obtain the sanction of Holstein to measures which the Danish Ministers think expedient: considerations of this kind must yield to the demands of justice, and to the good faith due from a Prince towards those with whom he has contracted engagements.

Taking, then, these obligations in this order, I must remind M. Hall that Her Majesty's Government have always declined to give an opinion upon matters belonging to the competence of the German Confederation. Speaking very generally, Her Majesty's Government see nothing unreasonable in a demand that no taxes should be imposed, and no laws should be binding, on Holstein which have not obtained the consent of the people of that Duchy, represented in the States thereof.

But, on the other hand, when M. Hall declares that the Danish Government are ready to accede to the demands of the Diet in regard to Holstein, "whatever dangers to the integrity of the Monarchy that concession may involve, if this eventual position of Holstein can be defined in such a manner that the rest of the Monarchy should not be reduced to a constant dependence on Germany, and if by this sacrifice our relations with the Confederation might be re-established on a permanent basis," the principle thus stated has the cordial assent and approbation of Her Majesty's Government.

Before I go further, I must ask you to state to M. Hall that it is with great satisfaction I find that, as regards Holstein and Lauenburg, no difference of principle will prevent the adoption of the views set forth in my despatch of the 24th of September. The differences, if any, will rather be on questions of detail.

We come, next, to the question of Schleswig, the real obstacle to a final and solid arrangement.

Upon this subject, also, there is little difference between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of Denmark as to general principles. M. Hall does not disavow the two principal Articles of the Declarations made by the King of Denmark, by which, in substance, he assured his people of the Duchy of Schleswig that that Duchy should not be incorporated with Denmark, and that his Schleswig subjects of German origin should be placed on an equality with those of Danish origin. M. Hall, I say, does not deny either the existence or the validity of these promises, but he maintains that they have been fulfilled.

M. Hall's words are:—"The intentions with respect to this Duchy (namelv, Schleswig), which the King had spontaneously expressed at the time, the engagement of honour, to use the term employed by Lord Russell, which the King had taken, were immediately and conscientiously fulfilled by him."

The question is thus converted into one of fact. The Cabinet of Berlin and the Germans generally have maintained that these engagements have not been fulfilled.

Some time ago a British Agent, acquainted with the country and with the language, was sent into Schleswig to ascertain on which side the truth lay.

His report, which was very detailed, and appeared very trustworthy, was to the effect that the inhabitants of Schleswig did not wish to change masters, that they were loyal to the Crown of Denmark, but that in many places the German inhabitants complained that they were obliged to attend church service in Danish, to send their children to schools where the teaching is in Danish, and that before their children could receive the rite of confirmation they are obliged to undergo an examination in the Danish language.

When I reported these complaints, the Danish Government replied that the parents might employ private tutors, and that their children might receive the rite of confirmation in German, although the examination must be in Danish. These replies appeared to Her Majesty's Government to be insufficient and illusory.

Among other instances, I reported, from information I had received, that the inhabitants of Schleswig were not allowed to sign more than three names to one petition; and that the liberty of the press, which exists to the fullest extent in Denmark, is not allowed in Schleswig. When these restrictions were mentioned to the Danish Minister in London, he did not deny the truth of these allegations, but justified them by urging the necessity of counteracting German aggressive agitation.

It has been my duty repeatedly to advise the Danish Government to remedy the grievances of Schleswig, to fulfil completely all the promises of the King on this matter, and thus to take away all pretext for German intervention.

In these representations Her Majesty's Government have acted in concert with the Governments of France and Russia; but these three powerful and friendly Governments have seen their advice neglected, and the oppressions and inequalities complained of but little abated. It has become necessary, therefore, to consider and to select some other course.

Such being the case, there are various courses to pursue:—

1. To allow the present state of uneasiness and danger to continue till it ends in some violent explosion.

2. To adopt a common Constitution, in which the German element would have more weight than mere numbers would give it.

3. To divide Schleswig into two parts, of which one to be German, and closely connected with Holstein; and the other to be Danish, and to be incorporated with Denmark.

4. To adopt a plan framed upon the basis which I have suggested.

The last of these courses appears to Her Majesty's Government the most favourable to the integrity and independence of Denmark, and, therefore, most in accordance with the Treaty of London.

M. Hall does Her Majesty's Government justice when he says that he does not believe I intend to renounce, or put myself in contradiction with, the sentiments of sympathy and sincere interest which I have always expressed for Denmark.

Her Majesty's Government, however, are bound to weigh the position of Denmark, uninfluenced by those passions which in the course of a long controversy may have gained an ascendancy among all parties in the controversy. Nor does Her Majesty's Government stand alone in its view of these matters, for Russia partakes the views of Great Britain, and France thinks them deserving of the gravest consideration. Her Majesty's Government can only, therefore, express a hope that the voice of impartial friends may be listened to, even amidst the storms of controversy; and that this long and bitter dispute may at last be terminated in such a manner as may be consistent with the honour and conducive to the interests of all parties concerned.

Her Majesty's Government trust that the cessation of this long strife may increase the stability and strengthen the independence of Denmark.

I request you to read and give a copy of this despatch to M. Hall.

I am, &c.

COPIES of Correspondence with Her Majesty's Minister and Consuls in China.

(Extract.)

My Lord, Peking, September 8, 1862.

I have the honour to enclose a circular to Her Majesty's Consuls in China, and a letter to Sir James Hope, the Admiral on the station.

The circular contains instructions drawn up with a view to prevent the Consuls from calling in the aid of Her Majesty's naval forces, in any case in which the lives and property of Her Majesty's subjects are not directly endangered. All other cases of breach of treaty are to be referred to the Minister at Peking.

Though, therefore, there may be cases in which it may be necessary for the Minister to call on the Admiral to act, he ought only to adopt this course in the last extremity, after having expostulated in vain, and after full warning of the steps he is about to take.

question at Hankow, is being satisfactorily arranged.

I have, &c.,
FREDERICK W. A. BRUCE.

To the Right Honourable Earl Russell,

(Circular.)

SIR, Peking, September 2, 1862.

WITH respect to the mode of dealing with cases in which the Treaty rights of Her Majesty's subjects are violated, I have to inform you that Her Majesty's Government has issued instructions that in no case whatever is force to be resorted to unless the security of British life or property is threatened.

In cases where there exists no such risk, you will represent firmly but temperately to the local authority that a right under Treaty has been violated, and you will demand redress.

When you have exhausted your efforts in vain, you will send me a detailed statement of the case, accompanied by the Chinese text of your correspondence with the local authorities. It is of importance that the case should be so complete as to leave no loophole to the Foreign Board at Peking for requiring farther information from the local authority.

It will be well to communicate officially to the Chinese authority that you are about to bring the case under my notice, should he wish to make any representation to his Government on the case.

I must warn you against the assumption that because a violation of right has been committed, you are justified in obtaining redress for it by force. The Consul is not entitled to call in the aid of Her Majesty's naval forces except in the cases above alluded to. Illegal exactions, to levy which sailing craft are sometimes detained, which detention has been frequently removed by calling in the aid of Her Majesty's naval forces, can always be paid under protest, and the necessity of violent proceedings be thus avoided.

The desirable object to be attained is that of forcing the local officials to observe the Treaty, and protect Her Majesty's subjects in the exercise of their privileges, through the pressure brought to bear upon them by the Peking Government, and thus to escape from the false position in which we have hitherto been placed, of coercing the local authorities and people, and thus doing the work of the Imperial Government. The Government must be made to feel that the responsibility of the acts of its officers falls upon it. To initiate this new system of relations is a task which can only be effected gradually and patiently, but the attempt must be steadily and perseveringly made, in order that the Chinese Government may be forced to teach its people that treaties are recognised by it as the laws which are to regulate the relations of Chinese with foreigners.

I am, Sir, &c.,

(Signed) F. W. A. BRUCE.

To Her Majesty's Consuls in China.

SIR, Peking, September 6, 1862.

I THINK it advisable to transmit to you copy of a circular which I have addressed to Her Majesty's Consuls in China, pursuant to instructions I have received from Her Majesty's Government.

The principle laid down for their guidance is, that redress for illegal acts is not to be sought for by force by the Consul, unless the lives and property of Her Majesty's subjects, at the ports, are endangered by violence. When illegal exactions are levied, they are to be paid under protest, and in such cases, as well as in the numerous instances of evasion and delay, practised by the provincial authorities, the particulars are to be reported to me; and I shall endeavour, before proceeding further, to obtain satisfaction in a regular manner, through the Imperial Government.

It is very desirable that the Chinese Government should be induced to force its officers to act up to the spirit of the treaty with Great Britain, so as to relieve the Naval Commander-in-Chief from the necessity of constantly stationing vessels of war up the unhealthy rivers in China; and I think there is more likelihood of obtaining this result, and of foreigners acting in a considerate and courteous manner, if they find that the Consul is not empowered to support them by an appeal to Her Majesty's naval forces, unless in exceptional cases. In the existing state of China, it may sometimes be necessary to bring a perverse provincial authority to reason by a menacing demonstration, but this step should not be taken until I have had the opportunity of trying the effect of remonstrances at Peking. If they fail, I shall apply to the Admiral, who will be able to judge on a full statement of the circumstances, how far the presence of a superior officer, or of a more imposing force, may be required to bring the matter in question to a satisfactory conclusion. In short, except in the case of immediate danger to life and property, I do not think that proceedings of the nature of reprisals, or acts of war, should be taken without previous reference to the Minister.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) F. W. A. BRUCE.

Vice Admiral Sir James Hope,

Foreign Office,
November 25, 1862.

SIR,

HER Majesty's Government entirely concur in your views as to the inexpediency of Her Majesty's Consuls calling for the aid of Her Majesty's naval forces in the case of disputed questions with the local authorities which admit of being referred to you at Pekin, and they approve the Circular which you have addressed to her Majesty's Consuls on this subject.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) RUSSELL.

To the Honourable F. W. A. Bruce, C.B.

Foreign Office,
June 16, 1862.

SIR,

WITH reference to your despatch to Mr. Bruce of the 20th of March, in which you state that no attempt had been made by the Taeping authorities at Ningpo to organise any political or commercial institutions, I am directed by Earl Russell to call your attention to a statement which has been made in this country, that the Taeping authorities at Ningpo have established a regular Custom House, and published a Customs' Tariff; and I am to instruct you, if that is the case, to send to this Office a copy of such tariff, and a report as to the manner in which the Custom House is carried on, the amount of trade, and the mode in which the tariff is enforced.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) E. HAMMOND.

Mr. Consul Harvey,
Ningpo.

Her Majesty's Consulate,
Ningpo, China, Sept. 10, 1862.

SIR,

I HAVE had the honour to receive your despatch of the 16th June last, in which you call my attention to a statement which has been made in England, that the Taepings, whilst in the possession of Ningpo, had established a regular Custom House, and published a Customs' Tariff, and instructing me, by direction of Earl Russell, should that be the case, to send to the Foreign Office a copy of such tariff, and to report generally as to the manner in which the Custom House was carried on, the amount of trade, and the mode in which the tariff was enforced.

I apprehend that the question relates solely to a foreign Custom House, and to a foreign tariff, in which case, I have the honour to inform you in reply, that no foreign Custom House was ever established by the Taepings at this port, no foreign Customs' Tariff was ever promulgated by them, and that, in short, Ningpo was a free port for foreign ships and cargoes from the 9th day of December, 1861 (when the city was captured by the Taepings), until the return of the Foreign Customs' Inspectorate, shortly after the expulsion of the rebels from their occupation of this town.

Had the Taepings shown the least inclination to establish a regular foreign Custom House, it would of course have been my duty to have reported to you, for Earl Russell's information, these first symptoms of a desire to lay the foundations of commercial institutions at this port, for, next to our personal safety here, during the rebel rule, the question of a Custom House was the most prominent consideration in my mind at the time, and one to which I gave much serious thought. As temporary masters of this port, and surrounding districts, I had fully decided on not disputing, in any manner, the right of the Taepings to levy duties on foreign trade; all I had proposed effecting, when the proper time came, being to watch narrowly and vigilantly that our merchants were not placed in a worse position with the rebels than they previously stood under the Imperial tariff; but that time never came, and consequently there was no call for the exercise of any vigilance on my part, the matter never having assumed any shape whatever, or any serious attempt having been made by the Taepings to organise anything so regular as a foreign Custom House.

I may, however, here mention that they did open a kind of Chinese office on the east side of the river, opposite to our "Concession," for the purpose of levying taxes on the few native boats, with trifling passengers and goods, which necessity compelled to approach that quarter of Ningpo; but from what I personally saw and witnessed, the arrangements pertaining to this office were made in the usual loose and hand-to-mouth manner which generally characterises Taeping institutions. It seemed to me that want and fancy settled and dictated terms more than the application of any fiscal regulations upon the Chinese who fell within the grasp of the rebels at that station. A peculiar feature connected with this pseudo customs' establishment was the fact that, after the day's labour was supposed to have been accomplished, the heads of the department, with their cash and daily profits in a bag, retreated with great precipitation into the city, hastily closing the gates after them, as they did not consider their persons safe outside the walls during the night. In the morning they reappeared at their office, where, having little or nothing to do, they were seen beguiling the long hours by gambling, the filthiest debauchery, and drinking, the last pushed to extreme intoxication. Two or three visits that I personally paid to this establishment were as much as I could bear, but they were more than sufficient to edify me as to the internal economy of the whole of the arrangements, to say nothing of the shamelessly obscene character of the worthies who presided over it. This was about the best and only attempt at administrative initiative adopted by the Taepings during their sojourn in Ningpo.

I have reasons for knowing that similar loose and irregular offices, or barriers, are set up in districts held by the Taepings in the interior of the country, at which native and other boats are stopped, and a duty of some sort levied on them and their contents. But, generally speaking (I am now stating facts, and not expressing opinions), a friendly and brotherly compromise is effected between the rebels and foreigners, one or two boxes of German percussion caps, for instance, tending to facilitate negotiations with wonderful rapidity. Foreign guns and muskets, pistols and powder, with ammunition of every description, are likewise in great demand by the Taepings; and these, it is painfully notorious, they contrived to obtain from disreputable foreigners here and at Shanghae (these arms, &c., being paid for by the rebels, at enormous rates, with money, silk, and other valuable produce, forcibly wrenched and plundered from the murdered and oppressed inhabitants of the interior), notwithstanding all the strenuous efforts of Sir James Hope and the British authorities in these parts to check and put a stop to this nefarious and disgraceful traffic.

It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that those foreign merchants in China, who are still engaged in these lucrative but shameful dealings with the rebels, should lament over the lesson given, in May last, to the Taepings at Ningpo, and that the agents or constituents of these merchants, out of China, should join in those lamentations, and view with particular distaste any coercive action taken against their profitable rebel clients. These foreign traders sagaciously conclude that it is not every year that a Taeping horde will be permitted to occupy one of our treaty ports, and consequently, that the easy terms and exceptionally gainful days of Ningpo, under rebel rule (without Imperial authorities, custom-house, or tariff) are not likely to return and flourish once more very quickly. Hence we have seen, as was indeed expected, a certain amount of obloquy cast by parties in China (very few in number, I am proud to add) upon the noble and humane proceedings of Sir James Hope and other public functionaries; such obloquy originating, of course, in the fact of the pockets of those merchants having suffered by our action and policy at this port towards the rebels, as well as by the long range at which those hordes are compelled to remain outside of Shanghae. It is, we all know and admit, in human nature to resent the loss of large profits; and for my part I am able, to a certain extent, even in this case, to enter into the disappointed feelings of those whose gains and perquisites have been considerably lessened by unavoidable acts of political interference.

But, unfortunately, those merchants are by no means alone in the field of the discontented. There are a few others, I grieve to add, of a far different stamp and character, and of vastly dissimilar pursuits, who also entertain, in China, an incredible bias towards Taepingdom and its tenets. And because that secret leaning is suppressed and unavowed, let it not be supposed that it does not fully exist in their inmost hearts, patiently waiting for its open avowal and more patent vitality, when the times and circumstances may seem less generally averse to the Taepings and their cause. Let us earnestly hope, for the honour of Christianity, that those times and circumstances may never be seen. In truth, I must confess that what my mind cannot embrace, what my comprehension is still unable to grasp, is this morbid sympathy, on religious grounds, alleged to be entertained, by the parties in question, for those Taeping miscreants. I find it so difficult a task to appreciate or even to understand that sympathy, that I am almost forced sometimes to disbelieve in its real existence, mentally placing its incentive on quite a different basis; for instance, upon a pedestal more terrestrial than spiritual in its nature. Be that as it may, however, I feel fully convinced that if ever the Taeping chiefs are seriously informed of this compassionate and Christian regard for their principles, it will not fail to afford them the liveliest entertainment.

Apologising for the length of this despatch, and for having intruded so much upon your valuable time, I have, &c.,

(Signed) FREDERICK HARVEY,
Her Majesty's Consul, Ningpo.

SIR, Foreign Office, June 26, 1862.

I ENCLOSE a copy of a letter to which Colonel Sykes has drawn my attention, as having been published in the "Overland Times of India," and which purports to contain an account by an eye-witness of atrocities perpetrated on Taeping prisoners, by the Imperialists at Shanghae. This statement is at once so horrible, and so revolting, as to be almost incredible; but I have to instruct you to report to me immediately whether there is any foundation for it.

And you will also repor to me whether any similar cruelties have been committed by the Chinese within the district of your Consulate.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) RUSSELL.

Mr. Consul Medhurst, Shanghae.

British Consulate,
Shanghae, August 16, 1862.

My Lord,

I HAVE had the honour to receive your Lordship's despatch, dated the 26th June last, on the subject of a letter published in the "Times of India," of May 13, 1862.

The description quoted by the correspondent of the "Times of India" is, as far as I can ascertain, a fabrication, and must have been the production of a person whose grossness and mendacity even a Chinese might be ashamed of.

The only notable execution of prisoners that has happened at Shanghae since the commencement of the proceedings against the Taepings, took place in February last of this year, and the description of the scene, given by an eye-witness in a letter to the editor of the local paper, was considered so exaggerated that it was at once contradicted by another looker-on, writing to the same journal. The first writer defended the truth of his statements in a rejoinder, but the general feeling of the community at the time was that the milder view was the correct one, and that the execution was not accompanied by any horrors not usual on such occasions in this country. It is possible that this very scene was the one the correspondent of the "Times of India" attempted to describe.

From my own knowledge of the Chinese, derived from an acquaintance of two-and-twenty years, I should say that as a race they are cruel and callous, where they have no interest in the victim save that of sport, revenge, or neglect. But I have never observed that the Government officials are more inhuman or barbarous than the rest of their kind, and I am sure that no one but a prejudiced or a casual observer could declare that the Imperialists are more cruel than the Taepings.

In the particular instance of prisoners taken in the late proceedings in this neighbourhood I can honestly aver that the Imperialists have, if anything, relaxed their usual severity in dealing with rebels and pirates. I have saved many captives handed over to me by simply requesting that they might not be beheaded, and I have passed over numbers of women and children found amongst the rebels by our forces to a benevolent Chinese institution licensed by Government, whose committee have undertaken to support and clothe the unfortunates till their friends could be found. I certainly have never heard of an instance in which women and children have been beheaded and treated cruelly, nor do I think such a thing probable, as the Chinese are not in the habit of punishing women, save when they are the proved relatives or accomplices of accused persons, and it is well known that the Taepings have only pressed or captive women amongst them. The Chinese, moreover, in all cases, even when the prisoners are captives of war, subject them to an examination in which wonderful care and trouble are taken to sift out the truth, and although this principle is often lost sight of, at the instance of a bribe or other powerful interest, yet it is perhaps more strictly adhered to in the case of trials of rebels, robbers, and traitors than in any other, as they are of that important class of criminals which inferior Mandarins have always to give a detailed account of to their superiors.

I have. &c..

H.M.'s Consul, Shanghae.

The Right Hon. Earl Russell,
H.M.'s Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

SIR, Foreign Office, June 26, 1862.

I ENCLOSE a copy of a letter to which Colonel Sykes has drawn my attention, as having been published in the "Overland Times of India," and which purports to contain an account by an eye-witness of atrocities perpetrated on Taeping prisoners by the Imperialists at Shanghae.

This statement is at once so horrible and so revolting. as to be almost incredible; but I have instructed Mr. Consul Medhurst to report to me immediately whether there is any foundation for it.

And you will also report to me whether any similar cruelties have been committed by the Chinese within the district of your Consulate.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) RUSSELL.

Mr. Consul Harvey,
Ningpo.

H.M.'s Consulate, Ningpo, China,

SIR, September 10, 1862.

I HAVE been honoured by Earl Russell's despatch of the 26th June last, inclosing an account, by an eye-witness, of atrocities perpetrated on Taeping prisoners by the Imperialists at Shanghae; and instructing me to report whether any similar cruelties have been committed by the Chinese, within the district of my Consulate.

The statement from the "Overland Times of India" is the first intimation I have received of these atrocities. It seems to me very strange that, living so near Shanghae, I should not, before now, have heard of them, considering that at the period of their alleged occurrence, there were two newspapers published in Shanghae. But, perhaps, it is even more strange that these barbarities were allowed to be perpetrated (so it is stated) in the presence of English and French officers (the eyewitness included), without the slightest effort having apparently been made by the lookers-on to check and otherwise put a summary stop to this butchery. Mr. Consul Medhurst will, however, be able to supply all necessary details as to the correctness and authenticity of the statement; and further be in a position to lay before his Lordship the fullest particulars bearing upon the subject.

As regards Ningpo and its districts, my despatches on late events will have conveyed to you all needful information upon this important point; I am bound to admit that Chinhai, Ningpo, and Yuyaou, have been recaptured, successively, under circumstances of great humanity, moderation, and soberness. No efforts have been spared by both Captain Dew and myself, to impress on the local authorities, in the strongest language possible, and at opportune moments, our firm determination not to allow the shedding of blood, or to countenance any of those acts of Asiatic revenge and gratified cruelty which have so often disgraced the Imperial cause. And as we spoke, so we acted. There were very few executions, and no torture of any kind whatever. In the half dozen cases of decapitations, real old rebels were the sufferers, traitors to their sovereign and country, and most wicked and dangerous criminals. I must add, for the credit of our local authorities, that they understood and fully appreciated our wishes and demands in this respect—and that they readily complied with them,—thereby rendering it needless that we should take the steps necessary to have them enforced.

I have, &c.,

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of DECEMBER 9, 1862.

Whitehall, December 8, 1862.

THE following Addresses of Congratulation to the Queen, on the attainment of his Majority by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, for Presentation, have accordingly been presented by him to Her Majesty, who has been pleased to receive the same very graciously:

Unto the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, your Majesty's most faithful and devoted subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, in Commission of the General Assembly convened, desire to approach your Majesty's throne with the expression of our sincere congratulations upon occasion of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales attaining his majority.

It is to us matter of joy and thankfulness that it has pleased Divine Providence to spare His Royal Highness, as well as your other children, to be a comfort to your Majesty under the severe bereavement with which it pleased Almighty God lately to visit you and the Royal Family, and also, as we confidently trust, to prove a solace and support to your Majesty under the manifold cares and anxieties incident to the Sovereign of this mighty empire.

We are more especially led to feel that, amid the countless benefits of your reign, your Majesty's domestic virtues constitute a peculiar claim on the affection and gratitude of all classes and races within the limits of your vast dominions.

It is our earnest prayer that His Royal Highness may be enabled faithfully to copy the bright example which has been set him by his illustrious parents; that he may be adorned with all those princely virtues and Christian graces which render kings objects of respect and affection to their subjects, and by which their thrones are established in righteousness; and that when it shall please the Supreme Disposer of Events to call your Majesty away from this temporal kingdom to that which is heavenly and eternal, the crown which you have so adorned may descend upon one who is altogether worthy to wear it; and that, treading in your steps, he may enjoy the same ardent loyalty and affection which your subjects entertain universally for your Majesty's person and government.

In the Prince of Wales we cannot but take a most peculiar interest; he is more immediately destined, though we earnestly trust at a far distant day, to exemplify, for the welfare and happiness of this great empire, those lessons of piety and virtue in which all the members of your family have been so faithfully reared; and we hail with unalloyed delight the prospect of his soon entering, with your Majesty's consenting approval, on a state in which are involved issues momentous, not only for our country but for mankind.

That your Majesty may be long spared to reign over us, and that your family also may enjoy the favour of Almighty God, and may to many generations sit upon the throne of this great empire, is the sincere prayer of,

May it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most faithful and most loyal servants and subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, met in Commission of the General Assembly.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointmemt, by

The two High Powers, moreover, reserve to themselves the power to introduce into the Convention, by common consent, any modifications which experience may show to be desirable.

ARTICLE IV.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London in one month, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

IT is hereby notified that Earl Russell, K.G., Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has received from Her Majesty's Consul at Vera Cruz, information that the Admiral in command of the Naval Forces of His Majesty the Emperor of the French, duly notified on the 8th September last to Captain Tatham, of

Rade de Sacrificios,
8 Septembre, 1862.

MONSIEUR LE COMMANDANT,

EN reponse à la lettre que vous m'avez fait l'honneur de m'adresser le 6 Septembre, relativement aux effets du blocus établi par la Marine Française devant le port de Tampico, j'ai l'honneur de vous informer, que je suis en effet autorisé, sous ma responsabilité, à temperer autant que possible les rigueurs de ce blocus, dont l'objet principal est d'empêcher l'introduction des objets de contrabande de guerre.

En consequence, dès que je pourrai communiquer avec Mons. le Commandant du Berthollet, je modifierai dans ce sens les instructions qui lui ont été données.

Il ne sera donc apporté jusqu'à nouvel ordre aucun obstacle à l'entrée des bâtiments neutres dans le port de Tampico, lorsqu'il aura été constaté que ces bâtiments ne portent ni objets de contrabande de guerre, ni passagers cherchant à débarquer dans un but hostile sur le sol Mexicain.

Agréez, Monsieur le Commandant, l'assurance de ma haute considération,

Le Vice-Admiral Commandant les Forces Navales de l'expédition du Mexique, (Signé) JURIEN.

September 8, 1862.

MONSIEUR LE COMMANDANT,

IN answer to the letter which you did me the honour to address to me on the 6th of September, relative to the effect of the blockade established by the French navy at the port of Tampico, I have the honour to inform you, that I am, in fact, authorised to mitigate on my own responsibility the rigour of the blockade, the principal object of which is to prevent the introduction of articles of contraband of war.

Consequently, as soon as I am able to communicate with M. le Commandant du Berthollet, I shall modify in this sense the instructions which have been given him.

Until further notice therefore, no obstacle will be placed in the way of neutral vessels entering the port of Tampico, when it has been shown that these vessels carry neither articles contraband of war, nor passengers attempting to disembark on Mexican soil, for hostile purposes.

Accept, &c.
(Signed) JURIEN.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ACT, 1858.

Notice is given in this Gazette by the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, that the Local Government Act, 1858, has been duly adopted within the township of Whitley Upper, the county of York.—Dated the 8th day of December, 1862.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of DECEMBER 16, 1862.

Whitehall, December 15, 1862.

THE following Addresses of Congratulation to the Queen, on the attainment of his Majority by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, having been transmitted to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, for Presentation, have accordingly been presented by him to Her Majesty, who has been pleased to receive the same very graciously:

To the QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

WE, the Provost, Magistrates, and Town Councillors of the Royal Burgh of Dundee, humbly venture to address your Majesty, on the occasion of Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, attaining the age of twenty-one years.

We, in co-union with all the other loyal subjects of your Majesty, felt as our own the affliction which so recently fell on your Majesty, by the death of one who had endeared himself to the nation, alike by his public conduct, as by his private virtues. And now, before the period of mourning has passed away, we desire to offer our heartfelt congratulations on the occasion of one who was brought up under the eye of so virtuous, learned, and talented a father, attaining the full age of manhood, and taking his place beside your Throne.

We are aware that in the mind of your Majesty, as in the minds of your loyal subjects, the gladness which so auspicious an event is calculated to excite, must be tinged with the shadow of the great sorrow cast upon it from the recent past. But we may venture to hope that your Majesty's grief will be mitigated, your anxieties lessened, and your labours decreased, by the presence beside you of a dutiful and affectionate son, fitted by his education and qualities to take part in your councils, and in the fulness of time to become the beloved Ruler of a great and powerful State.

We have to express our earnest hope that your Majesty may long be spared to govern the people on whose affections your Throne is placed; and that your Royal son may for many years gather wisdom in your Court, and be confirmed by your example in those habits of domestic virtue which have so greatly contributed to ensure for you the love of your people; and for which we shall, as in duty bound, ever pray.

Signed in name, and by authority of the Magistrates and Councillors, and the seal of the Burgh hereto affixed, the 13th day of November, 1862.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, December 22, 1862.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade, have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Minister at Madrid, enclosing a copy of a Spanish Royal Law, effecting a revision of the Spanish Customs' Tariff (based upon a new valuation of imports).

Board of Trade, Whitehall, December 22, 1862.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs the following translation of the articles of a decree regulating the entry, &c., of vessels, at the Island of Saint Croix, received from Her Majesty's Minister at Copenhagen :—

No ship or vessel arriving from or bound to any place beyond the Customs' District of St. Croix, or which departs from one Customs' District on the island to another, shall be allowed to communicate with its coasts, except at the public loading or discharging places in the harbour of Christiansted, and in the roadstead of Frederiksted, save when permission to do so, in accordance with section 5, has been obtained, or in cases of distress as mentioned in section 2. Neither shall it be permitted for any ship or vessel, on such a voyage, to enter any bay of the island, lie to, or keep off or on, or anchor off these coasts, except with permission, or in cases of distress, as before stated.

Communication with the coast of the island shall not only be considered to have taken place, when landing has been effected direct from the ship or by the assistance of boats or other craft belonging to her, or, when persons or goods have been landed from the ship, or when persons or goods have been taken on board from the coast, but also when any vessel or other craft from the coast runs alongside the ship, or any boat or craft belonging to her.

If any ship or vessel, in consequence of distress, or being short of provisions, or under other extraordinary circumstances, shall be obliged to enter any bay of the island, or to lie to, or keep off or on, or anchor off the coast, the master of such ship is bound to make a report on the subject, setting forth the cause of such proceeding, to the Inspector of Customs, at the first Danish Custom-house he touches at, in order that further inquiry may be instituted.

If, in the event of such distress, it should prove necessary to communicate with the shore, a signal of distress must be hoisted on board as early as possible, and such communication, by boats from the shore or by landing from the ship, must be confined to what is absolutely necessary, and evidence to this effect must be produced by witnesses, as far as circumstances will admit. If the vessel arrive from a place infected by or suspected as infected by contagious disease, or, if suspicious cases of illness have occurred on board during the voyage, the quarantine laws are to be strictly observed.

No boat, lighter, or other craft used on the island of St. Croix for pleasure, for fishing purposes, for collecting ballast or limestone, or for discharging or loading ships, or for other similar purposes, shall be allowed to have communication with the ships or vessels referred to in section 1, while they are under sail or at anchor outside the harbour of Christiansted, or the roadsted of Fredericksted, or with any ship or vessel sailing past the island, unless permission to do so shall have been obtained in conformity with section 5; or in cases of distress as stated in section 2. In the last mentioned case the person in charge of the boat or lighter shall as early as possible state what has occurred to the nearest quarantine officer or inspector of customs, without reference to the duty imposed by section 2 on the master, to make a report on the subject.

On the coast, beyond the towns, it is the duty of the quarantine officers to enforce the observance of this decree ; and, as soon as an infringement of its clauses or anything causing suspicion comes to their knowledge, they shall take such steps and precautions as circumstances may permit, until the arrival of the proper customs or police authority, to whom they have to make an immediate report on the subject. The proprietors and superintendents of estates on the coast are also required to report to the quarantine officer or to the customs or police authority, nearest at hand, as early as possible, any breach of the regulations laid down in sections 1, 2, 3, which may come to their knowledge.

When, in cases as those mentioned in section 2, communication between a vessel and the coast becomes necessary, all persons concerned shall, until it has been ascertained that the ship does not come from a place infected by or suspected as infected by contagious disease, and has had no suspicious case of illness on board during the voyage, use every precaution provided by the laws of quarantine, and more especially by the ordinance of February 8th, 1805, paragraphs 32 to 37.

As this decree makes no alterations in the regulations laid down in the ordinance of April 9th, 1764, cap. 4, section 5, and cap. 7, section 1; and in the law of June 30th, 1850, sections 1 to 15, nor imposes any restrictions on the rules now in force with reference to the superintendence of such ships by the quarantine, customs, or police authorities, so also shall the rules and regulations issued by, or that may be issued by, the Government of the Danish West India Islands, especially as regards the maintenance of order in the harbour of Cristiansted, and the roadtead of Fredericksted, in future have full force. The said government are authorised, when circumstances may require it, to allow exceptions to be made in the regulations stipulated in sections 1, 2, 3, and to permit customs' authorities on the spot, to sanction such exceptions, in accordance with rules to be stipulated.

Violations of the regulations laid down in sections 1, 2, 3, of this decree, shall be punishable with fines varying from 10 to 100 West India dollars, and any infringement of section 4, with fines varying from 2 to 20 West India dollars, provided no breach of the quarantine laws, liable to severer punishment, shall have been committed.

The ship, with reference to which the offence has been committed, shall be held responsible for the fine and the expenses incurred in consequence, unless it be proved that it has been used for such purpose without the knowledge and against the will of the owner or the master.

Questions respecting violations of this decree, are to be tried and judged as public police cases; but the master of police shall, before judgment is passed, submit a report of the enquiry held, and of the facts brought forward to the government, who have to decide whether the case shall go to judgment or be abandoned.

TREASURY WARRANT.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act for the regulation of the duties of Postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or Inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and to make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof.

And whereas further powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by another Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of Letters by Post, and for the regulating the duties of Postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post Office."

And whereas certain powers are also given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by another Act passed in the 18th year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled, "An Act to amend the Laws relating to the Stamp duties on Newspapers, and to provide for the transmission by Post of printed periodical publications."

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain Warrant in writing under their hands, bearing date the 20th day of December 1856, did order and direct, amongst other things, that all packets consisting of printed newspapers posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any of the respective countries and places mentioned and set forth in the second column of the Schedule C to that Warrant annexed, might be transmitted by the post from the United Kingdom to any of the respective countries and places mentioned and set forth in the said second column of the said Schedule C; and that all such respective packets should be so transmitted in conformity with, and under, and subject to the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions thereinafter mentioned and contained relating thereto, and that the single rate of postage for the transmission of such packets should be that which was mentioned and set forth against such countries and places in the said Schedule C. And that all packets consisting of printed papers other than newspapers posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any of the respective countries and places mentioned and set forth in the second column of the Schedule D, to that Warrant annexed, might be transmitted by the post from the United Kingdom to any of the respective countries and places mentioned and set forth in the said second column to the said Schedule D. And that all such respective last-mentioned packets should be so transmitted in conformity with, and under and subject to, the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions thereinafter mentioned and contained relating thereto. And that the single rate of postage for the transmission of such packets should be that which was mentioned and set forth against such countries and places in the said Schedule D. And that all such respective packets so transmitted should be subject to the several progressive and additional rates of postage thereinafter mentioned.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain other Warrant, under their hands, bearing date the 4th day of June, 1857, did order and direct amongst other things, that on every packet consisting of printed newspapers, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in Constantinople, and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the sea conveyance between France and Constantinople being by French packet-boat), there should be charged, taken, and paid an uniform British rate of postage of one penny. And that on every packet consisting of printed papers other than newspapers, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in Constantinople, and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the sea conveyance between France and Constantinople being by French packet boat), there should be charged, taken, and paid an uniform British rate of postage of threepence. And that on every such packet consisting of printed newspapers, or of printed papers other than newspapers so transmitted by the post as aforesaid, from Constantinople, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom, exceeding four ounces in weight, there should be charged, taken, and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as thereinafter mentioned.

And whereas it is expedient that the rates of postage now payable under the said recited Warrants on certain printed newspapers, and other printed papers, should be altered, and that certain other regulations should be made in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to us, in and by the said hereinbefore recited Acts of Parliament, and every of them, and of all other powers, enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, order, and direct, as follows :

1. That on every packet, consisting of a printed newspaper, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in the United Kingdom and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in any of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago, or the several places in Turkey, Syria, or Egypt, at which France maintains post offices (the sea conveyance in the Mediterranean being by French packet boat), there shall be charged, taken, and paid an uniform rate of postage of twopence.

2. That on every packet consisting of printed papers, other than printed newspapers, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in any of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago, or the several places in Turkey, Syria, or Egypt, at which France maintains post offices (the sea conveyance in the Mediterranean being by French packet boat), there shall be charged, taken, and paid an uniform rate of postage of fourpence.

3. That on every packet, consisting of a printed newspaper, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in Constantinople, and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the sea conveyance between France and Constantinople being by French packet boat), there shall be charged, taken, and paid an uniform rate of postage of twopence.

4. That on every packet, consisting of printed papers other than newspapers, not exceeding four ounces in weight, posted in Constantinople and transmitted by the post from thence viâ France, addressed to any place in the United Kingdom (the sea conveyance between France and Constantinople being by French packet boat), there shall be charged, taken, and paid an uniform rate of postage of fourpence.

5. That on every such packet, consisting of a printed newspaper, or consisting of printed papers other than printed newspapers so transmitted by the post, as in the first, second, third, and fourth clauses of this Warrant is mentioned, exceeding four ounces in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say :—

On every such packet, if exceeding four ounces in weight, and not exceeding one half of a pound in weight, two rates of postage.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one half of a pound and not exceeding one pound in weight, four rates of postage.

And on every such packet if exceeding one pound and not exceeding one pound and the half of another pound in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such packet if exceeding one pound and the half of another pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every additional half of a pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of two pounds, there shall be charged, taken, and paid two additional rates of postage, and every fractional part of such additional half of a pound in weight shall be charged as an additional half of a pound in weight, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such packet would be charged with under this warrant, if not exceeding four ounces in weight.

6. For the purposes of this warrant, every printed newspaper shall be deemed and considered a packet, and shall be charged and chargeable with a separate and distinct single rate, or separate and distinct progressive and additional rates of postage, according to the weight thereof, as hereinbefore mentioned, notwithstanding two or more newspapers shall be inclosed and transmitted in one and the same cover, wrapper, envelope, or bundle, and form only one parcel or bundle of newspapers.

7. That every packet which shall be transmitted by the post under the provisions of this warrant shall be so transmitted in conformity with and under and subject to the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions contained in and established by the said hereinbefore recited warrants of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date respectively the 20th day of December, 1856, and the 4th day of June, 1857, relating to the transmission by the post of the packets of printed newspapers and other printed papers therein respectively mentioned and authorised to be transmitted, so far as the same shall or may be applicable to packets transmitted by the post under the provisions of this warrant, save and except that packets consisting of printed papers other than printed newspapers transmitted by the post, under the provisions of this warrant, may have any matter or thing printed on the covers thereof.

8. That the rates of postage chargeable on printed newspapers, or other printed papers, transmitted by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall be in lieu of any rates of British postage now chargeable by law thereon.

9. That the respective packets transmitted by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall be subject to the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage, respectively, contained in a certain Warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date the 19th day of February, 1855, relating to redirected rates of postage, upon letters and packets which shall be redirected and again forwarded by the post.

10. That the term "a printed newspaper," used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning as the term "printed newspapers," used in the said Warrants of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date, respectively, the 20th day of December, 1856, and the 4th day of June, 1857, and that the term "printed papers," used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning as the term "printed papers" used in the said Warrant, of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date, respectively, the 20th day of December, 1856, and the 4th day of June, 1857, so far as the same shall or may be applicable to packets transmitted from the United Kingdom to any of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago or the several places in Turkey, Syria, or Egypt at which France maintains post offices, and from Constantinople to the United Kingdom, viâ France, and that the several other terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

11. The Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands duly made at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby fixed, or any of the orders, regulations, conditions, and restrictions hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates, orders, regulations, conditions, and restrictions in lieu thereof, and may, from time to time, appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

12. This Warrant shall come into operation on the 1st day of January, 1863.

Stirlingshire, &c., Militia or Highland Borderers.

The Queen has been graciously pleased to accept the resignation of the Commission held in this Regiment by Captain John Crawfurd Tait. Letter of acceptance dated 17th December, 1862.

Her Majesty has signified her pleasure that Lieutenant J. James, who absented himself without leave from the recent training of the Hampshire Artillery Militia, should be removed from the strength of the Regiment.

Regulations relating to the Registration of Post Letters.

WHEREAS by an Act of Parliament passed in the Session of Parliament, holden in the third and fourth years of the reign of Her Majesty, chapter 96, for the regulation of the duties of Postage, it was enacted by section 39 (after reciting that it might be expedient that certain Post Letters should be registered) that in case the Postmaster General should at any time deem it expedient that all or any post letters should be registered by the post office, the Postmaster General might, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, forward letters so registered without charging any additional rate for the registration thereof, or he might charge for any letter so registered, such rate of postage in addition to any other rates payable under the post office Acts, as the Postmaster General with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury should from time to time direct (but such registration should not render the Postmaster General or the post office revenue in any manner liable to the loss of any such post letters or the contents thereof), and that all registered letters should be delivered to the post office, and also be delivered by the post office at or between such hours of the day, and under all such regulations, in every respect as the Postmaster General should from time to time appoint, and the Postmaster General might therein require such registration rate to be paid on the letter being put into the post office. And, by section 60, it is further enacted, that in all cases in which the postage of any unstamped letter should not have been paid by the sender, it should be paid by the person to whom the letter is addressed on the delivery thereof to him, but if the letter should be refused or the party to whom it is addressed should be dead, or could not be found, the writer or sender should pay the postage. And that the now reciting enactment should apply to every packet, newspaper, and thing whatsoever chargeable with postage which should be transmitted by the post. And by section 63 it was also enacted that all post letters should be posted, forwarded, conveyed, and delivered under and subject to all such orders, directions, and regulations, and under and subject to all such conditions, limitations, and restrictions as to the form, size, dimensions, enclosures, or otherwise as the Postmaster General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, should from time to time direct.

in the tenth and eleventh years of the reign of Her Majesty, chapter 85, for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the post office; after reciting the said hereinbefore recited Act, it was enacted, inter alia, by section 10, that it should be lawful for the Postmaster General, and any officer of the Post Office to detain any letters which should be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of the said now reciting Act, or the said hereinbefore recited Act, or contrary to any regulations made under the authority of the said now reciting Act, or the said hereinbefore recited Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant which should be issued under or by virtue of the said now reciting Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the said hereinbefore recited Act, and to forward such letters to their places of destination, charged with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, should from time to time direct.

And whereas by the said two hereinbefore recited Acts respectively, it is provided: That whenever the order, consent, authority, or direction of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury is prescribed by the said Acts, such order, consent, authority, or direction (not being by Warrant), might be signified, either under the hands of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any three of them, or under the hand of one of their Secretaries, or Assistant Secretaries.

And whereas in pursuance of the said hereinbefore recited Acts, a system of registration has been established with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, whereby the public have been and are entitled to forward letters by the post at a certain charge or registration rate of postage, in addition to the other rates payable thereon; and it is expedient that such system of registration should be extended, and such registration rate altered in manner and according to the regulations hereinafter mentioned and contained, and that certain orders, directions, and regulations for that purpose made, and bearing date the 31st day of July, 1862, should be rescinded, revoked, and repealed.

Now I, Edward John Lord Stanley, of Alderley, Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, by and with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury: Do hereby rescind, revoke, and repeal the orders, directions, and regulations heretofore made, and bearing date on or about the 31st day of July, 1862, and do hereby by and with such consent as aforesaid, order, direct, and declare as follows:—

1. The registration rate of postage payable at any post office in the United Kingdom on Inland letters registered during the ordinary hours appointed for the registration thereof at such post office, shall be reduced from sixpence to fourpence, but this regulation shall not extend to the registration rates chargeable and payable on Colonial or Foreign letters.

2. All letters, whether inland, colonial or foreign, may be registered at the metropolitan chief post offices or at the London district post offices (including the Lombard-street and Charing-cross branch post offices) or at any provincial head post office in the United Kingdom, after the ordinary hours appointed for the registration thereof at any such post office, until the closing of the letter-box for each despatch, or until such post office is closed for the night, upon payment of a late registration rate of postage of fourpence, which shall be payable in stamps, in addition to the ordinary registration rate, and to any other rates chargeable or payable thereon.

3. All letters containing coin, posted in or addressed to London, or posted in any town or place in the United Kingdom, addressed to any other town or place in the United Kingdom, and transmitted through London; and all letters which shall have written or put thereon the word "Registered," or any other word or words of the like meaning, or to the like effect when posted, whether the same shall have or contain therein coin or not, shall be registered at the time of the same being posted, and a rate of postage of fourpence, for the registration thereof, shall be then paid thereon in stamps, in addition to any other rate of postage chargeable thereon.

4. If any letters, mentioned in the third clause hereinbefore contained, shall be posted without being at the same time registered, such letters shall, if observed, be afterwards registered at and by the post office, and shall be forwarded to their destination, charged with double the ordinary registration rate of postage, in addition to any other rates of postage chargeable thereon, with a deduction, however, equal to the amount of any stamps which may have been affixed to the letter, in payment or part payment of the registration rate.

5. Any letters in the 4th clause mentioned, which cannot be registered as therein mentioned in time to be forwarded by the mail for which they were posted, may be detained and forwarded by the next despatch.

6. The 3rd, 4th, and 5th regulations, hereinbefore contained, shall not extend to any letters sent to or from any of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country.

7. The term "London," used in the regulations herein contained, shall mean and include the city of London, and all places within the delivery of the chief post office in London, or any of the London or suburban district post offices.

8. These regulations shall come into operation on and from the 1st day of January, 1863; and as to all matters and things which shall have previously taken place, the said former orders, directions, and regulations shall remain and be of full force and effect, notwithstanding the repeal thereof, which is only to operate as from the 1st day of January, 1863.

Stanley of Alderley,
Her Majesty's Postmaster-General.

I hereby signify the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to the foregoing regulations.

F. Peel.
